GARFIELD AFTER TOBACCO TRUST

Preparing Report To Be Made This Summer.

May Be As Sensational As Oil Investigation.

Congressman Stanley Leading the Fight.

TO PRESENT FACTS TO HOUSE.

Washington, May 11.—[Special.]—Commissioner of Corporations Garfield, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, is making an investigation of the tobacco trust, and in some quarters it is claimed that its result will be little less sensational than that of the Standard Oil Company. Mr. Garfield will probably not be able to make a report before the present session of Congress adjourns, but it is expected that some time during the early summer he will transmit to the President his findings, and from that quarter they may be made public and prosecutions of the officials undertaken by the Department of Justice.

Several days ago Representative Stanley, of the Second Kentucky district, introduced a resolution calling upon the President and the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor to transmit to the House all information within their knowledge, showing that there exists a combination of the American Tobacco Company, the Continental Tobacco Company and the Imperial Tobacco Company, in violation of existing law. All facts which tend to show that the three combinations have interfered with the business of competing manufacturers through the infringement of patents or trade marks, or by adulterating brands of competing companies, were also asked for, with any other information tending to show a destruction of competition.

* * *

Stanley Leads Fight.

Representative Stanley has devoted much of his time recently to a personal investigation of the alleged trust, and he declared that he has information which will result in the Government's beginning prosecutions against the monster combination headed by James B. Duke. Probably next week, in a speech to the House, he will present information to the House which, with that furnished by Commissioner Garfield, will form the basis of prosecutions.

* * *

Has Proof Positive.

"I am prepared to state," said Representative Stanley to-day, "that there is within reach of the Government positive proof of the combination to prevent competition in the purchase of the raw material. There has been an attempt to drive the independent buyer out of business by having the three companies do business together. They have one buyer, one bookkeeper, and the proof furnished shows every indication of a combination. An investigation will show that the American controls the Continental and the Imperial, and that there is but one great trust. They have issued circulars admitting this control, and there will be evidence forthcoming to show that many so-called independent managers are controlled by the American Tobacco Company.

* * *

Drive Out Competitors.

Even men who have appeared before the Finance Committee in opposition to the bill removing the tax on leaf tobacco, while claiming to be independent, were really controlled by the trust. The trust has deliberately and wilfully infringed the patents, trademarks and even the packages of independent manufacturers, and have then given away their counterfeits in the localities where the independents had their trade, thus driving them out of business. In many instances the representatives of the trust have sent for independent manufacturers and have demanded that they turn over to the American Tobacco Company 51 per cent. of the stock of their companies. When they have been refused they have been threatened with destruction, and in more than one instance the threats have been made good. The trust, it will be shown, controls the output of licorice paste, an essential ingredient in the manufacture of tobacco.

* * *

Has Copies of Contracts.

"I have copies of contracts independent dealers have been forced to sign in which they agree to take but certain quantities of this material and at certain time. In the past five years the trust has increased the price of this paste 500 per cent. Employes of independent firms have been tampered with, and the investigation will disclose a shocking state of affairs. Duke has made good his boast that he would do for tobacco what Rockefeller has for Standard Oil. The American Tobacco Company is the sole buyer of leaf tobacco except the Regie contract sales. It controls the cigarette, snuff, smoking and plug sales and 85 per cent. of the entire business amounting to half a billion dollars a year. The trust has driven into bankruptcy 3,000,000 people dependent upon raising tobacco and an additional 1,000,000 of dealers.

"As long as the trust continues to oppose the bill taking the tax of six cents off leaf tobacco," concluded Mr. Stanley, "I intend to devote my time and energy to exposing its methods, and I expect to bring its officials to justice and some to the penitentiary."

SUCCESSOR TO LATE ARCHBISHOP CHAPELLE.

The Right Rev. James H. Blenk, Bishop of Porto Rico, Named For the Vacancy.

NO RECONCILIATION IN CASTELLANE CASE.

Paris, May 11.—The Castellane case was taken up again late this afternoon for the purpose of learning if it was possible to reconcile the parties. Both Count Boni and the Countess, formerly Anna Gould, of New York, appeared in court. The hearing disclosed that there was no chance of a reconciliation, the Countess insisting on an absolute divorce. This concluded the formal preliminaries. The Countess' bill asking for an absolute divorce will now be filed, the papers will be served and the case will proceed at an early date.

WAS IT BILL OR JOHN PAUL?

CARDIFF PAPER SAYS UNCLE SAM GOT WRONG BODY.

COACHMAN IN MAUSOLEUM AT ANNAPOLIS.

KILLED IN DRUNKEN BRAWL.

London, May 11.—[Copyright—Special Cable.]—According to the Cardiff Western Mail, which claims to have consulted the best archaeologists who are familiar with the circumstances and to have made an investigation of the archives in Paris and in Wales, the remains recently brought from France to America, and so signally honored by an escort of fleets of the two nations, are not the ashes of John Paul Jones, the naval hero, but are now positively identified as the remains of William Jones, a Welsh coachman.

Plain "Bill" Jones, as he was known, was a native of South Wales, having been born on the famous Pembroke estate. He was a groom to the English envoy in Paris during the French revolution, and met his death in a drunken brawl in a public house in Paris, near the stables of his employer. Even the house has been positively located, and is still standing, although remodeled.

He was buried without honors in the Protestant cemetery in Paris, and, according to the English authorities, will be pretty much astonished to wake up when Gabriel blows his trumpet on the everlasting morn' to find himself resting in a splendid mausoleum at Annapolis, across the Atlantic, after centuries of homage as one of the greatest fighting Admirals of the world. Indeed, so the English papers say, "Bill" Jones is likely to put up a pretty stiff fight to retain the honors, if he has at that late day any of his former pugnaciousness.

1,000,000 VICTIMS

PROBABLE NUMBER CAUGHT BY BOND COMPANY.

Statements From Former Employes Obtained By Post-office Inspectors.

Chicago, Ill., May 11.—[Special.]—Authorities in charge of the case against the defunct American Reserve Bond Company are of the opinion that there will be over 1,000,000 victims, direct and indirect, of the operations of the concern. Up to late to-day 468,000 accounts of the company had been discovered by the examining accountants, and the head accountant said the work had scarcely begun.

Statements from several former employes of the company have been obtained by Post-office Inspector Joseph Farrell. The evidence thus secured, it is said, will be used in prosecuting officials of the company. Details of the methods pursued in floating securities have been furnished to the authorities.

ROGERS RETURNS.

Partly Unsuccessful At Chicago, But Still Has Hopes.

Lexington, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—James C. Rogers, the receiver appointed by the Fayette Circuit Court for the American Reserve Bond Company, has returned from Chicago, where he went to present his claims as receiver to the United States Court. Mr. Rogers' claims have not been accepted by the Chicago court, but he filed an intervening petition, and fifteen days was granted for filing an answer to this petition. Within this period Mr. Rogers will return to Chicago to protect his interests. He has been put in possession of the assets of the company here and in Louisville, and is confident that he will win his case in the United States Court at Chicago. The creditors of the company, who are largely represented by the stockholders of the Southern Mutual Investment Company, are anxious that Mr. Rogers should be made receiver, as they claim that most of the assets of the company are in Kentucky, and the real headquarters has been at Lexington.

Cloverport Commencement.

Cloverport, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—The commencement exercises of the Cloverport High School will be held at the Methodist church on the evening of May 18. An address will be made by Prof. A. S. McKenzie, of Kentucky State College, at Lexington. The members of the graduating class are Misses Jennie Mabel Harris, Margaret Moorman, Ray Heyser, Jane Smith, Martha Willis, Maud Polk and Katherine Moorman.

PAPER TRUST KNOCKED OUT

Its Officials Make Surrender to Government.

Supreme Court Decision Was Finishing Blow.

Price of Paper Has Already Been Reduced.

COMPANY TO BE DISSOLVED.

St. Paul, Minn., May 11.—The United States Government to-day secured an unconditional surrender in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge Sanborn, of the Paper Trust, against which the Attorney General began a suit on December 27, 1904, to dissolve a combination between the general paper company and twenty-three other defendants on the ground that an agreement had been entered into by the defendants in restraint of interstate commerce.

Attorney Kellogg, for the Government, and Attorney Flanders for the defendants, were heard before Judge Sanborn, sitting as a Circuit Judge, and Mr. Kellogg moved that the mandate from the United States Supreme Court affirming the order that the witnesses must testify be filed. Judge Sanborn ordered the mandate filed. The witnesses then appeared before the Unitd States examiner and offered to testify. The defendants then withdrew their answers.

* * *

Decree Entered.

Mr. Kellogg announced that the Government did not care to examine the witnesses and moved for a decree in favor of the Government. Judge Sanborn ordered that the decree be entered for the Government for the relief prayed, and that the decree should be settled on June 16. The proceedings before the court and the examiner were then adjourned.

The three witnesses who refused to testify, namely, C. I. McNair, of the Northwestern Paper Company; A. C. Bousard, of the Itasca Paper Company, and B. F. Nelson, of the Hennepin Paper Company, paid into court $100 fine assessed against them for contempt of court for refusing to answer the questions put to them at a former hearing.

* * *

The Original Suit.

Suit was brought by Frank B. Kellogg and James M. Beck, special Assistant Attorneys General of the United States, on behalf of the United States against the General Paper Company and twenty-three paper manufacturing corporations in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan a year ago. The complaint alleged that the defendants, in violation of the provisions of the Sherman Act, entered into an agreement, combination and conspiracy to restrain trade and commerce among the several States and to control, regulate and monopolize said commerce. This was accomplished, it was alleged, by organizing the General Paper Company, of Chicago, with a capital stock of $100,000, divided into 1,000 shares of $100 each, which stock was divided among the paper manufacturing corporations in the proportion of their average daily output of paper, that each of the corporations thereupon entered into a contract, making the General Paper Company its exclusive selling agent.

* * *

Supreme Court Ruling.

The defendants filed answers, and testimony was taken for several months, most of the facts showing a combination being elicited from the officers of the various defendant companies. Finally the defendants refused to furnish any further testimony or to answer any questions, on the grounds that the testimony would tend to criminate the witnesses and the corporations and on the ground that the testimony was irrelevant and immaterial. The case went to the Supreme Court of the United States and was there argued on the 2d of January in connection with the "tobacco" cases. In both the paper case and the tobacco case the question argued and decided was that witnesses were not exempt from answering on the ground that their testimony would tend to criminate the corporations. The Supreme Court held that the evidence was clearly material; that the bill of complaint charged an unlawful combination and conspiracy, and that the testimony tends to show it.

* * *

Price of Paper Reduced.

The decision in this case really left nothing for the defendants to do but to submit to the judgment, and they to-day appeared in court, withdrew their answers and thereupon judgment was ordered for the Government as prayed in the bill of complaint.

This is a complete victory for the Government. The price of paper at the time this suit was brought was from $2.25 to $2.35 per cwt. The bringing of this suit has already had the effect of reducing the price of paper to $1.85. The result has been very beneficial to the newspaper publishers throughout the country. Competition will now be restored between the various mills.

COMPANY WILL DISSOLVE.

Goose That Laid Golden Egg Is Dead, Says Mr. Whiting.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 11.—A Journal special from Menasha, Wis., says: "George A. Whiting, first vice president of the General Paper Company, says that the company will now dissolve. When asked whether the office maintained in the Wells building, Milwaukee, and in Chicago would be closed, he said he believed there would be no offices hereafter.

"The newspaper publishers will find to their cost that they have killed the goose that laid the golden egg," declared Mr. Whiting. "The General Paper Company was an organization formed legitimately as a natural means for properly conducting the business of the companies comprising it. When you consider that coal and other raw materials have gone up away above former figures, you will appreciate the very favorable prices that were granted to consumers.

"Any man with ten cents worth of brains will see that this has been true. This yellow journal yawping about the General Paper Company has been absurd.

"You will doubtless hear a great many rumors about what we are likely to do. I do not know at this time whether one company will be formed or not to combine all the mills under one management. There have been a great many plans suggested."

ON ENTIRELY NEW LINES,

Company Will Be Reorganized, Says President Kimberly.

Appleton, Wis., May 11.—The General Paper Company will reorganize on entirely new lines, according to James A. Kimberly, president of the alleged paper trust. This decision is the result of a meeting held in Milwaukee yesterday when steps were taken to withdraw an answer to the Government. Kimberly would not say to-night how the company will avoid violating the anti-trust law, but he felt confident that such a selling agency can be organized without future fear of Government action. It is generally believed that steps have already been taken to form a new company to dispose of print paper manufactured in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan. It is said that the new company will include all mills which withdrew from the General Paper Company after the Government commenced suit, in addition to those who were members when the company was dissolved by court.

SUBPOENAS BEING SERVED.

Defendants In Drug Trust Case Must Appear In June.

Indianapolis, May 11.—Subpoenas in chancery are being served on the various defendants in the case of the United State against the so-called drug trust filed in the Federal Court. There are about 100 defendants. Those who are residents of this State—eight in number—are being served with subpoenas from the office of the United States Marshal in this city. The other subpoenas have been sent to the United States Marshals of the various districts in which the defendants reside.

The time set for the appearance of the various defendants by attorney is the first Monday in June. Their answers must be filed in the Federal Court in this city by the first Monday in July. The United States will then have until the first Monday in August in which to file a replication. Three months will then be allowed, if so desired, in which to take testimony.

PRESIDENT APPEARS IN MIDST OF FIGHT

STUDENTS AT CENTRAL UNIVERSITY IN FISTIC BATTLE.

GIVEN HEARING BEFORE FACULTY AND MAY BE EXPELLED.

FRESHMEN LOSE FLAG-RUSH.

Danville, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—Trouble occurred to-day at Central University between Owsley Grant and Charles Milner, both of Louisville, on the one side, and John L. Purdom on the other. It was not an outcome of the annual flag rush, but had been brewing for several days over some class affairs. The young men met this morning in the main hall of Central University and decided to settle their little misunderstanding "a la Queensbury" rules.

It so happened that President Hinitt was near and saw the whole proceedings and he immediately summoned the belligerents before a faculty meeting at noon to-day, along with several witnesses. The faculty is still considering the matter and will hold another meeting to-morrow, at which time definite action will be taken. There was also a meeting of the Junior class and a committee was appointed to intercede in behalf of the Louisville boys. It is now believed that their efforts will get the young men out of the trouble. However, that class will have another meeting should the faculty decide against them and outline what will be done. The young Louisville boys are popular and it is believed that the class will stand by them to the end of a general strike.

The annual flag-rush occurred this morning at Central University. The flag was placed in one of the tallest trees in the campus as early as 4 o'clock by four sturdy sophomores, who with their other classmen maintained it through the hottest and hardest fight of the kind ever witnessed, until 10:30 o'clock, when the freshman class gave up. Both classes were well wayworn, as it was a terrible struggle for supremacy.

VERDICT OF ACQUITTAL IN BECHTEL CASE.

Minneapolis, May 11.—Late this afternoon the jury in the case of W. F. Bechtel brought in a verdict of not guilty. Bechtel was charged with using the funds of the Northwestern National Life Insurance Company to pay personal debts, and with not keeping an account of the money thus used. The defendant was formerly president of the company.

Charged With Embezzlement.

Nashville, Tenn., May 11.—John G. Liver, local agent of the Marion Manufacturing Company, of Marion, O., was arrested here at the Union station this morning on a charge of embezzlement. A partial investigation shows that he is behind $6,280.

VOTES ALONG PARTY LINES

Senator Bailey's Amendment Voted Down.

He Accuses President of Gross Inconsistency.

Mr. Tillman May Say Something On Similar Line.

COURT REVIEW PROVISION.

Washington, May 11.—[Special.]—The Senate Republicans will likely get through with their compromise Railroad Rate Bill to-morrow, as they are voting almost solid and generally on their amendments receive more Democratic votes than they lose Republicans. The speech of Senator Bailey to-day supporting his amendment and plainly accusing, if not proving, the President guilty of gross inconsistency, attracted breathless attention. Senator Tillman may have the last word, and he will also pay his respects to the President. Senator Teller characterizes the bill that is to be passed as a ridiculous fraud. The Democrats are very much chagrined that the Republicans got together on the bill, but the Democrats should know by this time that the Republicans always do get together at voting time.

The only consolation the Senate Democrats have is that had it not been for their votes the House bill would never have gotten out of the committee. That is not much consolation to some of them, and one said to-day that he was dashed sorry that the Democrats in the committee voted to bring the bill out.

* * *

The Bailey Amendment.

Senator Bailey's nonsuspension amendment applying to orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission, as covered by the rate bill, which has occupied so much of the attention of the Senate in connection with that bill, was to-day adversely disposed of by the decisive vote of 23 to 54, practically a party vote. The debate on the provision was limited to a brief speech by its author, in which he said the President had changed his attitude on the question of maintaining the rates fixed by the commission until the courts reach a final decision.

An amendment offered by Senator Rayner confining the court review to constitutional questions was also voted down, but not until after speeches had been made by Rayner and Bailey in advocacy, and Allison, Fulton, Long and Cullom in opposition. The debate was in anticipation of the discussion that is expected to occur upon the Allison court review provision to-morrow. Messrs. Rainey and Bailey contended that the Allison amendment authorizes the broadest possible court review, and the Maryland Senator urged that in it Senator Aldrich had achieved a signal victory.

* * *

Along Party Lines.

A number of other amendments offered in the main by Democrats and by Senator La Follette were rejected. The votes were generally along party lines during the entire day, but the Wisconsin Senator voted with the Democrats on all propositions, and Messrs. McEnery and Morgan, Democrats, voted with the Republicans on most of them.

The only amendments accepted during the day were those offered by Senator Allison striking out the phrase "fairly remunerative" in the provision allowing the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix rates; limiting the operations of orders of the commission to two years and making the commission the defendant in suits challenging the rates fixed by it.

The anti-pass provision heretofore adopted was again discussed. It is evident that it will be modified.

MORE SHARP COLLOQUY

Between Senator Morgan and Mr. Cromwell In Committee.

Washington, May 11.—William Nelson Cromwell, of New York, counsel for the Panama Railroad Company, again was before the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals to-day. He explained in detail his work in buying the minority stock of the railroad for the Government, but declined to answer any questions relating to the affairs of the Panama Canal Company during the time he acted as counsel for that corporation.

Senator Morgan was the examiner, and he and the witness indulged in heated arguments over the right of the committee to compel answers. Before the subject was abandoned Senator Morgan said he would find a way to test the issue, and the witness replied: "I hope you shall, for you will learn more law than you know now."

The investigation will be postponed until after the passage of the railroad rate bill.

Mr. Cromwell will be summoned by telegraph on Monday or Tuesday.

ADJOURN TILL MONDAY.

House Makes Another Record In Pension Bills.

Washington, May 11.—After passing 320 pension bills, the House to-day devoted much time to considering a point of order made against an appropriation for a new steel floating dock provided in the Naval Appropriation Bill. Tawney, of Minnesota, made the point of order against the item. The chair held the point of order well taken in a carefully prepared opinion.

Mr. Hepburn, of Iowa, made a vigorous attack upon the court-martial system of the navy and especially criticised the officers responsible for the accidents that have happened to ships of the navy.

The House adjourned until Monday.

Fairbanks Is Fifty-four.

Washington, May 11.—Vice President Fairbanks was fifty-four years old to-day. He spent his time presiding over the Senate in one of the busiest days of the session. He received the congratulations of his friends in the Senate as well as many messages from friends throughout the country.

DOWIE'S ILLNESS NEAR A CRITICAL STAGE.

Fatal Termination of Disease In Two Or Three Days Is Not Improbable.

Chicago, May 11.—The condition of John Alexander Dowie is said to be nearing a critical stage. The venerable "First Apostle" has taken to his bed and his strength is failing. The swelling of the extremities, which is a noticeable characteristic of his affliction, is said to have extended within a few inches of the heart. Dr. Blanks, who has been in attendance upon Dowie since his return from Mexico, said that he might, by reason of his great vitality, live a week or ten days, but that a fatal termination of the disease within two or three days will not be surprising.

WITTE MEMBER OF COUNCIL OF EMPIRE

NAME READ OUT AT OPENING OF UPPER HOUSE.

MOUROMTSEFF HAS AUDIENCE WITH EMPEROR.

NO RESULTANT SENSATIONS.

St. Petersburg, May 11.—The new Council of the Empire, or upper house of Parliament was opened by Count Solsky, its president, this afternoon with elaborate ceremonies. After the session had been declared open the transaction of business began. It consisted of the announcement of the appointment of officers and the signing of the oath of office. The only surprise was the reading of an announcement that Count Witte was a working member of the Council, the omission of his name from the previous list having been interpreted as a deliberate slight, which the Emperor evidently took pains to correct. The unexpected appearance of the tall form of the former Premier at the door was the first intimation of the Emperor's action, and it created a buzz of excitement. The explanation of his appearance only came later when a ukase was read appointing Count Witte and M. Manukhin, former Minister of Justice, to be members of the Council of the Empire.

The hope of the establishment of friendly relations between the Emperor and the National Parliament was further strengthened to-day by the audience granted by Emperor Nicholas at Peterhof to Prof. Mouromtseff, the president of the lower house. Prof. Mouromtseff returned apparantly much impressed by the Emperor's earnest interest in the problems of the country. Though the Radical hot heads had been praying that he would lay down the law to the Emperor and make a scene, the half hour's conversation was skilfully guided so that friction was averted. To the constitutional democratic members of the House at the Constitutional Club, Prof. Mouromtseff spoke only briefly, laying especial emphasis on the Emperor's courtesy and consideration and his thorough knowledge of the sentiment in the Parliament and society. Prof. Mouromtseff said political questions were not gone into, as he had regarded it as not fitting that the president of the represenative chamber should present at an official audience the views of any one group.

DOWN TO VOTING.

TAYLOR AND CARMACK MEASURE STRENGTH TO-DAY.

End of Long and Bitter Contest For Tennessee Senatorship.

Nashville, Tenn., May 11.—[Special.]—The long and bitter contest for the senatorship, which began tentatively the day Frazier was nominated to succeed Bate, and actively last October, ends in the measuring of strength at the polls to-morrow. To-night the various campaign leaders are working the wires in every county to get out a large vote, and if the weather is at all propitious there is little doubt a large vote will be polled.

Carmack and Taylor have each devoted the last few days of the campaign to strengthening their lines in the larger counties. Knoxville and Memphis have each been visited, and to-night Carmack concluded his campaign with a big rally on the public square in Nashville. Taylor wound up at Jackson, in Madison county. Each of these gentlemen has made more than one hundred speeches. Nearly every county has heard them, and in some cases they have spoken twice in the same towns. Taylor hopes for a substantial majority in East Tennessee, in which section he was born, and also claims he will carry the middle division. Carmack is expected to carry West Tennessee. His managers say he will get Middle Tennessee also, and that Taylor cannot cross the mountains with enough lead to offset Carmack's majorities in the two lower divisions.

To an impartial observer, however, it would seem that the chances slightly favor Taylor, although Carmack has undoubtedly been growing in strength for several months.

The polls close at 4 p. m., and as the counting of the vote will be rapid, it is confidently expected the result will be known by 11 p. m.

Admits He Is $85,000 Short.

Newburyport, Mass., May 11.—James B. Felker, treasurer of this city, who was arrested last night charged with embezzlement from the city treasury, admitted to-day that his accounts are short not less than $85,000.

BAPTISTS MEET IN CONVENTION

Delegates Present From All Southern States.

President Stephens Delivers Annual Address.

Past Year Best In History of Church.

INCREASED WORK NEEDED.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 11.—The Southern Baptist Convention met this morning in the City Auditorium for its fifty-fourth annual session, with an unusually large attendance. It is estimated that there are 5,000 delegates and visitors present.

The Southern Baptist Convention is not a synod, conference or presbytery, nor does it have charge of any of the affairs of the various churches. The convention is purely a missionary organization and has only to do with the home and foreign missionary work of the church. The various churches have been organized into State organizations, which have associations and missionary boards, and these in turn form the Southern Association.

The convention was called to order by the president, Dr. E. W. Stephens, of Columbia, Mo. After devotional exercises the enrollment of delegates by States was made. An address of welcome on behalf of the city was made by Mayor W. L. Frierson.

Rev. Luther Freeman, of the First Methodist church, welcomed the visitors in behalf of local religious denominations, and President Stephens delivered his formal address.

President Gives Facts.

President Stephens declared that the past year had been the greatest in the history of the Baptists, and that the prospects of the denomination were never so bright. The convention, he said, comprised Baptists from fourteen Southern States, covering an area of a million square miles, with a population of over 30,000,000, of whim 2,000,000 are Baptists. When the convention was organized in 1845 the population was 8,000,000 and the denomination 250,000.

The contributions to foreigns missions during the sixty-one years have been over $4,250,000 and to home missions over $3,250,000. There are now 187 missionaries in the employ of the foreign board, over 700 in the employ of the home board and about 2,000 engaged in the State, district and city mission work. Mission work in large manufacturing centers, in the mountain districts and among the immigrants was strongly urged, and also that vigorous work be done among the negroes by the improvement of their ministry and a general evangelical work among them.

Attention was called to the rapid growth of the South and to the urgent necessity of a strong evangelical movement in that section.

* * *

Good Roads Needed.

The importance of improvement in church architecture and of more eligible locations for churches was suggested, and good roads mentioned as bearing most closely on the prosperity of churches in the rural districts. A vigorous work was advised in the great cities, and it was also urged that more attention be paid to the development of country churches to the end that they may have preaching oftener and more vigilant pastoral services. Baptists were urged to stand everywhere for civic righteousness for the sanctity of the home, for temperance, for the enforcement of the law and against the growing tide of Sabbath desecration.

The president closed his address with a glowing reference to the prospects of the South and its opportunities for religious work. The inflow of immigration, the opening of the Panama canal, the deep waterways, and the splendid resources of the South, he said, afforded reason for the prophecy that at no distant date the South is to be a great center of influence, and that the work of the convention was to bear an important relation to the progress of that section.

Report On Foreign Missions.

Rev. Dr. Willingham read the report of the board of foreign missions as follows:

The report of the Foreign Mission Board stated that the churches have contributed more than ever before, the aggregate of the gifts being $315,248, against $283,45 last year and $26,629 the year before. A few years ago only a very limited number of our churches gave per annum the salary of a missionary ($500 or $600); now it is common for churches to give that much, and a number of them contribute $1,000 or $1,200, the salary of a man and his wife.

We are receiving from a number of young men and women applications for appointment to the foreign field. We greatly need more workers. The large number of baptisms (2,445) attest the fidelity of the missionaries. We have never had so many baptisms in any former year.

We are impressed with the advance which has been made along all lines. The board has become more thoroughly convinced of the importance of schools in connection with our mission work.

Henderson, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—Ishmael Gibson, aged sixteen, charged with the wilful murder of Levi Head, was acquitted to-day in the Circuit Court. His plea was self-defense in that he proved that Childs was advancing on him with a drawn razor at the time he struck him with an ax.

STATION AGENTS PEDDLED OIL

Got Commission of One Cent On Gallon.

Charges of Collusion With Iron Mountain

Made By Former Agent of Standard Company.

A WORD ABOUT MUCK RAKING.

Chicago, May 11.—Direct charges of collusion between the Standard Oil Company and the St. Louis and Iron Mountain railroad were made during the second day's hearing of the investigation of relations between the oil company and the common carriers of the country, before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

H. J. Cohn, of St. Louis, for fifteen years connected with the Standard Oil Company, declared that the agents of the railroad acted as agents of the oil company and received a commission on the amount of oil sold. He himself, acting as an agent of the Standard Oil Company, had, he said, appointed agents at various places on the Iron Mountain road in Missouri. He had known station agents to resign, he said, because the oil business was taken away from them, and the pay was not sufficiently remunerative otherwise.

Attorneys for the Standard Oil Company during the cross-examination of Maxon, the Illinois operator, who testified yesterday, showed that he had repeatedly written letters to officers of the oil company threatening to make trouble because he did not consider himself well treated. Maxon admitted writing the letters and said that he did it "just for amusement."

Other witnesses were A. J. Davidson, president of the St. Louis and San Francisco road; J. F. Tucker, chairman of the Central Freight Traffic Association; H. J. Cohn, of St. Louis, and S. L. Hibbs, of Peoria, Ill.

Railroads Well Represented.

Nearly every railroad running south, north and west from Chicago was represented to-day. Attorney C. C. Laforge, representing the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky, opened the proceedings by a cross-examination of Maywood Maxon, of Illinois, who was the last witness at the opening hearing yesterday.

The attorney read a number of letters written by Maxon in which he threatened to make trouble for the Standard Oil Company because he had been refused a year's leave of absence. One of the letters read:

"I mean to make all the trouble for the company I can. Your attorney, Mr. Eddy, attacked my interests before the Legislature at Springfield, Ill., and I will get even before I am through." Maxon admitted being the writer of the letters.

"Is it not true that you have about 1,500 letters and documents in your possession belonging to the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky?" asked Mr. Laforge.

"I have a large number of letters and papers addressed to officers of the company and letters written by them to their agents," replied the witness.

"How did you get them?"

"In the same way that for years I got information for the Standard Oil Company."

Attorney Laforge then read a letter written by Maxon to C. M. Pratt, an officer of the Standard Oil Company, in New York, in which he said that he had obtained 600 letters from one of the company's agents in Ohio, and had allowed Commissioner Garfield to copy them for use in prosecuting the company.

In answer to questions of the attorney regarding passes, Maxon said that he had passes of nearly every road in his territory, and used them in traveling on the company's business. He obtained the passes, he said, from Treasurer Holmes and other officials of the Standard Oil Company.

'Frisco President Testifies.

A. J. Davidson, president of the St. Louis and San Francisco road, followed Mr. Maxon. He said that there are no pipe lines on the right of way of his company for any considerable distance, and that the road has no contract to install a pipe line.

The question of furnishing oil to the 'Frisco road was then taken up, and President Davidson said that in the West the oil is furnished by the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, and in the East by the Galena Oil Company. Both companies are said to be affiliated with the Standard Oil Company. Attorney Monett, who is aiding the Government in the investigation, said that under the contracts with these companies the railroad pays 60 to 90 per cent. more than if the oil were purchased in the open market, but that it is sold on a mileage basis, so that the records will not show the exact amount paid.

H. O. Hukill purchasing agent of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg, was then called to the stand. He said that his company purchased oil from the Galena Oil Company and had done so for ten years. It ceased buying oil in the open market because the Galena Company guaranteed a saving of 10 per cent. to the railroad.

Both Mr. Hukill and President Davidson agreed to furnish the commission with the records for the last ten years of their companies in all matters relating to the purchasing of oil.

The Consensus of Opinion.

J. F. Tucker, chairman of the Central Freight Traffic Association, was the next witness. About sixty railroads are represented in his organization.

Attorney Monett endeavored to learn something from the witness regarding the fixing of oil rates, but the witness said that he merely expressed the consensus of the opinion of the railroads at the meetings of the association.

"You get the consensus of opinion of the roads on a rate to be fixed, issue an information circular, the rate is put out, and then you forget all about it. That is about the way, isn't it?" asked Commissioner Prouty.

"Well, not exactly," replied Mr. Tucker.

Mr. Tucker, who resumed the stand in the afternoon, said that on September 29, 1899, the prorating on oil west of Detroit was withdrawn.

F. W. Poltz, traffic manager of the National Petroleum Association, was permitted to cross-examine the witness.

"We would like to show that protest has been made to the Central Traffic Association on the part of independent refineries against certain rates," said Mr. Poltz. It was arranged that Mr. Poltz will be allowed to examine the records of the association to discover the alleged protest.

Mr. Tucker was questioned at some length regarding the manner in which the Central Traffic Association is conducted.

Territory Divided.

He was succeeded on the stand by H. J. Cohn, of St. Louis, who was connected with the Waters-Pierce Oil Company for fifteen years. He declared that certain territories in Illinois were divided between the Waters-Pierce Oil Company and the Standard Oil Company for the sale of oil. The accounts of the former company are, he said, checked up by auditors of the Standard Oil Company. The witness declared that in one published tariff of the Missouri Pacific road a reduction of one and one-half cents per barrel on oil is provided for if the pipe line passed under the Mississippi river. The Waters-Pierce Oil Company up to three years ago, he said, owned two pipe lines passing under the river.

The Iron Mountain road, the witness said, had acted as an agent in securing business for the Standard Oil Company from all small towns in Southern Missouri, receiving a compensation for all work done. Agents of the road, he said, acted also as agents for the oil company. For their services they were paid a commission of one cent a gallon. The witness said that he as an agent of the Standard Oil Company had appointed new railroad agents in Missouri where vacancies existed. One man, the witness declared, had resigned his position when he lost the oil agency, saying that the position did not pay enough without the oil business.

The last witness of the day was S. L. Hibbs, of Peoria, Ill., who gave evidence regarding the methods of crushing independent dealers similar to that given by previous witnesses.

As To Much-Raking.

During his testimony Attorney Miller, representing the Standard Oil Company, objected to the evidence, claiming that it had no bearing upon the relations of the company with the railroads, and saying that it simply is a "lot of muck-raking."

"Well," replied Commissioner Clements, "if the Standard Oil Company is the muck, I see no reason why a rake should not be used."

The hearing will be continued to-morrow.

NEW TOBACCO PLANT

MAY BE LOCATED IN LEXINGTON BY ANTI-TRUST.

Would Make That City Center of Industry For Entire State.

Lexington, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—Mayor Combs has received letters which indicate that the United States Tobacco Company, the rival of the so-called trust, the American Tobacco Company, will establish a plant in Lexington before next fall, and be actively in the field as buyers of the crop in the Bluegrass region. Silas Shelburne, one of the biggest warehousemen of Richmond, Va., will begin the latter part of June to erect a gigantic tobacco warehouse here for the sale of loose tobacco in competition with the present Loose Tobacco Warehouse Company, and it is understood that the prospects of Lexington becoming an important tobacco market has induced the United States Company to decide on establishing a plant here.

B. W. Neal, State organizer of Farmers' Institutes, will deliver an address at the Lexington courthouse next Monday, County Court day, and a meeting will be held to establish an institute here. Commissioner of Agriculture Vreeland is expected to be present.

DEATH SENTENCE

Given Convict Who Killed Fellow-Prisoner.

NOW SERVING LIFE TERM FOR MURDER.

NEW POINT OF LAW MAY SAVE HIS NECK.

CASE WILL BE APPEALED.

Eddyville, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—Ben Huffaker, a convict serving a life sentence in the branch penitentiary here for a murder committed in Pulaski county, was to-day given a death sentence in the Lyon Circuit Court for the murder of Ben Shirley, another convict. The killing took place in the stockroom of the whip shop inside the walls on May 1, 1905. While the murder of Shirley was a brutal and horrible crime, the trial of his slayer will open a question which the higher court will be called upon to adjust.

When placed on trial Circuit Judge Cook appointed ex-Senator N. W. Utley and Ed James to defend Huffaker, and they at the outset interrogated Guard Duplin, who took the convict into court, as to whose orders he was obeying and what he intended doing with the prisoner after trial. This gave rise to the belief that his attorneys held the opinion that the trial was without warrant of law or precedent and that the prisoner could not again be legally placed on trial for any crime committed since his incarceration without first having been given a pardon.

ROBBED AT SHELBYVILLE.

Louisville Minister Loses Pocketbook At Depot.

Shelbyville, Ky., May 11.—While alighting from a C. and O. train here at night Rev. J. D. Walsh, D. D., of Louisville, a presiding elder of the Southern Methodist church, was robbed of $40 in currency and a number of important papers. Dr. Walsh was on his way to the Southern Methodist convention at Birmingham, Ala., and stopped off here to spend the night with friends. As he attempted to alight from the coach he was shoved back by a white man entering the car. At the same instant another man brushed against him from the rear. Both men were profuse in their apologies and Dr. Walsh thought nothing of the incident at the time. He came up town and then discovered that he had been robbed. Dr. Walsh was robbed in practically the same manner as he alighted from a car in Louisville some months ago.

ALLEGED COW THIEF

Arrested At Mt. Sterling But Partners Escape.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—George May, Edward Tackett and another man, whose name is not known, are charged with stealing two cows in Bourbon county and selling them to Henry Gillespie, of Clark county. After the men secured the money they left, and the owners of the cows went after Gillespie for their property. Gillespie traced the men to this city, where Tackett was arrested. He was taken to Paris to-day. May was captured by Gillespie, but escaped, after being fired upon twice, and he and his partner got away. Tackett claims his home is at Ironton, Ohio.

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY.

Miss Elizabeth Middleton Dies At Shelbyville.

Shelbyville, Ky., May 11.—Miss Elizabeth Armstrong Middleton, second daughter of Mr. John T. Middleton, president of the People's Bank and Trust Company, of this place, died at her home in North Shelbyville this morning at 1 o'clock. She had been in failing health for several months, but her death came with shocking suddenness, as her condition was not considered dangerous until yesterday morning.

Miss Middleton is survived by her father and mother and two sisters, Mrs. Pope Nicholas, of Louisville, and Miss Annie V. Middleton, of this place.

KILLING AT SOMERSET.

Bartender Shoots Stonemason Four Times.

Somerset, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—After a quarrel between Charles Brown, bartender for Spann & Co., and Ottie Paule, a stonemason, last night about 8 o'clock, Brown fired four shots in quick succession into the body of Paule. The difficulty occurred in Spann's saloon, where Paule had been forbidden to come. He was taken to the Somerset Sanitarium, where he died a few hours later.

Paule's home was at McKinney, Ky., and he had been in this city, in the employment of Casey & Co., railroad contractors, for several months.

Prepare For Home-Coming.

Bowling Green, Ky., May 11.—The committee in charge of Bowling Green Home-coming Week has addressed invitations to some of the most noted men of the country to be with them here on Statesmen's day, Wednesday, June 20. The list includes President Roosevelt, Senator J. C. S. Blackburn, Senator James B. McCreary, Gov. Beckham, Gov. Folk, Hon. John G. Carlisle, Hon. Wm. Lindsay and Congressman James M. Richardson, of this district. The President has several times expressed hopes of coming to Bowling Green since a former brief visit and as he will be in this locality at the time, the committee hopes to induce him to pay his neglected visit. The two United States Senators have assured local friends they will be here if possible.

Tour to Europe Ballot.

This Ballot Will Count One (1) Vote

For ....

Dist. No.......... Address..............................

County ....State..............................

When fully filled out and received at Courier-Journal office, by mail or otherwise, on or before expiration date shown above. Not good after that date. Void if name voted for has not been properly nominated. No ballot will be altered in any way, or transferred, after received by the Courier-Journal.

UNLESS THIS BALLOT IS TRIMMED CAREFULLY AROUND THE BLACK LINES, IT WILL NOT BE COUNTED.

BATTLE OF BALLOTS

THE PROPOSITION.

The Courier-Journal proposes to send to Europe for a Tour lasting seven weeks twenty young women, all expenses to be paid by the Courier-Journal. Nineteen of these young women will come from the nineteen districts defined below, the one receiving the highest number of votes in each district being the successful one. In addition, the candidate receiving the second largest number of votes cast, regardless of district, will also be entitled to the free trip, and will be included as the twentieth member of the party.

The Dates—Leave Louisville July 12; return to Louisville August 29.

Readers of the Courier-Journal select the members of the party. Cut the ballot from this paper and send it in, voted for your favorite candidate. Special ballots, ranging from 1,000 votes for one year down to 20 for one month, are issued for paid-in-advance subscriptions. Special ballots issued any time in May will have the final expiration date, July 1.

The last ballot will be published in the Courier-Journal Saturday morning, June 23. No special ballot will be issued on a paid-in-advance subscription received after 12 o'clock noon Saturday, June 23. No ballot will be received to be voted after 12 o'clock noon, July 2, from any source.

Read full details of the Tour in another column and learn all about it.

The vote this morning is again light, as contestants are resting from the arduous struggle of the forepart of the week. Work will be taken up afresh in a few days, and ballots will come in freely. As the contest nears the finish, the battle will be lively. The Courier-Journal does not think any candidate can yet sit down and hold her hands, feeling that she is a winner. There are some good politicians in this contest, and they are playing politics, too.

Miss Emma Marion Cox, of District No. 4, withdraws this morning.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

Contestants and their friends and readers generally will save themselves worry and loss of time and the Courier-Journal much trouble and needless correspondence if they will observe the subscription rates set forth below. SUES FOR LIBEL.

EXPELLED REPUBLICAN WANTS BIG DAMAGES.

Bourbon County Committee Defendants—Read J. D. McClintock Out of Party.

Paris, Ky., May 11.—James D. McClintock this morning filed a criminal libel and damage suit in the Circuit Clerk's office against A. B. Thomason, Charles Hough, Henry S. Clay, Morin Moore, J. W. Larkin and Henry Smith, members of the Bourbon County Republican Campaign Committee, asking for damages in the sum of $25,000 each, alleging defamation of character. Several weeks ago, at a meeting of the County Committee, bitter resolutions were read and adopted expelling McClintock from all conferences of the Republican party and appointing sergeants-at-arms to prevent his attendance on further meetings of the committee. The resolutions caused the biggest stir in local political circles for years, as well as arousing McClintock's friends, who are numerous in both political parties.

The resolutions adopted accused McClintock, who is a well-known Republican party worker, of double dealing and treason to the Republican party in past elections, and of assisting Democratic candidates secretly, while proclaiming himself a Republican, and of betraying the plans and confidences of the Republican party. Mr. McClintock is prominent in business circles. His answer is a complete refutation of the charges made in the resolutions, and denounces them as false and charging that the committee knew them to be false when they were written and published. McClintock has retained Judge Denis Dundon, of Paris, and Hon. Chas. J. Bronston, of Lexington, to represent him.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS FELT IN INDIANA.

Petersburg, Ind., May 11.—Two distinct earthquake shocks were felt here last night about 12:45. A low rumbling noise was heard in the west and soon the buildings were rocking and chinaware and windows rattled so that many people jumped from their beds. The shocks were about forty-five seconds apart and the first one was preceded with a vivid flash similar to lightning.

A GREAT POPULARITY CONTEST

TWENTY YOUNG WOMEN TO GO ABROAD FOR A SEVEN-WEEKS' TRIP AT

COURIER-JOURNAL'S EXPENSE.

The Courier-Journal will send to Europe, all expenses paid, twenty young women from Kentucky and Southern Indiana. Nineteen of the members of the party are to be selected from nineteen districts, the boundaries of these districts being shown in another part of this paper. The young woman (candidate or contestant) receiving the largest or highest number of votes in each district will be the successful one. In addition, the candidate or contestant receiving the second largest or highest number of votes irrespective of district will be the twentieth member of the party. In case of a tie, either in the districts or for second place, both contestants will be taken on the trip.

This is a real Popularity Contest, and readers of the Courier-Journal are to select the members of the party. On the second page of the Courier-Journal is printed each day a ballot good for one vote. Any purchaser or subscriber of the paper can cut out this ballot and vote it. For paid-in-advance subscriptions, special or extra ballots are given, good for votes ranging in value from 1,700 to 20.

Dates and the Trip.

The party will leave Louisville Thursday, July 12, for New York, and should get back to Louisville Wednesday, August 29. The itinerary condensed is as follows:

Accommodations.

The accommodations to be furnished the Courier-Journal's tourists will be of the very best. The trip from Louisville to New York and return will be in a special Pullman Palace parlor, dining and sleeping car. The ocean passage from New York to Glasgow will be first-class, on the twin-screw steamer "Columbia," of the Anchor Line, with return passage from Antwerp to New York by steamer of the Red Star Line. Rail travel in Europe will be second-class, with the exception of the travel in Great Britain, where second-class does not exist, and third-class is substituted. Accommodations will be at first-class hotels from date of landing at Europe until departure therefrom; accommodation to consist of bedroom, lights and service, meat breakfast, table d'hote lunch and dinner, according to custom of the hotel; transfers of passengers and baggage between railroad stations and hotels, steamship piers, etc., together with free conveyance of sixty pounds of baggage; each passenger on the tour, while in Europe; 250 pounds on Atlantic steamers; incidental fees for sight-seeing in the various cities visited, for hotel servants, porters, etc., carriage drives and local excursions at the various points visited. A competent guide and conductor will be with the party all the time, and a staff representative of the Courier-Journal will also accompany the party from start to finish.

As To Ballots.

A ballot is printed on the second page of the Courier-Journal every day. This ballot is good for one vote. Special ballots good for extra votes are furnished for paid-in-advance subscriptions, ranging from 1,000 for one year down to twenty ballots for one month.

Ballots must reach the Courier-Journal office on or before the date of expiration printed on the top of the ballot—otherwise they will not be counted. Single ballots cut from paper are good only one week from day printed. Special ballots will have a longer limit, the date of expiration being stamped on each ballot.

Candidates or others sending in several ballots at one time, all for the same name, need not fill them all out. Fill the top one carefully, then pin or stick them together. Ballots cut from the paper should be trimmed carefully, on the outside of the black border or margin.

All special ballots calling for twenty or more votes will be filed and kept until the end of the contest. Single ballots, cut from the paper from day to day, will be carefully counted twice, and then will be destroyed. A candidate or a representative may call at the Tour Department of the Courier-Journal at any time and inspect her ballots.

The last ballot or coupon will be printed June 23, and no ballot or coupon will be counted unless received at the Courier-Journal office by noon, July 2. No special ballots will be issued on subscriptions after 12 o'clock noon, Saturday, June 23, under any circumstances.

As To Candidates.

Any woman, over twenty or under forty-five years of age, July 1, 1906, is eligible, provided conditions set forth herewith are complied with.

Every candidate must be regularly nominated on a blank furnished by the Courier-Journal, on application. Candidates may nominate themselves, or their friends may do so for them. Nominations must be indorsed by three responsible citizens of the town or county in which the candidate lives—merchants, professional men or officials who can easily be reached or found.

Candidates must reside in the district or territory from which nominated. A candidate removing from this district or territory after being nominated will lose all votes received; and no candidate will be permitted to transfer votes to another after received at the Courier-Journal office, under any circumstances.

Paid-in-advance subscriptions will be delivered by carrier where we have carrier service, by mail or through agent, as the subscriber desires. (See the list showing special value coupons or ballots for paid-in-advance subscriptions).

No employe of the Courier-Journal, or member of an employe's family, will be eligible as a candidate.

Any successful candidate shall have the right to name a substitute, subject to our approval, if unable to go herself. Such substitute must be named seven days before the date set for leaving Louisville.

The candidate receiving the largest number of votes in each of the districts will be entitled to the free trip to Europe.

The candidate receiving the largest number of votes will, of course, be the successful candidate from her district. In addition, however, the candidate who receives the second largest number of votes, regardless of district, will also be entitled to the free trip, and will be included as the twentieth member of the party.

In case of a tie for first place in any district, or for the twentieth member of the party, both candidates will be counted successful, and will be taken on the tour.

Any questions or controversies that may arise are to be settled by the Courier-Journal alone.

In accepting nominations all candidates must accept and agree to and abide by above conditions.

An Important Point.

The Courier-Journal is conducting this Popularity Contest for the purpose of increasing its regular circulation—not merely to sell papers. Therefore, we will not permit any candidate or friend of a candidate to order a number of papers to be delivered to one address, to be thrown away after ballots are secured. We require a name for every paper subscribed for or sent out. This is a fair proposition for all candidates, and a protection for all.

Subscription Blanks.

The Courier-Journal much prefers that all orders or tour subscriptions be sent in on regular printed blanks prepared for this purpose. We will gladly send blanks and return envelopes to anyone on application.

All mail in reference to the Popularity Contest should be addressed Tour-to-Europe Department, Courier-Journal, Louisville, Ky.

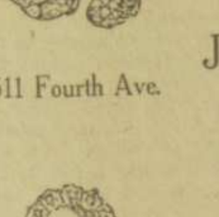

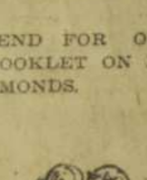

Be certain to prepay postage in full on all mail matter sent us. The Post-office Department will not deliver packages of ballots unless prepaid in full, and consequently these ballots will be lost to the candidates.

Florida's Population.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 11.—The census returns for 1905, which were given out to-day for all counties of Florida, excepting Dade, Escambia and Orange, show a white population in the State of 314,685, black 241,870, other races 135, making a total of 556,690. This is an increase of 72,590 over the Federal census of 1900. The population of Jacksonville is given as 35,301, of Key West 20,498 and of Tampa, exclusive of suburbs, at 22,823.

BOOKS AND THEIR WRITERS.

Genial Pictures of Small-Town Life.

There is a decided tendency among the foremost novelists to return to the Trollope style of fiction, some of the best stories recently published having for their themes the faithful portrayal of the everyday life of the ordinary mortals, with their heart throbs, their problems as full of interest as the hair-breadth escapes of the swashbucklers of romance.

Such stories make a wide appeal in that they deal with the great circles of society, the class that, while possessing neither poverty nor riches, makes or mars a nation. William Allen White, the author of "In Our Town," has shown types through individualization; has told his stories in a quiet, detailed fashion, yet with that condensation which is the natural outcome of the over-leisurely novels of Miss Edgeworth's and Miss Austen's day.

The charming character sketches are put in the mouth of the owner of the chief daily of the small town, the man who, more than any other citizen, should know the town and its people, "their strength, their weakness, their joys and their sorrows, their failings and their prosperity—or, if he does not know these things, he is on the road to failure, for his knowledge must be the spirit of his paper. The country editor and his reporters sooner or later pass upon everything that interests their town."

This gives the keynote of the book which is written in the well-known style of its able author, a style marked by its rare distinction and perspicacity. The sketches dealing with the various grades of business and society show a keen but loving appreciation of human nature in weakness or strength. They were first published in the Century Magazine and the Ladies' Home Journal.

IN OUR TOWN. By William Allen White. Published by McClure, Phillips & Co., New York City.

Exciting Narrative of Civil War-Times.

Of intense interest is this record written by a Kentuckian who enlisted in 1861, following the fortunes of the Confederacy, taking part in some of its most thrilling experiences and engaging in some of the most perilous undertakings in the history of that time. His narrative is a frank relation of effort in the service of the South; he makes no comment, but one can read between the lines wherein the imagination is piqued and the taste for adventure as fully gratified as by any novel dealing with the life and perils of a soldier of fortune.

Few of the present generation realize what a disputed field Kentucky was during the war or what dangers were incurred by both armies inside her neutral borders. The author gives this account with fascinating brevity; he states facts from which the reader may draw his own conclusions. There are no moralizings, no might-have-beens. Good stories well told hold the outcome in suspense even though the final ending is known to the world. The life of the scout, the excitement of the forager for the Southern army, the account of surprises, battles, captures, escapes are all as stirring as the best fiction. Indeed, the tale from beginning to end is a splendid historical romance.

Much local feeling will be engaged by the book because so many Louisville persons and places hold prominent parts. Some of the most important enterprises had Louisville for their field, and the inner history here given is both striking and amusing. How the plans to capture Vice President-elect Andrew Johnson in the Louisville Hotel failed and how those for the capture of Maj. Julius Fosses' horses succeeded make breathless reading. The author is a born story-teller; one could sit up all night to read his book from start to finish quite as if it were Owen Wister's latest or any other "best seller."

When Col. R. M. Martin was detailed for special duty in Canada, Capt. Headley accompanied him and from there on the book tells things never before collected in one volume. Many public and private letters are published. An important contribution to history is the account of the Beall trail and the summary hanging of that officer for capturing a vessel on Lake Erie in order to release the prisoners at Johnston's Island, for attempting to capture a railroad train to affect the release of some Confederate Generals and for securing the safe of an express company to defray the expenses of the Confederate Commissioners in Canada. This is given in detail, together with much official correspondence relating to the subject and extracts from newspapers of both sides. The author is pretty scathing in his judgment of President Lincoln for refusing to interfere. Beall appealed to the Confederate Government to use its influence to show that he was neither spy nor guerrilla, but a terse note from Col. R. Ould, Commissioner of Exchange in Richmond adds: "The cruelty of the enemy was so swift that no sufficient time intervened betwen a knowledge of the facts and the execution to enable any proceedings to be taken."

CONFEDERATE OPERATIONS IN CANADA AND NEW YORK. By John W. Headley. The Neale Publishing Co., Washington and New York.

The Mayor of Warwick.

Youth sheds its luster on every page of the unequal but entertaining study of a town dominated by a church school. St. George's Hall is the background for the tale of conventional professors and their love for the bishop's daughter, Felicity. Felicity in her revolt against a cut-and-dried existence, bestows her first love upon a street-car conductor and base ball player; her second upon a young Westerner who comes like a gleam of gold into her dull surroundings. Unfortunately, the conductor was first in the field, and as Felicity has stirred his ambition by promises contingent upon his success, she can not conscientiously throw him over when he realizes all she has planned and demanded. He forms a mighty stumbling block that complicates matters and makes the story go briskly to its end.

There is a sort of haphazard manner in the conception of the book. Neither Felicity, the reader, nor, it is to be feared, the author knows what is going to happen next. Frequent surprises are the result. The conductor wins the race for Mayor. Felicity has found that she loves another, the conductor-mayor refuses to give her up, but feels that he will always be at a disadvantage in the presence of her conventional social circle. For the sake of those that would enjoy the story, the principal obstacle to a marriage with Leigh must not be here explained, but it forms an almost insuperable one; how it is surmounted is rather cleverly conceived.

All the characters are interesting and offer sufficient variety to impress the reader favorably as individuals. The slight foundation that underlies the great issues of life as constructed by the author is hardly strong enough to hold the human structure he builds above it. The probabilities sway and threaten to topple not one but many times, and the triumph of true love is only brought about in the end by one more vagary of the uncertain Mayor.

THE MAYOR OF WARWICK. By Herbert M. Hopkins. Published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

Good Novel: A Millionaire of Yesterday.

The author of "Anna," "Mr. Sabin," "A Prince of Sinners" and other readable fiction is a born story-teller. All the reviewer's well-worn adjectives may be lumped in description of his latest work. It "grips" "holds" and "thrills;" it is "forceful," "virile" and has an "onrush" of incident that begets extravagance in "midnight oil;" besides it is "original."

It may be doubted whether such a hero as Scarlett Trent could live under the sun that shines on this poor earth. In face of stupendous handicaps, success is so fully assured to him that the reader never for an instant doubts the final outcome. In the first part of the book he makes mighty enemies, in the middle he saves their lives, at the end he gains one friend and the woman of his heart. He is bold, unlettered, rough, but he rules all men. He has an innate sense of probity that saves him in temptation and clears his skirts in some pretty close shaves. All the same he is an adventurer after the reader's own heart, as modest as he is brave.

The story is unusual in many respects. While bordering on the impossible and stepping rather close to unrelieved tragedy it saves itself by its uncommon setting and its scenes of real power.

A MILLIONAIRE OF YESTERDAY. By E. Phillips Oppenheim. Published by Little, Brown & Co., Boston.

Latest Success of Anna Katherine Green.

The fountain of Mrs. Green's genius seems fed by perennial springs that, even if not always sparkling, never fail to be clear and palatable.

"The Woman in the Alcove" is one of her best stories. It concerns the theft of no less illustrious an object than the Great Mogul diamond, a stone of sufficient value to purchase a small kingdom. Its wearer is a beautiful but silly woman, who is murdered, a paste stone substituted for the gem, involving an English officer of high rank, a young man who has just declared his love to the teller of the narrative and other persons.

The fiancee has fitted herself to be a trained nurse, despite the objections of her relatives. When her lover is arrested, charged with murder and theft, she accepts a position with the family of the man whom she suspects of being the real criminal for the purpose of playing the detective and clearing her lover, whom fate has maliciously ensnarled in the double crime.

The plot, the circumstances attending the disappearance of the stone and the chase for the murderer are very carefully handled. The mystery so essential to stories of this class is guarded until almost the last page. The book differs from its predecessors in having some highly picturesque settings for its scenes.

THE WOMAN IN THE ALCOVE. By Anne Katherine Green. Published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

The Chateau of Montplaisir.

Though offering little real wit this book contains a lot of gay nonsense that will please a certain class of readers. There is nothing vague or suggestive about Miss Seawell's style in this story, every thought, feeling or even surmise being catalogued in detail, thereby sparing the reader undue effort of the imagination. Indeed, the batch of fooleries seems such a waste of time that, as the pages turn, the wonder grows that an author having such practice in her art should value it so lightly as to give such a production to the world. It almost seems as if she were guying her readers and in a huge satire on some modern fiction has tried to see how fine the threads of folly can be strung without breaking.

The story tells of two old rakes—man and woman—and four young lovers, who mix things up and get themselves in impossible and improbable situations. The scene, of course, is laid in France. An old soapmaker was named Victor Louis de Latour—a poor young nobleman, Victor Louis de Latour. The latter inherited the Chateau of Montplaisir without a cent of money to repair or make it even habitable, when the soap man comes along and proposes to adopt him and buy the right to use the Latour coat of arms, restore the chateau, and thus have an opportunity of climbing the social ladder. By a mistake of the soapmaker's secretary—an heiress in disguise in love with the young Louis—the tables are turned and instead of the soapmaker adopting Latour, that affectionate fellow is made to adopt the soapmaker. Other complications string out the book for several hundred pages.

The Rise of the New West

Dr. Frederick Jackson Turner, professor of American History in the University of Wisconsin, contributes to the American Nation series a volume on the rise of the New West, during the years 1815—1830. The West has appeared in important phases in preceding volumes of this history. And now following Prof. Babcock's presentation of the passing of the Western States into a broader national life, the present author portrays their aspect as an integral part of the Union, at last, with as lively self-consciousness as that of the East and the South, with individual aims and prejudices, still sharing, however, in the councils and benefits of the national Government. This last aspect the author never loses sight of, for the West is to him, so to speak, a broader East, the two sections being interdependent. In the stir of questions involving the West the nation, says he, found itself.

Viewing the growth of the West politically and socially as a natural evolution, not as a result of a kind of sporadic individualism on the part of Eastern frontiersmen, the author devotes several chapters to the social and political life in New England, the middle region and the South. The conditions of life in these sections whence spread the emigration to the West and the influence of such a going-forth upon them are studied, as well as the life in the West itself, developing under conditions of separation from the older settlements, developing in its characteristics of freedom, resourcefulness, inventiveness and other distinctive traits which we have come to consider national—as Mr. Bryce has declared: The West is the most American part of America.

The influences the author indicates as having been exerted upon the rest of the country by this West are: The arousing of competition in the East, the adding of impulse to the democratic movement in New England and New York, while in the South the spread of the cotton-plant and the new form which slavery took were phases of the westward movement of the plantation. The discontent of the old South is ascribed to the migration of her citizens to the West and to the competition of her colonies in the lands beyond the Alleghanies.

After portraying this counter-play and the frontier life in forest and farm which as it grew brought the need of a market with its consequence—a necessity for developing systems of transportation, the author passes to those national questions which involved all sections but often especially the West. Among these were the commercial crisis of 1819; the Missouri compromise, largely a Western question; the Monroe Doctrine, involving Western questions of Latin-American neighbors; the efforts to bind the sections together by means of the Cumberland road and canals. The tariff of 1824, that of 1828, with South Carolina's protest against it, and an excellent chapter on critical authorities, furnish the material for the remainder of this fourteenth volume in the series.

Prof. Turner has admirable grasp of his subject. In constructing his book he must have had much demand on his sense of selection, as the Library of the Wisconsin Historical Society has such a collection of material. He maintains a high standard of proportion and balance in the arrangement of his data which he presents in interesting and often forceful sentences.

THE RISE OF THE WEST. By Frederick Jackson Turner. Vol. XIV., American Nation. Albert Bushnell Hart, editor. Publishers, Harper & Brothers, New York.

The Opal Sea.

"The Opal Sea" is marked by those qualities one has come to anticipate when a book of Prof. John Van Dyke's is announced—scientific knowledge of his subject, appreciation of its artistic and poetic values, and a sane idealism. The author swings his drag-net round the shores we know and those mythic ones where magic casements open "on the foam of perilous seas in faery lands forlorn," and he has formulated from his close study the story of the sea in man's relation to it, now the object of his bright or somber fancies, his wonder, his adventure—the path to what happy Western Isles, to the land of the Golden Fleece, to some opulent India.

The "Gardens of the Sea" and "The Dwellers in the Deep" are interesting chapters on the strange life in the gardens of Nereus, and scarcely less entertaining are the pages on that other life so intimately connected with the sea, the life of gray-winged gulls, brown pelicans, those beautiful rose-red patrollers of the beaches, the flamingoes, the cormorants, shags and divers, clever in chasing fish under water as the pelicans are in catching them above. The petrel lifts the author into an ecstacy. The incessant throb of its wings is characterized as an emblem of omnipresent energy. To its gray wings whose neutral tints blend so easily with the mist and fog and cloud, the white breasts that match the breaking foam, the black backs that seem to melt at night into the purple sea, a distinction and charm are ascribed, and a grace in flight superior to all other birds. This note about beauty and distinction from the view-point of artistic values is significant, for though the author wanders here and there to discuss the flora, fauna and other phenomena of the ocean, he is never far away from the avowed main purpose of his book, which is neither the origin, the cartography nor the chemistry of the sea, however delightfully he grazes these topics, but rather the splendor that makes the glory in his eyes, the lights and colors, the sun-woven fabric of the "Opal Sea."

It were almost impossible for a writer of such equipment, such ardor, such distinction of view, not to have some style; as it is, the genuine glow of "literature" often transfuses Prof. Van Dyke's prose. It were ungracious to hunt flaws, nor is such the present intention, but the recurrence of a certain expression, not a flaw in itself, pricks the reader now and then to impatience—one wearies of the repeated turn: "on adventure bent," "on pleasure bent," till one wishes so able a writer were not so bent on this particular and not exactly freshly-coined formula.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.]

London, April 23.—English publishers, who are always complaining of hard times, must have read with envy of the profits realized by a French confrere of theirs, M. Adolph Boudesque, whose case was reported from Paris yesterday. M. Boudesque's career, it is true, has just been cut short by the French courts, but while it lasted—which means for the last five years or more—he must have made more money out of the publishing business than anybody ever did before; at least, more in proportion.

For, although Boudesque published only one book, and only one copy of that every year, the proceeds from it were over one hundred thousand francs ($25,000) annually, which must be a record. The volume was called by its publisher "The Great Golden Book of Courage and Devotion," which sounds eminently virtuous as well as impressive, but the courts decided that the goodly sum which it netted for Boudesque every year was obtained under false pretenses, and hence it is that that worthy has been ordered to cease publishing it, and, meanwhile, to hold himself at the disposition of justice. Boudesque has appealed against this sentence, however, for he declares that he is a reputable citizen, and that he merely took a pardonable advantage of the well-known fondness of the public for being gulled.

According to the evidence given at his trial, M. Boudesque kept a sharp eye out for announcements to the effect that So-and-so had received the Cross of the Legion of Honor, the Academic Palms, or the Order of Agricultural Merit. When he saw one he immediately wrote, congratulating the happy recipient, and asked if he would not like to have his name inscribed in the "Great Golden Book," which, according to its publisher, constituted a unique roll of the world's heroic sons. The cost of such inscription was thirty francs, or $6.

Boudesque added that the mightiest personages of the political world were on his "committee of honor." So they were, for he had put their names upon it himself without consulting them about it. However, his little game worked, for most of the persons to whom he wrote, in the flush of their joy at being decorated, sent the thirty francs demanded, and the fact that Boudesque gathered in over a hundred thousand francs last year is eloquent testimony to the great number of persons in France who receive one or another kind of decoration.

The astute "publisher" tripped, however, when he recently sent one of his communications to an employe of the Prefecture of Police, for this individual not only declined to be inscribed in the "Great Golden Book," but called the attention of the authorities to that volume, and so Boudesque was arrested. And sentenced, too, as above stated, despite his assertion that he didn't swindle anyone, because he never promised to send them the book, but only to write their names in the one which he kept at home.

If Count Lionel di Minerbi, of Trieste, who has just bought the beautiful Palazzo Rezzonico, in Venice, is interested in literary matters, he probably will take a special pleasure in his new home on account of its intimate associations with Robert Browning. For here it was, of course, that the great poet came on a visit to his son and daughter-in-law, in 1889, and here that a few months afterward, he died of an illness contracted while under their roof; tended to the last by loving hands, and with echoes of the success of "Asolando" coming from England. Until recently, the palace contained many relics of both Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning, and many American visitors to Venice saw these every year, but they were all removed before the sale of the palace to Count di Minerbi.

The Rezzonico Palace, for which this Austrian nobleman is said to have paid $140,000, was built from the designs of Longhena in the Seventeenth century, and contains a fine ceiling by Tiepolo, besides boasting one of the finest and largest bedrooms in all Venice. The rooms in its entresol which are known as the "Pope's apartments"—from Eugenious IV., who was a member of the Rezzonico family—are also interesting to all travelers on account of their beautiful decorations, and especially so Americans and English folk on account of the fact that it was in these rooms some two years ago that Mrs. Humphry Ward wrote the chapters in the "Marriage of William Ashe," of which the scenes are laid in Venice.

Probably few articles, written in the hope of bettering the lot of a class of human beings, ever produced greater results than one which Robert A. Sherrard contributed to a London magazine five years ago on the subject of the English wool-combing trade. Attention has been called to the matter by a conference which is to be held at Bradford this week, when the workers in the wool-combing trade will ask for a 10 per cent. advance in their wages—now averaging only $4 a week—and will, it is said, be granted this request by their employers.

This meeting is admitted to be one of the many results of Mr. Sherrard's article, which described in forceful language the terrible conditions under which the wool-combers work, and at once aroused public sympathy in their behalf. At first the employes denied the statements made in the article, but an independent inquiry showed that Sherrard was justified in all that he had written. Since that time, the conditions in the wool-combing trade have steadily improved, the masters in many cases voluntarily making the conditions of work better. The combers formerly worked all night without even a stop for meals, but now many firms cease work for several hours, beginning at one in the morning. As will be gathered, the lot of the operatives is no bed of roses, even now, but the leaders of their trade unions and those of the public who are attempting to help them acknowledge that the emancipation of the white slaves of the woolen trade is largely due to Sherrard's able article.

HAYDEN CHURCH.

Some Books of Verse.

"Some said, John, print it; others said, not so," remarked John Bunyan in the apology for Pilgrim's Progress. And now John Burroughs says the same thing as preface to his book of verses—some of his friends saying they could forgive him everything but his poetry.

A good Burroughs needs no reviewer's bush of recommendation, its genuine and mellow quality are unfailing. One may not expect to find a Keats' Nightingale, a Shelley's Skylark, a Wadsworth's Green Linnet, or for that matter, a Cawein Bluebird, to seek an illustration nearer home; but it goes without saying that in "Bird and Bough," if there are not such exquisite flights of fancy and other graces that make a poet of the nature lover—there may be much poetry, and as that close to wild nature as the best of them. The Bush-Sparrow, In May, The Cardinal Flower, and in fact all of the poems bring home the bough with the bird singing upon it, giving rich suggestion of the bird's place in the fields and woods and in the seasons.

Only a few stanzas would we spare from the little book. These are in The Return and In Blooming Orchards. And even here the sentiments are true and tender, and if the lines came in anyone else's work, we should like them and recognize them as expressing the truth poetry brings home to use with a suavity that blunts the pity of it, if indeed it does not charm in some inexplicable, paradoxical, psycological way. But somehow regret and melancholy, however gentle, and however gratifying their minor note in some instances, strike not entirely in harmony with the hale-hearted Burroughs we cherish—somehow in his case we do not like to think about such things.

IN SUN OR SHADE. Poems by Louise Morgan Sill. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York.

These poems by Louise Morgan Sill run through a gamut of romantic and altruistic sentiments with frequent grace-notes of a pleasing fancy—at play it appears for fancy's sake. A strong hortatory note is struck by such lines as in "The Sweat Shop," and "To the Men of Congress" (on the occasion of delay in debate during labor troubles.) The poems in romantic vein reveal genuine feeling, distinctly feminine, yet bent with their emotional tone is an intellectual strain sounded more frequently from masculine chords than from a woman's heart. In such verses as The Lure, Nuggin's Ghost, The Dream-Child, the author's fancy is at work in a free, objective way, showing charm and individuality. The author's music is felicitous and apparently spontaneous.

LOVE'S TESTAMENT. By G. Constant Lounsbery. London and New York. John Lane, publisher.

Sixty times the present author has sounded the sonnet-pipe. The work is felicitous in rhythm, rhyme and tropes. The sonnets form a sequence, an ardent recital of another true love that did not run smooth. In tender and evidently sincere numbers the poet counts his rosary of days. And it is rather a pleasing iteration of the ways of love, its doubts, faith and desires. But the crose ends the rosary of days. And then not entirely harmonious with the ideal and fervent tone of the early avowals is the conclusion of the sequence. The form and the spirit of Love's Testament suggest the emotion and psychology of some sonnets made by one, William Shakespeare. But Mr. Lounsbery has evidently not taken to heart the lesson of the one hundred and sixteenth sonnet. The lover in Love's Testament seems able to alter his regard when he alteration finds:

Count not upon a woman, let her be
The fragrance of the spring, the brief delight
Of the elusive and alluring night,
That haunts and beckons thee with memory.
But in the hour of thy necessity
Seek not her hand when fortune takes affright
And life's foundations fail, for in thy plight
No word will wake her to remember thee.

She is not human, she is one with all
Fugitive sweetness, she is of the hour
Intangible, eternal as a flower
Whose fragrance lingers when its petals fall.

INTO THE LIGHT AND OTHER VERSES. By Edward Robeson Taylor. Published by The Stanley-Taylor Co., San Francisco.

A volume of poems consisting of many hitherto published and several new ones. The author's lines show a familiarity with the masters of versification. His first long poem, "Into the Light," has a philosophical, meditative character. It is largely an argument against Omar and Horace and Herrick, with their suave advice to pluck the rose, since to-morrow we die. If not the lyric ecstacy, the author throughout shows feeling and thought. His most commendable work is to be found in lines after Hugo, De Musset, Fernand Gregh, Lecomte de Lisle, and in the last group of verses suggested by William Keith's pictures. The former set of translations, or paraphrases, show a rather flexible technique and sympathy with the mood of the original. The latter group, classified as "In a Studio," are perhaps the most impassioned in the volume. They reveal an intimate appreciation of the soul of the artist in his eternal quest for elusive beauty. The format of the volume is tasteful. Though very displeasing to the eye and to the taste is one mechanical fault the author or publisher should certainly excise from the next printing of the book. This is the underlining of words to be emphasized. This is inexcusable—surely the reader's ear and intelligence can divine the occasion for emphasis, if the author is only sufficiently lucid in expression.

HERE AND THERE—By Estelle Mildred Knapp. Printed by the Wagner Co., New York.

A slender rill of verse containing such pebbles as mementoes of places and persons, appealing chiefly to friends of the author. "Katydid," "The Orchard" and "The Tale of a Trout" have a genuine open-air quality. The book is carelessly printed, letters being dropped here and there, as though the printer shared the poet's license for doing such a thing.

BATTLES AND SKETCHES OF THE ARMY OF TENNESSEE. By Bromfield L. Ridley. Published by the Missouri Printing and Publishing Co., Mexico, Mo.

This book is largely composed of reports from Civil War records made by some of the general officers, and by the author himself, who was a private soldier in Gen. John Morgan's cavalry and afterwards aide-de-camp to Lieut.-Gen. A. P. Stewart, commanding a corps in the army of Tennessee. "It does not give a complete history, by any means, of all the battles and marches the army made. But he has recorded the prominent ones, and has sketched such scenes, military, social, or humorous, as made at the time or have since made in the perspective of memory, an impression on his mind. Many of the sketches now included are those which have appeared during the last seven years in the Confederate Veteran. Belmont, Shiloh, Kenesaw Mountain and Chickamauga are among the battles described. A chapter on the Ku Klux Klan by J. O. Lester and D. L. Milton is included, also copies of many of the famous Confederate songs and rallying tunes. Numerous pictures of the Southern leaders accompany the text.

MAN PREPARING FOR OTHER WORLDS. By William Thomas Moore. Publishers, The Christian Publishing Company, St. Louis.

A series of sermons on nature and the destiny of man. The author postulates mind as the modifying force throughout the universe; atheism as an essential condition for all development. The evolutionary hypothesis is his working basis, with spiritual man as the end towards which all life tends, life after death being but part of the evolutionary process. The author stands for three incidents in the history of man, the three distinct creations of the physical, the psychical, and the spiritual man "in the image of God." One of the salient points he strives to make is that in the Biblical account, the Hebrew word "Bora," used when the creation of the whole universe is described, is not used again till the accounts of the fifth and sixth days' creations are given.

Not only to this world does the author limit the play of evolution. The stars and planets, says he, are probably uninhabited, but they are in a state of preparation for the glorified man who will pass to them when his probationary life here (and elsewhere?) has made him fit for a starry mansion.

RECONSTRUCTION IN ALABAMA. By John S. Reynolds. Published by The State Company, Columbia, S. C.

The matter of this book was first printed in weekly parts in one of the newspapers of Columbia. Consideration is given to the provisional government after the dispersion of the armies of Lee and Johnston, to Orr's, Scott's, Moses' and Chamberlain's administrations. The Ku Klux Klan, the campaign of 'seventy-six, the dual Government, the State debt, the Greenville and Columbia railroad, furnish material for other chapters. The manner of the author is distinctly narrative, almost never argumentative, though the subject is one on which few Southerners can write without great, sometimes reprehensibly extreme, feeling. He defends the white people of South Carolina for their attitude when the Reconstruction Acts were put in operation by the appointment of a military commander over the State. It is only fair to note, he remarks, that every objection of the white people of South Carolina to the establishment of the Constitution of 1868, every prediction of bad results to follow was justified by the course of negro government at various stages of its existence—"bad as it was, conditions would have been far worse but for the coolness, bravery and forbearance of the white people acting under the advice of wise and patriotic leaders." In regard to the charge that the deliverance of South Carolina from negro rule and the disorders incident thereto were accomplished by fraudulent means, the author insists that a careful study of the whole situation will prove that if all the fraudulent or otherwise illegal votes had been eliminated, Hampton still would have been elected in 1876, and the Democrats would still have had a majority in the House of Representatives and in joint assembly. And he leaves the question: Which is the worse—to maintain a corrupt, oppressive and inefficient Government by a free ballot, or to establish an impartial, honest and efficient Government by enforcing the supremacy of the white race?

CHILDHOOD. By Mrs. Theodore Birney. Published by Frederick A. Stokes Co., New York.

Dr. Stanley Hall has written the introduction to this book, and his recommendation is borne out by Mrs. Birney's excellent pages that follow. Though many paragraphs deal with hygiene and the physical conditions of childhood, the book is for the most part concerned with the ethical development of youth. Sympathy and patience are the author's watchwords. A sense of privileged guardianship rather than an erroneous one of proprietorship is the ideal suggested to parents. This attitude fosters in children a better idea of justice and of responsibility. As the author rightly comments, too much managing retards development of character. Admirable suggestions are given in chapters on the moral value of occupation, temperament and discipline, reading and adolescence.

IDEALS FOR GIRLS. By Mrs. Frank Learned. Published by the Frederick Stokes Co., New York.

These excellent articles appeared in the Delineator under the pen-name, Priscilla Wakefield. They aim to meet the perplexities of the modern girl, especially her who has largely in her own hands the direction of her own life and education. Stress is laid on the cultivation of charm, manners, and those other lovely social virtues that make at once woman's chief attraction and power for good. The root of these virtues is traced to depths of heart and character, to definite ideals of gentleness, kindness, justice and self-control. Stimulating advice is given in regard to making the acquaintance of good books and famous pictures, whose beauty and powers are of such inestimable ethical and aesthetic influence in molding one's life—what Mr. Wells calls "the vision of the Grail that makes life fine forever."

Some Recent Fiction.

THE THROWBACK. By Alfred Henry Lewis. The Outing Publishing Co., New York.

The peculiar title is explained by the characteristics of the hero, a young Virginian by name Alan Gordon, who according to the saying of a stern and disappointed father was a reversion of a type represented in his family by a distant savage ancestor. In other words the iron-willed senior Gordon, resenting equal strength of will in his son, declared that the lad was a "throwback," a degenerate, a savage on whom civilization had made no impression. Alan, in consequence, deserts his home, denies his name, becomes a son of the West and lives the life of freedom and semi-barbarism among the Indians. After the first few chapters the action takes place in the far Southwest among Texans, Indians, Mexicans, where the insolent, the cool, the intrepid Moonlight earns for himself a new reputation. There is a girl, too, who in spite of the refinement of civilization does not hesitate to risk her life when occasion demands, and so proves herself a fitting match for an insolent gray-eyed lover and solves the enigma of his destiny. There is a breeziness in every chapter, a guarantee that something will and does happen, and the atmosphere of the West is well caught.

THE TRIUMPH OF EUGENE VALMONT. By Robert Barr. D. Appleton & Co., New York.

The machinations and devices, the shrewdness and far-sightedness of a modern detective have given rise to a number of interesting characters, from Skillful Sam, the Six-eyed Sleuth, and Billy the Boy Detective, heroes of the yellow back series, all the way up to the more ingenious if not less remarkable exploits of Sherlock Holmes and Eugene Valmont. Valmont was originally the head of the Paris detective force, but owing to the evil fortunes inevitably attending the fatal diamond necklace, which ruined its maker, the jeweler, and its purchaser, the Cardinal, and its victim, the Queen, the career of Valmont is also affected, the how and why of which one may read in the first three chapters. Thereafter Valmont settled in London and pursues his avocation, the results of which he sets forth in a number of tales, curious, tragic, amusing and ingenious, any one of which is well worth reading. Valmont, like the renowned Sherlock, manages to get in a few slaps at the Scotland Yard detectives, who are apparently the densest on earth, but himself a Frenchman with a sense of drama, makes the most of every situation, for the benefit of his audience.

A CHEQUERED DESTINY. By Junius L. Hempstead. Ben Franklin Publishing Company, New York.

It is rather hard to place a conglomeration such as this story. The scene is laid in medieval times and shifts from the ancient English city of Dantima to Rome, Alexandria, Arabia and back to England, and after much reading one finally discovers that the main theme is the fervent effort of one Sir Jasper to rid himself of a magic letter, a strange white letter of the devil's invention which he carries on his breast. During his long pilgrimage in foreign lands his adventures are weird and mysterious, and his efforts are finally rewarded through the instructions of an astrologist. There is quite a flow of language and some power of description, but the whole story is disconnected, the chapters like changing scenes in a panorama, each one with little relation to that preceding it, and after a long vague ramble it ends like a modern detective story.

ALTON OF SOMASCO. By Harold Bindloss. Frederick A. Stokes Co., New York.

In this "romance of the great Northwest" there is a blending of the frank, free and natural life of the West, and the reserve, the subtleties, the complexities of a more conventional civilization. The figure of Henry Alton, a stalwart Canadian, grave and fine of soul, stands as a link between the two, and Alice Deringham, with her pride and her self-control, belongs distinctly to the latter. They are a man loyal to his love in spite of hatred and wrong and unworthiness and a woman who rises through her love to heights beyond pride and selfishness and evil. In this the story belongs to conventional life, but its setting is wholly Western, with that breadth of space for free action that one usually includes in that term "Western." There are chapters of adventure that are exciting, a deer hunt that ended in assassination, a man bleeding and weak, yet waiting doggedly for the enemy who meant to finish him, a thrilling race with claim-jumpers with the prosperity of a whole community for stakes.

Magazines For May.

Treatment of the delightful house of Nathaniel Thayer, Esq., at Lancaster, Mass., is the opening article of American Homes and Gardens for May.

This month's Tales contains, as usual, a most interesting collection of fiction by the best story-tellers of other lands. The complete novel is "The Fairy Godfather," by Henry Kistemaeckers, one of the most popular of the younger French authors.

As "To-Morrow" claims the credit for having converted President Roosevelt to the idea of Progressive Inheritance Tax by its editorial on that subject in the March number, its continuance in the same line of thought in the May number will be of interest.

Most notable, perhaps, among several notable articles in the May Everybody's Magazine, is Lindsay Denison's "Making Good at Panama." Mr. Denison's is the first authoritative story of the work being done on the canal.

Karl Edwin Harriman, editor of The Pilgrim, has been appointed editor of The Red Book, published in Chicago, to succeed Mr. Trumbull White, who goes to New York to edit Appleton's Magazine.

The Popular Science Monthly for May opens with a beautifully-illustrated article by Prof. Ralph S. Tarr, of Cornell University, giving an account of the scenery and geology of Watkins Glen and other Gorges of the Finger Lake Region of Central New York.

The Nautilus for May contains a notable poem, "The Word," by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, and a dainty little spring "Reveilion," by Ruth Sterry. Among the prose articles are the continuation of Ella Adelia Fletcher's remarkable studies on "The Law of Rhythmic Breath," and "The Automatic Slave," by Eleanor Kirk.

"The Grandeur of the Summits" is the title of an article in the May number of The Four-Track News. This is a beautifully writen and artistically illustrated description of the ever-changing vision and majesty of the Rockies.

The May Delineator, with a complete display, pictorial and descriptive, of the latest spring fashions, contains a wealth of suggestion for those who wish to be smartly gowned, and many other features of interest to women. Hon. Justice David J. Brewer contributes an article on "Woman in the Professions," in which he comments on the significance of the fact that the status of women has changed in the last half century.

The destruction of San Francisco by earthquake and fire, which has temporarily thrown every other concern of the day into relative insignificance, is fully and graphically pictured in the current number of Harper's Weekly, dated May 5. There is a vivid and picturesque description of the calamity by Miriam Michelson, author of "In the Bishop's Carriage;" and her article is accompanied by sixteen pages of remarkably clear and comprehensive photographs of scenes in the ruined city, selected from the first authentic photographs that were received in New York after the disaster.

The May Green Bag opens with an interesting account of one of the most striking characters in American legal history, the famous Judge Martin, of the Supreme Court of Louisiana. The unique personality of this brilliant man is set forth most entertainingly, and his influence on the law ably estimated by Pierce Butler, president of H. Sophie Newcomb College of New Orleans.

English before it was English. That's the period about which we of English descent are pretty ignorant, that Rudyard Kipling has chosen as the setting of his new series, "Robin Goodfellow—His Friends," which begins in the May McClure's.

The five May issues of the Youth's Companion will contain an amount of the best reading equivalent to two 400-page novels or books of history, travel or biography. A serial by Adeline Knapp, called "The Downfall of a 'Boss,'" opens in the first May issue. It is the story of a girl who, put in control of a country newspaper office, manages by her bravery and honesty to win a notable victory over an unscrupulous politician.

"The Arena" for May is strong, bold and thought-compelling. No magazine of our time goes more unsparingly and searchingly to the root of social, political and economic evil conditions than does this leading Twentieth century magazine under its present editorial management.

The biggest new idea in the National for May is embodied in Charles Ferguson's suggestion that the nation shall charter university-cities and allow them liberal shares of the arid lands now being made fertile by irrigation. With far-seeing swift sanity and glowing eloquence, Mr. Ferguson pleads for a chance here to show the world how to build at once scientific cities and useful universities. This article deserves and will doubtless receive close study.

With May the hearts of most men and women turn to thoughts of making things grow. Very happily timed then is the May Century's "garden number," beautiful with garden pictures, and with a rich list of "garden" features from such authorities as Frances Duncan, author of "Mary's Garden and How It Grew," George W. Cable, the Hon. Francis E. Leupp, Helen Evertson Smith, and from Luther Burbank, a discussion of "The Training of the Human Plant."

Mr. Perriton Maxwell, who for six years past has held an editorial position on the Metropolitan Magazine, has severed his connection with that publication, and will in the course of a few weeks take charge of a new monthly magazine, which will have its first issue in the coming autumn. His desk on the Metropolitan has been filled by Mr. Homer Saint-Gaudens, son of the well-known sculptor, who has left the Critic Magazine to accept the situation.

The Law Breakers.

In this volume of short stories Robert Grant has shown what he can do with a certain line of problems that concern individual consciences. He takes every day lapses that are pardoned by society generally or rather overlooked as a matter of course, and he makes of them crises in human life.

Of his skill in managing a situation the public has had many brilliant examples, though he has here as elsewhere violated some of the canons of real art. Take for instance the second story in this volume, "Against His Judgment." He tells a striking tale in which is interwoven an attractive love affair from the hero's point of view. All goes well with the reader until the end. There is no stumbling, no fumbling around for hidden meanings, the thought, feeling, underlying motive of the hero excites sympathy, true and warm; the reader sees through his eyes, hears with his ears. Then the author gives a violent shock by letting this hero, this teller of the tale, into which body the reader has entered, be mangled to death by a railroad train.

It reminds one of that celebrated story wherein the "I" falls asleep, tells his dream and dies before he wakens. Who knows what he dreams? While this story is not told in the first person, it is told from George Gorham's point of view from the time of the dinner to the hour of his death and from an artistic standpoint is as mangled by the ending as is poor Gorham himself.

THE LAW BREAKERS. By Robert Grant. Published by Charles Scribner's Sons, New York City.

Bridge Lessons by Mail.

In the third lesson of Elwell's course in Bridge that brilliant card player deals with the secondary lead in as clear and explicit a fashion as he considered the declaration and the opening lead in former lessons.

Mr. Elwell says that while certain rules may be applied to the original lead it is necessarily made somewhat in the dark; but the secondary lead can be made with a knowledge of the situation as revealed by Dummy, by the cards already played and the inference drawn from the declaration. After the opening lead the player should be more and more impressed with the value of concentrated observation.

Some eighteen pages are devoted to the ins and outs, the do and don'ts of this important stage, which will prove of great help to the ambitious beginner in the fascinating game.

Nothing in the way of bridge lessons has ever equaled this admirable series. The third problem in the thousand-dollar contest accompanies the pamphlet. This contest is open to all without charge or consideration of any kind, though it is requested—not required—that answers be submitted on the form accompanying the statement of the problems or on paper of similar size and shape. The contest is open until January 1, 1907.

SATURDAY..........MAY 12, 1906

"Business."

Friday Evening, May 11.—The New York stock market ruled strong throughout, closing near the best prices of the day, and at an advance over yesterday's close.

Money on call was steady at 3¼ to 3¾ per cent., ruling at 3½. Time funds were steady at 5 to 5¾. Sterling exchange was easier.

Final quotations on wheat for July delivery were up 1⅝c to 1½c. Corn for May delivery was 1⅛c higher and for July delivery ⅛c higher. Oats were up ⅜c.

The cotton market developed a reactionary tendency, but had a steady undertone. Closing prices showed little change from opening quotations.

The Chicago cattle market was strong, the hog market 5c to 7½c higher, and the sheep market 10c higher.

The Czar's Speech.

It is not surprising that the address of Nicholas to the Douma was received without applause from that body. What they thought they were there for is set out in a remark made by one of them just before they assembled: "Our efforts will be directed not to passing legislation which will bring temporary relief to Russia, but to the larger duty of establishing the supremacy of the people's rule over autocracy. We recognize the power of the bureaucracy, but we firmly believe that the voice of the people will ultimately rise supreme." This does not express the opinion of all of them, but it is probably the idea with which the majority of the real representatives of the people came together.

The first sentence of the address which the Czar made to these people was: "The Supreme Providence which gave me the care of our fatherland moved me to call to my assistance in legislative work elected representatives of the people." In this introductory sentence we have a repetition of all the falsehoods by which autocratic power is supported. The doctrine of divine right is asserted at the threshold. The weak and wretched man who calls himself the Czar of all the Russias asserts at the outset that he is chosen to that high place by Divine Providence, Who must accordingly think more of him than of the one hundred and thirty millions over whom he asserts a sway which he describes as having its origin in a divine preference. Next in this pregnant sentence he asserts that the same Divine Providence that prefers him to his people, and makes the people merely to serve him, had moved him to summon the Douma—for what? Not to assert the right of the people to have some voice in the making of laws, for this people is presumed at the outset to be merely an appanage of the Czar. But he was impelled to summon the representatives of the people, not to legislate, but merely to assist the Czar in the legislative work, which he complacently declares is his alone. The people are nothing, the Czar is all in all. Whatever assistance they may be able to render him in the work of legislation they are bound to supply, but the obligation is not mutual. No suggestion of theirs imposes any obligation on the high and mighty being whom a Supreme Providence has selected to declare the destiny of one hundred and thirty millions of people. They are bound to assist him when he calls, but he is not at all bound to regard them.

This initial utterance furnishes the key to all that follows. Later on he expresses the aspiration to hand down to his son an empire secure and enlightened. The Supreme Providence has not only elected him, but all his family, to control the destinies of the Russian people. As he is an autocrat by Divine Right, so all his posterity are to be autocrats in the same way. The enlightenment for which he declares is the general recognition that he and his successors are the chief concern of Divine Providence, and that the people have nothing to do except to render him such assistance as he may require.

There is one passage in the speech which, detached from what is said before and after it, is well worthy of serious consideration: "To the dignity and prosperity of the State," he says, "not only freedom, but order founded upon justice is necessary." This is true. But what he said before and after implies that no freedom is intended to be vouchsafed. Order ought certainly to be maintained, but order based on justice is not possible in a country where the will of one weak man must prevail over every other consideration. If the Russian people are not capable of self-government, as some of them have shown that they are not, then a period of preparation, with the assurance that they shall have it when they are worthy of it, should be proposed. Nothing of this kind is said or intimated. The maintenance of the autocracy is everywhere implied as equally the will of heaven and of heaven's favorites in Russia.

Between the ideas expressed in the Czar's speech and those of the member of the Douma whom we have quoted, there is an irrepressible conflict. The one makes the autocracy everything, the people nothing but assistants, whose advice may be accepted or disregarded. The other makes the people the source of all sovereignty, and the Czar and his Ministers nothing but servants. The two cannot possibly be sustained together. In the long run the Russian people must elect between them. The Douma must be more than the Emperor concedes or it will be virtually nothing.

What of the Night?

The everlasting clash between Mammon and Morals, almost as old as the world—the irrepressible conflict between the organized few who reap and the unorganized many who sow—is on, as it has never been on before, in this country, accelerated and accentuated by a President young enough to feel in his blood and therefore to conceive in his brain the trend of modern thought, the pressure of modern conditions, and brave enough to brook the displeasure of a great element of his own party, and—visionary enough, it may prove—to throw himself into the swift-flowing stream—to rescue alike his country and his party from a menace as ominous and as perilous as ever African Slavery was in the height of its power.

Five or six years ago Elihu Root, one of the very ablest and most clear-sighted men who stand now, or who have at any time stood, in the fore-front of our public life, had the temerity to get up in the Union League Club in New York, of which he was the President, and tell the Republicans assembled there the truth about the Negro and Negro Suffrage; to propose a pull-up of the racial and sectional agitation in that quarter; and, for his courage and sagacity—though he was personally immensely popular and as a Republican wholly trusted—he got mostly kicks and cuffs from associates who could see nothing beyond their political horizon, and who, party like, were willing to concede nothing until they should be forced to.

Mr. Roosevelt is traveling the same road traveled by Mr. Root, only further along and much more perilously, and yet, if the Republicans carry the next Congress, they will owe it to Mr. Roosevelt, to him alone, and not to themselves.

He is giving them time to look about them and to mend their hold. He is keeping us Democrats at bay. He is going as far as a good soldier may dare to go across the enemy's lines for forage. The trouble with the Republicans is that they have too much money and not enough food. They are dressed too well and look too pretty. Except for that attractive figure under the slouched hat—those buck-boots with the corduroys stuck into them—and the big stick—let us not forget the big stick—except for Teddy, in short, we would in the fall elections sweep all before us. We may do so anyhow. But, it is cocksure that on every stump in the Middle North, the West and the Northwest, every Republican candidate will be swearing by that slouch hat and these buck-boots, by Teddy and the big stick, the appeal being, "Give us just one more chance" and "Teddy'll make it all right."

Whatever may appear hereafter, whatever may be thought of Theodore Roosevelt, it is true to say that he has turned his back upon the rascals in the back-room and his face to his countrymen. He has brought, as no other had power to do, the country breast to breast with its danger. The Robber Baron, in his castle, may cry "Socialist" at Bryan, the Knights of Standard Oil, and other bandits, may cry "anarchist," at Hearst. Even old-line Republicans may suspect their old-line Democratic neighbors to be a little too much touched by prejudice against the corporations. But, nobody, as far as the record shows up to date, can successfully arraign Theodore Roosevelt in these matters for a lack of enlightened patriotism, or courageous ability; nor can any honest Republican, who loves his country and does not mean to surrender it to the mastership of organized capital, with its gigantic and corrupt appliances, say that in any proceeding of his, he is recreant to any Republican profession, or ideal.

Somebody, some party, must take the bull of Plutocracy—that is the only name for it—by the horns, and turn him out of the garden, where he is making such havoc, and into the pasture, where he belongs.

If it be not Roosevelt, it will be Bryan, or Hearst, or some one of their ilk—so runs the Republican end of the argument—and better have the job done by statesmen than by the mob. Just as the old Democratic party let slavery run too long and too far—until it ran into Secession and War—is the Republican party letting the Autocracy of Wealth—of wealth piled up partly by mistaken and unequal laws and partly in spite of all law—have its will and way in the control of the Government. There must be a halt, or down does the Republican party.

Whether the President can reform his party within itself—whether he can reshape it and save it—remains to be seen. The Republicans have certainly had uncommon luck. As far back as General Grant's time the Democrats were pretty sure to come to the rescue with some folly, or other, at the opportune moment. Maybe the spell has not yet been lifted from the patient beast which even the popular fancy seems to have prefigured as Democracy. Be this as it may, the issue remains the same; the case is made up: Republicanism versus Plutocracy; Democracy versus Classism and Socialism; the masses of the People, who want and mean to have a square deal, on the one hand; the Criminal Aggregations of Money, which set their interests above the law, their will a law unto itself, both corrupt and corrupting, on the other hand.

We print elsewhere in this issue of the Courier-Journal a screed on the general subject taken from the body of an article in the current number of the Arena and written by Albert Brandt, which puts the whole case with power and truth. Mr. Brandt's objective point was the attempt of the lately exposed Insurance Companies to weather further exposure, first, by the sacrifice of a few rascals who could not make good their escape, and then by the whitewashing reports of self-constituted committees of investigation. His immediate illustration was the gallant stand made by Stuyvesant Fish in the Truesdale Committee and not only the way he was sat upon by that committee, but the threat of the Big Corporations in community of interest to wipe him out entirely because solely of his courage and integrity in the public interest. The quotations we make will repay perusal. They move one sadly to ask, "Where, oh, where is Jerome, and why, oh why, did he let up at the moment, when, at whose, or whatever, cost, his one, only cue was to "cry havoc and let slip the dogs of war!"

The Canal Work.

Mr. Shonts, Chief Engineer of the Panama Canal and chairman of the Canal Commission, drawing a salary of $30,000, and at the same time president of the Clover Leaf Railroad Company, has just returned from an inspection of the work in progress and has submitted his report to the Secretary of War. While not wholly assuring, it makes a better exhibit than has heretofore come from that quarter. The indications are that Mr. Stevens, the engineer in charge, is getting matters, which have so long been in confusion, in better shape for effective construction work. In other words, there is a prospect that before many months he will make "dirt fly," which is the local expression for actual digging of the canal.

Inasmuch as we are in the third year since the treaty with Panama making the concession, and as actual work in canal construction has been going on nearly two years, the progress shown by Mr. Shonts is not cheering. It is true that this has been chiefly preparatory, yet it seems a long time to consume in merely getting ready to dig the canal. Much of this delay has been because of the unsanitary condition of the isthmus, the greater part of the past two years having been given to the sanitation of Panama, Colon and other points and the construction of works for a healthful water supply and approved precautions against yellow fever. Some idea of the magnitude of the undertaking can be gathered from the figures of Mr. Shonts in regard to the water supply. Four reservoirs have been created for the distribution of a healthful supply of water to the district of Panama, Empire, Gorgona and Colon, each with a capacity of 850,000,000 gallons. As a consequence the health conditions are better than they have ever been, and will compare favorably with any country having within similar area a laboring force of from 22,000 to 23,000 persons.

When, however, the occupations followed by this army of employes are noted one cannot but be surprised that there is not a larger proportion of them engaged in actual canal construction. Of this total 2,845 are engaged in Government and sanitation work; 3,295 in municipal engineering in charge of construction of water supply sewers, roads, etc.; 2,946 in charge of houses and quarters; 1,670 in charge of materials and supplies; 1,521 in charge of motive power and shops; 400 in administration duties, including care of quarters, and ninety engaged in auditing and disbursing. The sum total of these is 12,827, all engaged in other work than digging the canal, while the number so employed, in the four divisions where excavation is going on, is but 4,054. The total thus accounted for is 17,881. As Mr. Shonts more than once refers to the presence on the isthmus of 23,000, this leaves over 5,000 unaccounted for. All not engaged in actual excavation may be said to be employed in making the necessary preparations for getting to work in earnest upon the construction of the canal.

As preliminary to this Mr. Shonts, referring to the thorough preparations he has been engaged in making to this end, enumerates the steps he has taken and is still prosecuting: effective organization, the sanitation of the isthmus, providing comfortable quarters and food for employes, constructing terminal, yard and railway track facilities; intermediate yards for handling vast quantities of supplies and material, the installation of a system of tracks through cuts, the working out of all engineering problems and the formation of a comprehensive plan for carrying forward the work of each department. Then, he says, comes the actual construction of a given type of canal. This is all very well in its way, but it is the kind of engineering wisdom which has been heard for several years, with the actual construction of the canal making little or no progress. The type of canal has not even been decided on, notwithstanding it has been the greater part of a year since a commission of native and foreign experts made a report on the subject recommending a sea-level canal. The President did not confirm the report, yet no other plan has been adopted, and Mr. Shonts says the necessity of deciding the question is urgent, as pending it certain important work has to be held back.

The report of Mr. Shonts is not unlike all that have been made since the inception of the work. The difficulties in getting down to actual digging are pointed out and represented as in course of removal. Yet each succeeding report has very much the same tenor. It is the same old "to-morrow and to-morrow and to-morrow" of Macbeth, with the Spanish significance expressed by "manana, manana," an indefinite limit to an undefined procrastination.

Great Britain's Ultimatum.

It remains to be seen what effect the ultimatum of Great Britain will have upon his bronze majesty, the Sultan. Great Britain has sent him many an ultimatum before, and after vowing he would ne'er consent he has consented. Being the successor of Mahomet, the Sultan of Turkey understands the strategic value of "playing up" his spiritual altitude and "playing down" the heretical Christians; when Great Britain presses he makes capital out of the brutality of the coercing Christians, their wanton disregard of his divinity serving to arouse his people to a warmer loyalty for him as their spiritual head, which, in turn, strengthens his hands as their temporal ruler. The cunning codger apparently enjoys receiving an ultimatum from some source now and then. It cannot hurt him much abroad and can help him much at home. By giving in at last he avoids bloodshed and a few other inconveniences which usually attend a war, and gains the credit for having upheld the sacred honor of his religion, as well as the rights of his nation. They are hinting in England that his moustachioed imperiousness, the Kaiser, is nudging Abdul Hamid encouragingly during the present controversy, in the hope that his pet enemy, Great Britain, may suffer embarrassment; but the Kaiser's Ambassador in London holds up his hands in indignation and says: "No such thing." Assuming for argument that Great Britain and Turkey should come to blows this time, no one would dream of any other outcome than a severe trouncing for Turkey. How would this benefit Germany? Any war which Great Britain might undertake would necessarily cause some damage to Great Britain's fighting forces. Any damage to these would cause Wilhelm to grin. And, besides, if Germany desired to try arms with her disliked rival, what better time could be found for it than during just such an engagement as threatens between this rival and Turkey? This, at any rate, is the way certain Englishmen are figuring it out in their efforts to prove against the Kaiser a charge of meddling, all the while forgetting that even foolish nations do not go to war unless there is some overwhelming, immediate and concrete issue at hand.

When one nation sends another such a thing as an "ultimatum" the world usually rubs its eyes and looks for a scrap. The word "ultimatum" has so ominous a sound that when used it is naturally concluded that something awful is bound to follow. The ultimatum sent by Great Britain to Turkey, of course, seems terribly warlike, and the report that a British fleet has put to sea under sealed orders seems even more so; but it is a safe guess that by the time the fleet makes a "demonstration" the Sultan, calling his people's attention to his valor in defying the "heretics," will scramble from his perch with agility, if not with grace.

The row is over a small money matter. Both Governments proposed to run railroads to the head of the Gulf of Akaba, the eastern arm of the Red Sea. The Turks' line was to be a branch of the Hamidieh-Hajaz railroad and was to extend from Kalaat Mdawara to Akaba. It was the plan of the British to build from Suez to Taba, a town on the Gulf of Akaba a few miles west of Akaba. To checkmate the English the Turks put a garrison in Taba. The British demanded that the troops be removed. The Turks refused to evacuate. The boundary line of Egypt, over which country England exercises control, is at the bottom of the dispute. The British claim that the boundary of Egypt is a line connecting Akaba on the Red Sea with El Arish on the Mediterranean. The Turks claim all the territory to the south of the line from El Arish to Suez and north of the line from Suez to Akaba. The interpretation of the Firman of 1841 is involved. This intrusted the Sinai peninsula to the Egyptian Government for protection of the route of the pilgrims to Mecca. This arrangement was modified in 1892, after the pilgrims had ceased to go by land. The Turkish Government took back the vilayet of Akaba, which it now insists includes the port of Taba. Both countries are apparently making ready to use force. The force will turn out, most likely, to be of the comic opera variety.

Order In Panama.

To take the little republic of Panama seriously, without losing sight of the reason of its creation, is a rather difficult task. All the world knows that it was brought into existence by a handful of men, with the object of agreeing to a treaty with the United States for the construction of a canal across the isthmus. For this purpose it was necessary to make sacred the right of secession, and to head off by force the desire of Colombia to coerce the secessionists. All this was done, and the little republic made the treaty for which it was created, and got a large sum for what it did not own.

As our views with reference to the canal were inconsistent with a war of coercion, so also are they incompatible with the favorite pastime of South American republics in the fostering of revolutions. Such a republic that cannot have every year or two a successful insurrection which will change the personnel of the people in power, is, in the opinion of those who are out of office, no better than a despotism. Hence the men who were not enjoying the sweets of office, who are probably a majority (though that makes no sort of difference), fondly held to the theory that so long as they did not invade the canal zone they were free to carry on their line of amusements without let or hindrance from us. But they are now told that they are altogether wrong. Any disorder in Panama will interfere with the work on the canal, so it must not take place. If anybody starts anything, the army and navy of the United States will be employed to put it down.

In other words, the republic must not forget the reason of its being. It was created by the United States for the United States, and it must remember what it is for. So long as it does not interfere with the reason of its being, it may amuse itself as it likes, but it must never forget that we created it for our own purposes, and intend to see that it serves that purpose.

The police surveillance in Russia over political meetings is so deep-rooted that it will be a long time, if ever, before such gatherings will be free from it. An illustration of this was shown in St. Petersburg the other day when, pending the assembling of Parliament, some members of the lower house or New Council of the Empire held a meeting to deliberate on certain measures to be considered in the national body. Without warning the building was surrounded by the Ismailovsky Guard regiment and a hundred policemen when Count Heyden, a marshal of the nobility and a member of Parliament for St. Petersburg, was presiding and ordered the meeting to disperse under instructions of the Chief of Police. In spite of vigorous protests that the meeting was entirely legal, the members of Parliament were compelled to yield to force and left the hall. Subsequently at a meeting of the Constitutional Democrats resolutions were adopted denouncing the action of the police and condemning the Bureaucrats for the violation of good faith in instigating the proceeding.

While the United States is suffering from an overflowing stream of foreign immigration and using every expedient to limit the tide, Canada is quite as active in her efforts to increase the number of immigrants to that country. Among other means resorted to for this purpose is the payment of a bonus of $13 to emigration agents in Great Britain for each immigrant arriving from the United Kingdom and $5 for every one from the continent. The effect of this policy has been to increase the number of immigrants from Great Britain within the last five years from 8,000 year to 65,000. A better class of immigrants has been secured to the exclusion of the less desirable European types, such as comprise the bulk of those who come to the United States. The opening up of large areas of grain-producing lands in Western Canada has created a new demand for an increased population, which is being supplied chiefly by immigrants from Great Britain and the American States along the Canadian border.

Albert Pulitzer, inventor of the yellow journalism, announces that he intends to establish in the fall a New York daily, which shall be as wide a departure from the journalism of to-day as was his Journal twenty-four years ago. There is no excuse, in his opinion, for getting out a paper that is like others; his is to be entirely different from any paper published at present. If it is possible to forgive Mr. Pulitzer for turning loose the yellow monster upon a meek and innocent public, it will be worth while, as a matter of journalistic curiosity, to wait to see what this new affair is to be like—or unlike. It requires a pretty resourceful mind to devise a newspaper freak differing from the menagerie of freaks that already have made day hideous and journalism ashamed.

Years ago, it is recalled, Parton predicted that the coming man would neither smoke nor drink. The coming man has not yet arrived. But if the coming man will neither smoke nor drink, the indications are that it will be because the coming woman will leave him nothing to smoke or drink.

The Irrepressible Conflict Between Criminal Wealth and Common Honesty.

[From the Arena.]

BY ALBERT BRANDT.

I.

One question transcends all other issues calling for the immediate action of our people, because on it depends the fate of free institutions. For more than a quarter of a century a power has been at work in our civic and business life as sinister as it is destructive to democratic government; a power not altogether new, it is true, in political and commercial affairs, but now for the first time perfectly organized and so developed as to act as a formidable, sentient being whose growth has been as rapid as its evil influence has been far-reaching and pronounced. This baleful influence has now intrenched itself so firmly in city, State and national government, and has become so arrogant and aggressive a force in the business world that it defies laws when it cannot prevent their enactment.

Its high priests hold that it is immaterial to them what the courts desire to know. It has bulwarked itself behind untold millions of wealth largely acquired by indirection and criminal methods. It has surrounded itself by a bodyguard of lawyers whose intellectual acuteness is only surpassed by their moral obliquity, and it assumes that it is not only above the law, but more powerful than the Government of the United States. This power—the communism of corrupt wealth, the feudalism of the criminal rich—must be destroyed or the Republic of the future will mask a despotism of privileged wealth as absolute in power as was the oligarchy that long ruled the so-called Republic of Venice, or as was the rule of Augustus Caesar after he became the supreme power of the imperial republic of Rome.

At the outset let the line be clearly drawn between honest and dishonest wealth; between the money that has been earned by just labor or without injuring others, and the money that has been acquired by criminal methods —by methods as multitudinous as they are infamous, and that have frequently embraced a crime that should rank with high treason—the corruption of the people's representatives. No danger confronts the Republic to-day comparable to the evil influence of the oligarchy of the criminal rich, who are corrupting government, demoralizing business, obliterating the sense of moral proportion in church, school and State, and through the power gained by evil methods are destroying respect for law while oppressing and exploiting the people.

The advance of the communism of corrupt wealth has of late been so rapid, the stream of gold diverted to the pockets of the criminals has become so great in volume, the corrupt practices of the beneficiaries have become so flagrant and insolently offensive and their assumptions of invincibility so obvious, that he must be dead to all the sentiments of noble patriotism, of justice and of common honesty who can be blind to the fact that we have reached a point where the people must choose between freedom and slavery; between democracy and the despotism of the criminal rich; between sound morality and a sordid materialism that flouts ethical idealism and all sentiments of civic duty and moral rectitude.

Fortunately for the nation, official investigations of the past year have laid bare the true condition of affairs among the great officials of the insurance world, fully establishing the grave and almost incredible charges that had been made of colossal criminal action carried on systematically for years by men who have posed as leaders in the world of Wall street and American business life. Since the commencement of the Armstrong investigation the curtain has been lifted from time to time, affording vivid glimpses of the criminal rich at work behind the scenes, and the spectacle has been so amazing and alarming in character that had not the facts been established under oath men would have been justified in regarding them with incredulity.

Now, however, since the investigation of the insurance companies is over, the harpies of Wall street are seeking to gloss over the crimes, to hush up the scandals and to re-establish the old order after pretended reformation. This must not be permitted. Less than ever must the people allow themselves to be lulled to sleep at the present time. Only by a determined and sustained battle for the overthrow of corrupt wealth and the re-enthronement of honesty and rectitude in political and business life can we be saved from a despotism of the corrupt rich which could only be overthrown by the shock, the waste and the ruin of a forcible revolution. To save the Republic to the people and to avert a revolution of bloodshed is the high duty of all true-minded patriots.

In the presence of the irrepressible conflict that is now pending perhaps nothing is so important as for the people to have brought clearly before them the picture of the criminal rich behind their breastworks, that they may see not only the methods and practices of the enemies of the Republic, but also that they may appreciate how grave is the danger and solemn duty that confronts awakened patriotism.

II.

Upon the very eve of the publication of the official records that established the stupendous criminality of the Tweed Ring, it secured a vindicating report from a committee of leading New York business men whose probity had never been questioned, declaring in so many words, as the result of their personal investigation, that: "We have come to the conclusion and certify that the financial affairs of the city under the charge of the Comptroller are administered in a correct and faithful manner."

So high was the standing of the men who composed this committee that the critics of the Ring were discredited, even in the face of facts that should have been presumptive evidence of the theft of millions, and there can be little doubt but what the report of these prominent business men would have secured a lengthened term of official power for the great criminals had not a New York newspaper, the Times, obtained and published irrefutable proof of the theft of millions. In passing it should be observed that later it was discovered that these highly respectable New York business men were having their taxes remitted by the Ring.

Since that time, whenever criminality and moral turpitude on the part of influential political bosses, officials in important positions or master spirits of Wall street and the great corporations have been so well established that the public refuses to dismiss the charges against the criminals as irresponsible accusations of sensation-mongers, officials enjoying the confidence of the public or business men's committees have been called into requisition to ally the growing clamor for an honest outside investigation of the charges and the reports of these examiners who enjoy the confidence of the people have served to confuse the public mind and throw dust in the eyes of the masses, under cover of which the accused have been able to beat a successful retreat until new sensations and disclosures have diverted the attention of the public from their criminality. Not unfrequently they have even dared to pose as martyrs before the public.

Often these reports of honored public officials or of whitewashing committees composed of business men enjoying the confidence of the public have occasioned perplexity and amazement on the part of many thoughtful people. They have overlooked certain all-important facts without the consideration of which the actions that have discredited so many so-called investigations by people of eminent respectability are inexplicable.

Since the rise of the political boss and the perfecting of the partisan machine, officials who enjoy the confidence of the public have been placed largely at the mercy of the boss and the great interests which control him and are the secret of his strength. To oppose the interests of either the so-called boss or his real masters mean political destruction, while to be complacent to the interests and blind to facts means political security and advancement. So, even in a greater degree, are prominent men of Wall street and the world of business to-day beholden to the master-spirits of a few great corporations and financial institutions. Men naturally high-minded and who under just and honesty-favoring conditions would be strictly upright, soon become involved in a net of fatally downward-tending influences when they enter Wall street or become active heads of great corporations. Sometimes in the sudden turn of the wheel they find themselves in a close place where their business life is at stake, and at this critical moment one of the great master-spirits of Wall street comes to their aid and thus lays a strong claim upon them for future recognition of a kindness that saved the threatened ones from ruin.

Again, the great business interests, public-service corporations, the trusts, monopolies and banks, are all inextricably bound together. Their interests not only overlap and intertwine, but the criminal rich in certain great and lawless trusts and corporations have reached a point where their word is law in many places where their influence is little dreamed of by the public. And lastly, none know better than the prominent men in the financial and business world what it means to seriously antagonize the Standard Oil Company or the Harriman, Morgan and Ryan interests. He who stands for old-time honesty and justice when such stand threatens the great dominating influences in Wall street, courts business destruction.

And thus it is that the master-spirits of Wall street no less than the criminal rich who systematically corrupt the people's servants and defy laws enacted to protect the public from the rapacity of the great commercial brigands, feel little dread of housecleaning committees composed of members of the corporations under fire. It is important to bear in mind these facts as they explain and illustrate many things that have been perplexing the general public and are very germane to the subject under consideration.

Y. M. C. A. WORK

DISCUSSED BY STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Death of O. B. Van Horn, Former Secretary, Announced—Tuberculosis Fatal.

Lexington, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—The regular quarterly meeting of the Executive Committee of the Kentucky Y. M. C. A. was held at the Lexington Y. M. C. A. building to-day. There were sixteen members of the committee present, including Charles D. Gates, Bruce Haldeman, W. H. Marquess, Charles A. Lutz and A. W. McBee, of Louisville; Richard P. Ernst, of Covington; J. F. Amsden, of Versailles; Dr. J. A. Alexander, of Spring Station; B. T. Spencer, of Winchester; George A. Hullbell, of Berea, and James A. Curry and Dr. J. A. Stucky, of Lexington. Also State Secretary Henry E. Rosevear, and Department Secretaries P. C. Dix and B. W. Godfrey, of Louisville. The reports of subcommittees and secretaries were most encouraging, especially in the large number of building movements throughout the State.

The committee reviewed the work in the State since the last annual meeting, which was held in Lexington in February, and discussed plans for future development and extension. Secretary Rosevear to-night received a telegram forwarded from Louisville, which gave the sad news that O. B. Van Horn had died to-day at the home of his father, at Otsego, Mich. Mr. Van Horn had been secereaary of the committee in charge of religious work in the State for the past two years. He left Louisville last March in hope of restoring his health in Michigan. Death was due to tuberculosis.

Said State Secretary Rosevear to-night: "Mr. Van Horn's death is a distinct loss to the association's work in this State, and will cause deep personal grief to all with whom he had been associated."

UPHOLDS ACT FOR REDEMPTION OF BONDS.

Court of Appeals Sustains Senator Harbeson's Bill For Kenton County.

Frankfort, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—The Court of Appeals, Judge Barker writing, affirmed the Kenton Circuit Court in the case of Anna Durrett vs. the Sheriff of Kenton County, upholding the act of the recent Legislature and holding constitutional the act introduced by Senator Harbeson providing for the redemption of Kenton county turnpike bonds.

The court in concluding says: "The power of fixing the burden of taxation to meet the indebtedness arising from the turnpike construction being originally possessed by the Legislature, when it was afterward ascertained that the first plan was unjust and inequitable, it was within the province of the law-making power to readjust this burden upon a new and more equitable plan."

Judge Barber, in another opinion, affirmed the Jefferson Criminal Court in Sam Hunter vs. Commonwealth from Jefferson. Hunter was given five years for grand larceny.

The court, in an opinion by Judge Paynter, affirmed the Jefferson Common Pleas Court in the case of Mutual Life of Kentucky vs. Chosen Friends Lodge No. 2, I. O. O. F. The appellee was awarded judgment for $4,000, the value of certain bonds alleged to have been wrongfully converted by the appellant.

ENGINEERS WILL VISIT MAMMOTH CAVE.

Memphis, May 11.—The two sessions of to-day's convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers were given over entirely to the presentation of resolutions and appeals from the various divisions, all of which were in turn referred to the proper committees. Arrangements for excursions to Mammoth Cave and Hot Springs are being made. The visit to Mammoth Cave will take place on May 19, and over 500 delegates have signified their intention of making the trip.

PIECE OF CORN STALK CAUSES MAN'S DEATH.

Points About People.

Two beautiful houseboats owned by Messrs. Layfaette and Garrett E. Lamb, of Iowa, will arrive in Louisville to-day with a party of guests aboard, and a round of gaieties has been planned for the visitors. Each boat has its own steamboat and each is beautifully equipped.

Mr. Layfaette Lamb owns the houseboat, Idler and the steamer Wanderer, and Mr. Garrett E. Lamb owns the Summer Girl and the steamer, the Chaperon.

Each will have about ten guests aboard, and they will be entertained while here by Mr. John Deere Cady, of Moline, Ill., a cousin of the Messrs. Lamb, who is the guest of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Emily Ward Gilmore.

This afternoon at 1 o'clock, Mrs. Emily Ward Gilmore will entertain the party at a buffet luncheon at her home in Belgravia, and has invited about twenty guests to meet them.

This evening Mr. Lucien Irwin will entertain the party at dinner at Fontaine Ferry Park.

W. H. LEWIS DIES.

Treasurer of Monon Railroad Nearly Half Century.

TOOK UP DUTIES OF OFFICE IN NEW ALBANY IN 1858.

SEVENTY YEARS OLD WHEN DEATH ENDS CAREER.

RARE RECORD AS OFFICIAL.

A telegram was received in New Albany last evening from Chicago announcing the death in that city yesterday afternoon of William Henry Lewis, who had been treasurer of the Monon Railroad Company for forty-eight years, occupying that position at the time of his death.

He was seventy years old and entered the service of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago Railway Company (the Monon) in 1858, when New Albany was the headquarters of the company, and he had held the position continuously since, although the road has changed hands a half dozen times in his nearly fifty years of constant service.

He lived in New Albany until the headquarters were transferred to Chicago, over twenty years ago, when he removed with his family to that city. His wife died eighteen years ago, and he is survived by three children—Capt. Edward Lewis, of the United States army; Arthur Lewis, of Covington, and Mrs. Addie Heffren, of Chicago, who was married but a few weeks ago.

The body will be taken to New Albany Sunday morning and funeral services will be held that afternoon in the Second Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Lewis for many years was an elder, and the burial will be in Fairview cemetery, on the family burial plat. Heart disease is given as the cause of death.

OBJECT TO WILL.

Son Says Valentine Becht Was Incapable of Executing Testament.

In the Floyd Circuit Court at New Albany Thursday afternoon Theodore T. Becht, by his attorneys, Stotsenburg & Weathers, filed objections to the probating of the will of his father, the late Valentine Becht, who died a few days ago and whose funeral took place yesterday morning. When the heirs of the late Valentine Becht went to the County Clerk's office yesterday afternoon to probate the will they found these objections had been filed.

The late Valentine Becht, whose death occurred at New Albany Wednesday morning, was eighty years old and is survived by nine children and a grandson, J. H. Hood. The children are Mrs. Rosa Starck, Julius, Louis, Charles, Edward G. Otto, August, Rudolph and Theodore Becht. One son, Louis Becht, left New Albany twenty-five years ago and has not been heard from since.

Theodore, who filed the objections against the probating of the will, is the youngest child and a half brother of the others. He alleges in his objections that his father was incapable of executing a will. The contents of the testament were not made public, as the objections prevented its being probated, but it is understood that the testator left him but $100, devising the remainder of his estate to the other children, share and share alike, with the exception that the grandson, J. W. Hood, is to receive $600 less than the others.

The estate is valued at from $10,000 to $20,000, and consists of property in New Albany, Jeffersonville, Louisville and Evansville. It is understood that the matter probably will be satisfactorily adjusted within a few days without taking it into court.

Three Wills Probated.

Three wills were probated in the Floyd Circuit Court at New Albany yesterday. Mrs. Rebecca J. Pierce, widow of Wesley Pierce, who died at her home on the Silver Hills two weeks ago, devises her entire estate, real, personal and mixed, to her son, Harry C. Pierce, appointing him executor. The will was executed August 12, 1901, the witnesses being Zerelda H. Prosser and Charles A. Prosser.

The will of Mrs. Amelia Feilbach was probated yesterday morning. She bequeathes her property on East Fourth streets, between Elm and Oak streets, New Albany, to her sister, Magdalena Wourms, and her husband, Victor Wourms, for their use and benefit during their lifetime, and at their death the property is to go to Amelia Hahn, Anna Hilker and Victor Wourms, Jr. The remainder of her property she directs shall be divided among Magdalena Wourms, Amelia Hahn, Lena Hahn and Gustave Hahn, share and share alike. John B. James was nominated executor of the will, which was made October 31, 1905. A codicil attached, made February 30, 1906, leaves the property on East Fourth street to Magdalena Wourms during her life, and at her death to the beneficiaries named in the will.

John P. Wolfe, a prosperous business man of New Albany, who died last week, devises his estate to his wife, Sophia Wolfe, absolutely in fee simple, to have and to hold, to dispose of as she may see fit, and nominates her executrix. The will was made June 25, 1900, the witnesses being Lewis Thorne and Robert K. Brown.

Record Tax Collections.

Frank Green, County Treasurer at New Albany, reports the biggest tax collections for the first installment of current taxes known in that county for years. He had collected, up to Monday evening when the books were closed, $111,723.21. Monday his collections were over $16,000, and Saturday of last week he collected over $11,000. These collections show the city and county to be in a prosperous condition, and are an evidence that the names of but few delinquents will be published next January. Jacob Best, Treasurer of New Albany, has also made a record for collections this year, but his totals will not be known until to-night, as, acting under the instructions of the Finance Committee of the New Albany Common Council, he has continued to receive taxes through the week, and will not close his books until to-night.

The urgent need of a new suit of clothes apparently was all that prompted a sneak thief to break into the house of E. J. Schardein, and the thief, after appropriating a new suit of clothes belonging to Mr. Daubert, helped himself to the ice cream that was to have been served to the guests at the party. RUNNING SORES COVERED LIMBS

Little Girl's Obstinate Case of Eczema — Instantaneous Relief By Cuticura — Little Boy's Hands and Arms Also Were a Mass of Torturing Sores — Grateful Mother Says:

"CUTICURA REMEDIES A HOUSEHOLD STANDBY"

"In reply to your letter I write you my experience, and you are privileged to use it as you see fit. Last year, after having my little girl treated by a very prominent physician for an obstinate case of eczema, I resorted to the Cuticura Remedies, and was so well pleased with the almost instantaneous relief afforded that we discarded the physician's prescription and relied entirely on the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills. When we commenced with the Cuticura Remedies her feet and limbs were covered with running sores. In about six weeks we had her completely well, and there has been no recurrence of the trouble.

"In July of this year a little boy in our family poisoned his hands and arms with poison oak, and in twenty-four hours his hands and arms were a mass of torturing sores. We used only the Cuticura Remedies, washing his hands and arms with the Cuticura Soap, and anointed them with the Cuticura Ointment, and then gave him the Cuticura Resolvent. In about three weeks his hands and arms healed up; so we have lots of cause for feeling grateful for the Cuticura Remedies. We find that the Cuticura Remedies are a valuable household standby, living as we do twelve miles from a doctor, and where it costs from twenty to twenty-five dollars to come up on the mountain. Respectfully, Mrs. Lizzie Vincent Thomas, Fairmount, Walden's Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 13, 1905."

MAY BE BISHOP.

Rev. J. J. Tigert Mentioned For High Office.

FORMER LOUISVILLE MINISTER CERTAIN OF ELECTION.

METHODIST CONFERENCE TO CHOOSE AT LEAST TWO.

TRACT FUND WILL BE $10,000.

Birmingham, Ala., May 11.—[Special.]—While no date has yet been set for the election of bishops at the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in session in this city, it is believed that the question will come up early next week.

Meanwhile there is much discussion as to who are likely to be the new bishops. It is said that Dr. J. J. Tigert, formerly of Louisville, book editor and general secretary of the general conference, and Dr. Collins Denny, professor of philosophy in Vanderbilt University at Nashville, and chairman of the Book Committee of the conference, are regarded as two prime favorites. Dr. Tigert is a member of the Louisville conference. He is regarded as the strongest man, with Dr. Denny as a close second. Very many of the close observers say that Dr. Seth Ward, of the Texas conference, is the second strongest in the bishops' race. Others say he is very close behind Dr. Denny. Dr. John C. Kilgo, president of Trinity College, Durham, N. C., is a strong probability if more than two bishops are named. If four or five are chosen Dr. W. F. Murray, of the St. Louis conference; Dr. James Atkins, of the Western North Carolina conference, and Dr. John R. Nelson, of the Northwest Texas conference, all become possibilities, with some of them as probabilities. Those who are in a position to be best informed assert that Dr. Tigert is practically certain to be elected a bishop, and that if only two are chosen, either Dr. Denny or Dr. Ward will be the other man. If four are named, Tigert, Denny and Ward are expected to be three of the four. If the number goes up to five, as the lay delegates wish, there is likely to be a pretty race for at least two of the places.

To Broaden Church Work.

At the conference to-day the special committee appointed to consider the advisability of a joint committee to make a new statement of the Methodist articles of faith reported favorably and a lively debate followed, in which Bishops Wilson, Hoss and Candler took part, opposing any change, while Bishop Hendrix spoke for broadening the work of the church. Bishop Galloway put a stop to further discussion on the part of bishops by saying he hoped the time would never come when bishops would feel that they should enter into the discussions before the conference.

A resolution was introduced by W. R. Lambuth and others requesting the college of bishops to appoint a committee of five to meet a similar committee of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church to be provided for by the general conference now in session in Memphis. The purpose of the conference has to do with the holding of institutes for colored preachers, the furtherance of educational work, the promotion of missionary effort at home and abroad and such questions as may pertain to federation or union of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church with other colored Methodist churches in the United States.

$10,000 Tract Fund.

The report of the Committee on Colportage was adopted, carrying with it provision for a tract fund of $10,000, to be used in distributing tracts. The conference also adopted the report of the special committee recommending changes in the articles of religion allowing foreign conferences to substitute the names of their countries for the United States.

The Church Extension Committee reported favorably on the proposition to erect a representative church building in Washington City, and reported a resolution calling on the church at large to raise $200,000 if Mount Vernon church, Washington, would become responsible for $75,000 additional for that purpose. A plan of campaign for the raising of the $200,000 was also submitted. The Sunday-school Committee in a lengthy report suggested numerous changes in the discipline and made provision for the endowment of a chair of religious pedagogy and Sunday-schools in Vanderbilt University, Nashville. It also suggested the third Sunday in May for children's day throughout the church.

The Committee on Appeals reversed the decision of the North Georgia conference suspending Rev. W. W. Wadsworth on the charge of immorality, the specific charge being "kissing a woman." Mr. Wadsworth was pastor of the Hartwell church and was suspended for a year.

At a joint meeting of the Louisville Bar Association and the Law Library Association held yesterday afternoon at the Courthouse it was decided to remove the books from their present location in the eastern wing of the building to the joint-session room in the top floor of the Courthouse Annex. Removal is required on or before June 15 because the contractors who are at work fire-proofing the Courthouse will be ready to go to work upon that section of the building by that time. The cost of the removal will be about $600 and will be borne jointly by the two organizations. The committee to look after the work consists on Burwell Farnsley and W. G. Anderson, of the Bar Association, and Morton Joyes and W. O. Harris, of the Library Association.

OLD SETTLERS

Will Celebrate Centennial At Charlestown, Ind.

DECIDE TO HOLD BIG MEETING NEXT AUTUMN.

OLD TOWN HAS MANY HISTORIC FEATURES.

PLANS ALREADY ON FOOT.

The movement started a short time ago for Charlestown, Ind., to share the joys of Home-coming Week with Louisville by a one-day celebration of the centennial anniversary of the first sale of lots in the town has been abandoned and another date has been selected. At a joint meeting of citizens and the Town Board Thursday night the undertaking was discussed thoroughly, and it was the expression that the festivities in Louisville would absorb all interest of visitors and Charlestown would entertain but few.

After a number of speeches had been made it was concluded to have what is to be known as "The Centennial and Old Settlers' Day," which will be Thursday, September 6, the regular date for the annual meeting of the old settlers of Clark county, the event being a long established one. A committee composed of fourteen representative men of the town was appointed, and Judge George H. D. Gibson was made chairman of the Finance Committee, and work will be begun at once in raising funds for the celebration.

Heretofore it has been the custom to hold the meetings at the Fair Grounds, but the celebration this fall will be on the public square in the well-shaded lot on which is located the old courthouse. The spot is an ideal one and the water there is the purest in all of Indiana. Charlestown has a number of ancient things to be proud of, one of which is a Masonic lodge that was founded in 1817 and became known a year later as Blazing Star, No. 3. In 1857 it lost its charter, and afterward became known as Blazing Star, No. 226. It furnished four Grand Masters, Alexander Buckner, Jonathan Jennings, Isaac P. Howk and Andrew J. Hay.

Rose, sister of the bride-elect, 322 East Maple street, with the Rev. J. S. Ward, pastor of Wall-street Methodist Episcopal church, officiating.

Until noon yesterday Miss Burlingame had been filling the position of society editor of the Jeffersonville Evening Star for some time. She is a sister of Paul Burlingame and Roger Burlingame, both of whom live in Louisville. Mr. Bird is city editor of the Jeffersonville Evening News, and has filled the position since November, 1902, a few weeks previous to which date he went to Jeffersonville from London, Eng. His brother, Nelson R. Bird, of London, is visiting in Jeffersonville, and with his wife and children will leave for home the day after the marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Bird will go to housekeeping at 325 Walnut street.

—The trial of Charles Smith, who is charged with shooting and wounding Rome McWilliams, is set for Monday in the Clark Circuit Court, but Sheriff Pernett has not been able to find the prosecuting witness, who, as it is believed, has left the city.

—Mrs. Fry Curry has returned from Columbus, Ind., where she attended the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Kaufman, who died of stomach trouble, within thirty days after the death of her husband, who died suddenly from a stroke of paralysis.

—Charles McCoombs, a prominent Republican politician of this township, who was at one period a guard at the Indiana Reformatory, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Elsworth Summers on the charge of intoxication, and locked up for a hearing to-day.

—While ascending a stairway at the home of his son-in-law, Patrick Bannon, who lives with his daughter, Mrs. William Willis, 114 West Maple street, fell backward to the bottom of the flight. For a time it was feared his neck was broken, but he finally recovered.

—Edward L. Cook and Miss Myrtle L. Nelson, of Charlestown, were married in this city yesterday by Magistrate B. J. Ferguson. The groom was married June 17, 1877, and was divorced from a former wife in 1903. The bride was born in Hickman, Ky., April 11, 1889.

—In a letter received by James H. Board from his daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Banks, who is now in Panama, it is asserted that her husband probably will have to return to this city, as there is not enough material on hand to keep him steadily employed as a carpenter on the canal.

—French Webb, colored, was arrested by Capt. Clegg yesterday on the charge of securing money by false pretenses. It is charged that Webb went to the home of Mrs. John Houser, Port Fulton, where he secured money on a promise to do repair work to the house, but failed, it is alleged, to return.

—George H. Parks, Auditor of Clark county, yesterday drew a warrant on Isaac G. Phipps, Treasurer of Clark county, in favor of H. E. Heaton, City Controller, for $213.20, which is due from the county to the city for taking care of George Farrabee and William Tucker, who had the smallpox.

—In the future, the Police Board will not pay any attention to anonymous communications, but all complaints bearing the signature of some known person will be investigated and held confidential. The board also issued an order that no more negro balls are to be allowed at Nowak's Hall, on Michigan avenue.

—A continuance by agreement of both sides was granted yesterday in the suit of Perry A. Eaton against the United States Express Company for $50 damages on account of the loss of a coon dog being shipped from Charlestown to Manchester, N. H., it being alleged that the animal broke out of his box at Jersey City.

—John P. Carr, a brother of S. E. Carr, of this city, has been appointed superintendent of the Vicksburg, Miss., city schools. He has been principal at the Male High School of that city for several years, and two years ago was elected County Superintendent of Warren county. For five years he was Superintendent of Public Instruction in this county.

SOCIALIST DEPUTIES RESIGN IN BODY.

Italian Chamber, However, Refuses To Accept Their Resignations—More Strike Troubles.

Rome, May 11.—All the Socialist members of the Chamber of Deputies have resigned as a result of the refusal of the Chamber to discuss the bill presented by their party providing for the regulation of the use of arms on the part of the police and troops, and have issued an address to the country.

During the day a largely attended meeting of strikers was held in the Coliseum. Socialist deputies delivered inflammatory speeches and a resolution protesting against the use of arms against the people was adopted.

Later collisions between the strikers and the police and troops took place, and several hours elapsed before the demonstrators were finally dispersed.

Considering that the protest has lasted long enough the leaders of the strike have decided to end it.

The Chamber of Deputies refused to accept the resignation of the Socialist members.

A KIDNEY SAVER—See for Yourself At Our Expense!

YOU feel fine after taking a drink of whiskey!

Because the alcohol in whiskey stimulates you, by setting free the Energy stored in your body.

But this stimulation—that pleasantly quickens the circulation—that exhilarates you with an "all to the good" feeling—

Has a re-action.

And there's where the danger lies.

Because alcoholic reaction from the consumption of Energy causes tissue waste, and waste tissue is Urea—dead, effete matter—an irritator and Kidney congestor!

That's what Doctors mean when they tell you even moderate drinking of alcoholic beverages may cause Diabetes and Bright's Disease of the Kidneys.

Well there's a way to prevent such disorders.

And taken with liquors or as a chaser it mingles freely with the alcohol and carries out the excess of Urea.

That's how it overcomes the effect of Spirituous or Malt Liquors.

That's why it saves Kidney disorders.

Six Favorites Out of Seven Reward Their Backers at Churchill Downs.

TOM MORGAN ONLY LONG SHOT TO WIN.

Corrigan Breaks Hoodoo and Takes Two Purses.

PETER STERLING'S FEATURE.

GOOD FIELD CARDED TO START IN THE RICH NURSERY STAKES TO-DAY.

CATHERINE H. RUNS AWAY.

SELECTIONS FOR TO-DAY.

First Race—Shipwreck, Comifo, Mabel Winn.
Second Race—Edith M., Alline Cummings, Froward.
Third Race—Beacon Light, Dr. Wang, Kurtzmann.
Fourth Race—Buren Arnold, Alyth, Long entry.
Fifth Race—Russell Sage, Judge Nolan, Manners.
Sixth Race—Self Reliant, Malleable, Minnehaha.
Seventh Race—Bell the Cat, Capt. Bush, The Englishman.

EDWARD CORRIGAN, up to yesterday, had been unable to win a race during the present meeting at Churchill Downs, but yesterday afternoon he put a couple of good ones over the plate, and last night the big Western turfman would have been all smiles except for a serious accident which befell his grand filly, Catherine H.

The horses which Mr. Corrigan won with yesterday were Creel, in the third race, and Hadur, in the closing event. Creel was as good as 2 to 1 in the betting, but Hadur was at odds-on at post time.

It was a good day for the talent yesterday, because Tom Morgan was the only real long shot to throw down strict players of form. This two-year-old gelding was held at a very long price, and when he finished in front of King Leopold the talent received a severe shock. In the next race, however, the "wise" people got more than even on Precious Stone. This Daly gelding, with Nicol on his back, was almost backed off the boards, and he merely romped home with the winner's end of the purse.

The feature event of the afternoon was a dash at seven furlongs, which furnished a thrilling contest between Peter Sterling, Banner and Chief Hayes, the favorite getting up in the last few strides in time to win. The day was fair, and much warmer than it had been for a week, and the crowd was large, the speculation spirited and the track in good condition.

* * *

Nursery Stakes To-day.

The Nursery Stakes, which has a value of $6,000, the same as the Kentucky Derby, will be the feature of a splendid card this afternoon, and the crowd, if the day is fair and warm, will be one of the largest of the meeting. This will be the last running of the Nursery Stakes, because the Louisville Jockey Club has decided to supplant this feature with a valuable handicap for three-year-olds or for three-year-olds and upward. The Nursery Stakes is at four and one-half furlongs, for two-year-olds, and of the $6,000 stake, $4,000 will go to the winner, $700 to the second horse, $300 to the third horse, $600 to the nominator of the winner, $250 to the nominator of the second horse, and $150 to the nominator of the third horse.

This is one of the big stakes of the West, and since the Hyde Park Stakes, at Chicago, was discontinued, it has been the richest race for two-year-olds run west of the big metropolitan tracks of the East.

In this event this afternoon are carded to start the cream of the two-year-old colts and fillies of the Western country. Those carded to start last night included Victoria B., Altuda, George Long's handsome pair; Buren Arnold, Catherine H., Ed Corrigan's great filly; E. R. Bradley's Get-aboard; E. S. Gardner's Charles Gilbert; Harry Franklin's Prince Ahmed; Barney Schreiber's crack colt, Jack Atkin and Alyth, which has won good races during the present meeting.

This is a splendid field to contest for the rich stake, but it can be stated that Catherine H., the Corrigan filly, will not face the barrier, on account of the accident which she sustained yesterday and which is told of in another column.

Jack Atkin, Alyth, Get Aboard, Charley Gilbert and the Long pair are certain to be heavily played, while all which start in the race will have a following, because it is known that each owner is exceedingly eager to snatch the glory which goes to the winner in this last running of the Nursery. It ought to be a grand race, and the victor will be the king or queen of the two-year-olds at the local track.

* * *

Peter Sterling Scores.

The feature race yesterday was fourth on the card. It was a purse affair at seven furlongs, and Peter Sterling was installed favorite at 7 to 5, and was backed to 6 to 5. Banner and Kargut were next in demand, and the play on the McDowell filly was heavy, while the price against Kargut went from 3s to 5s. The others were at long prices.

They were sent away to a good start with Banner in front, and the daughter of Batten set a sizzling pace for three-quarters of a mile. Chief Hayes moved up over the back stretch and Swain also sent Peter Sterling forward. The McDowell filly for a time appeared to have too much speed, but as they turned into the stretch, Chief Hayes looked to be the winner. These three then fought it out from the sixteenth pole home, and Peter Sterling, showing a world of speed at the end, got up in time to win by half a length, while Banner was only a neck in front of Chief Hayes. Neither Kargut, Belden nor Florizel was ever prominent. The seven furlongs were run in 1:28 2-5, which was considered good on account of the condition of the track.

* * *

Another Favorite Wins.

Sixteen selling platers faced the barrier in the opening event, which was at six furlongs. Gambrinus was always the favorite around 7 to 5, while Prestige and St. Noel were liked for the place and to show. The form players had the race figured to a nicety, for Gambrinus, leading all the way, won easily by two lengths, while Prestige, coming fast at the end, beat St. Noel a length for the first place. The others were strung out in an irregular line for more than a sixteenth of a mile.

Della Thorpe and Louisanne were equal favorites when the odds on the second race were posted, and while Louisanne was heavily backed at the start, Della Thorpe closed favorite on account of the strong play just before they went to the post. Sulu was well liked for the place, while there was a strong play on Coco for the show money. The race was at four and a half furlongs, and the two-year-old fillies got away to a good start. Della Thorpe broke in front and was never headed, winning easily by three lengths, while Louisanne finished two lengths in front of Ingenue.

* * *

Creel Wins For Corrigan.

The third race was at a mile, for three-year-olds, and the talent figured that Mr. Corrigan's Creel, which was eligible for the recent Kentucky Derby, was the class of the race. At that his price went up from 8 to 5 to 2 to 1 at post time, while there was a steady play on Mandator. Adesso was backed from 8 to 6 to 1, while a good deal of so-called wise money went in on Rubaiyat.

This race furnished a fine contest. Loupy got away running and soon opened up a big gap, with Matabon second and Spendthrift Helen third. But Nicol on Creel, Scoville on Mandator and D. Miller on Adesso handled their mounts well, and this trio gradually overtook the leaders. It was a fine drive through the stretch, and Nicol, outriding Scoville, landed Creel a winner by a head, with Mandator half a length in front of Adesso. Lady Charade was six lengths behind Adesso.

A selling race, for two-year-old colts, at four and a half furlongs, was the fifth event on the card, and it furnished the surprise of the afternoon. Tom Morgan, a chestnut gelding, by Donald A.—Doolittle, belonging to J. S. Bratton, got away well in motion and, leading from start to finish, beat King Leopold, the favorite, a head on the wire. Bookmakers laid all the way from 30 to 50 to 1 against Tom Morgan's chances, while a few women and as many pikers had tickets reading 100 to 1. King Leopold was well played in this race, as were Bogum and Webber, but they were never able to get up.

* * *

Bookmakers Hit Hard.

The bookmakers received a jolt when Precious Stone won the sixth race, a selling affair at six furlongs. Precious Stone and Foxmeade opened equal choices at 3 to 1, but the wise money was set in on the former, and at post time the best odds obtainable against the Daly gelding were 11 to 5. Precious Stone delivered the goods. He got away well, and won very easily by two lengths, while Foxmead, which finished second, had a hard time beating Harding a neck for the place.

Hadur, Edward Corrigan's big three-year-old bay colt by Huron—California, was an easy victor in the closing event. Hadur opened at 7 to 5, but the heavy play caused his price to recede to 4 to 5 at post time. Reticent and Louise McFarlane were equal second choices at 3 to 1, and both were well played. Hadur assumed command shortly after the start and won rather easily by a length and a half from Reticent, who finished six lengths in front of Reveille, a 100 to 1 shot.

GRAND CARD FOR TO-DAY.

Steeplechase Race As Well As Nursery Stakes Offered As Attraction.

This afternoon there will be decided at Churchill Downs the historic Nursery Stakes, which is the richest event offered in the West at the present time, carrying as it does $6,000 in added money, and which is over the four and one-half furlong route. The field carded overnight to face the starter is one of the best balanced in the history of the fixture, and while no great amount of class is prominent, there is enough to make the contest spectacular from flag fall to wire, comprising as it does such well-tried youngsters as Victoria B. and Altuda from the barn of Milton Young, Buren Arnold, Get Aboard, Charlie Gilbert, Prince Ahmed, Jack Adkins, Alyth, which on his last out took into camp a shifty field, will have the services of Daly in the pilot house, and this coupled with the Daly tricks' well-known burning speed will be sufficient to make him a decided favorite over the balance. Buren Arnold, which ran green the last time out, has been schooled to the barrier and worked several times with some of the older division and is sure to give a better account of himself to-day. He was heavily supported the last time out and will be again to-day. Charlie Gilbert is a bad actor at the post and it is hardly possible that those who saw the Gardner trick perform on his last couple of times out will care to take a chance on his unruliness. The Long entry on paper look very formidable and there is hardly a question but that the one to take their measure will be running all the way. All in all, the race should prove a spanking contest.

As an added attraction Secretary Davis has put on the ever-popular steeplechase over the full course of eleven obstacles, which is the first of the season over this distance of ground. In this Russell Sage has been treated very leniently by the handicapper, who has allotted the Ferguson trick but 152 pounds. Manner and Judge Nolan seem to be the contenders, and as both are well educated jumpers, it is highly probable that they will be knocking at the door all the way. A handicap at one mile, in which Kercheval, Coruscate, Fortunate, McIlvain, Beacon Light, St. George, Jr., Dr. Wang and Kurtzmann are carded in the overnight entries, a selling race at one mile, two platers races at six furlongs and a sprint for the youngsters at four furlongs complete the equine feast which is in store for the vast crowd sure to be in attendance at the Downs this afternoon. The winner was best at all stages, winning without being fully extended. Prestige ran a good even race from a poor beginning, closing exceptionally strong. St. Noel ran in close pursuit of the winner to the final furlong, where he tired palpably and was lucky to save the short end from Dalesman, which came through on the inside with a rattle. The latter had bad racing luck. Percy Green about ran his race. Magic showed a flash of speed turning for home, but died away. Knowledge tired as if short.

54—SECOND RACE—Four and one-half furlongs; purse $400; for two-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Winner, W. A. Smith & Co.'s b. f., by Woolsthorpe—Extra; trained by W. A. Smith. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :24 2-5, :49 2-5, :55 4-5.

Della Thorpe, a fast breaker, smothered her field with speed at all stages, winning with her head pulled sideways. Louisanne broke well in motion, showed plenty of speed and stood off the stretch challenge of Ingenue with sparkling gameness. The latter ran a spanking race for the first out and is worth remembering. Sea Sand, pinched off shortly after the start, closed strong. Sulu was messed about. Coco met some interference rounding the far turn and Robinson took her up. Sweet Ell, heavily supported, was as good as left.

55—THIRD RACE—One mile; purse $400; for three-year-olds; selling. Start good. Won all out; place same. Winner, E. Corrigan's b. c., 3, by Woolsthorpe—Extra; trained by J. Collins. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :25, :50, 1:16, 1:43 1-5.

Nicol laid away from the early pace, moved up strong rounding the far turn, and in a whirlwind drive put it over Scoville on Mandator in the final drive. The latter, outrun early, closed strong, and with a stronger finish might have won. Adesso ran a good even race and had no apparent excuses. Lady Charade is about due. Rubaiyat closed fast turning for home, but stopped badly in the final furlong. Loupy quit all over when collared.

56—FOURTH RACE—Seven furlongs; purse $400; for three-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Winner, A. Brown & Co.'s ch. c., 3, by Lord Esterling—Lucrece; trained by J. Lyman. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :24, :48 3-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:28 2-5.

The winner, cleverly handled, laid away from the early pace and, closing with a tremendous burst, caught Banner and Chief Hayes tiring in the last sixteenth, winning going away. Banner could not sustain her burring early speed, but hung on gamely under a gruelling drive. Chief Hayes forced the pace all the way, but hung in the final drive; race should do him a world of good. Others always outrun.

57—FIFTH RACE—Four and one-half furlongs; purse $400; for two-year-old colts and geldings; selling. Start fair. Won driving limit; place same. Winner, J. S. Bratton's ch. g., a., by Donald A.—Dolittle. Value to winner, $300. Time, :24, :49, :56 1-5.

Tom Morgan, a quick breaker, opened up a winning lead the first half, and stood off King Leopold when forced to a drive. The latter ran a good even race, but was tiring badly at the end and was lucky to save the place from Sir Godfrey, which came from nowhere in the stretch and would have been second in another stride. The race of the latter was very impressive, as he was badly interfered with shortly after the start. Chandler shows improvement. Bogum had no apparent excuses. Webber was lame going to the post.

58—SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs; purse $400; for four-year-olds and up; selling. Start straggling. Won easily; place driving. Winner, M. Daly's b. g., 5, by Star Ruby—Anarchy; trained by M. Daly. Value to winner, $300. Time, :24, :49, 1:15 1-5.

Precious Stone was Hobson's horse to-day; up on his toes when the start came, he simply smothered his field with speed at all stages. Foxmeade, off all tangled up, closed with a rattle and disposed of Harding in a hard drive. The latter's race well worth remembering. Suzanne Rocamora, badly messed about, was running over horses at the finish. The Pet ran a sparkling race and will about beat this kind the next time out. Mafalda can do better.

59—SEVENTH RACE—One mile; purse $400; for three-year-olds and up; selling. Start good. Won easily; place same. Winner, E. Corrigan's b. c., 3, Huron—California; trained by J. Collins. Value to winner, $300. Time, :25, :50, 1:16, 1:43.

Hadur was much the best; broke well in motion, and, opening a winning lead the first half, was only cantering through the final furlong. Reticent was as much the best of those behind, and had no apparent excuses. Reveille ran a good even race, closing strong. Louise Macfarlan can do better. Sanction is about due. Balance not much.

CHAT OF THE COURSE.

A runaway accident occurred at Churchill Downs yesterday morning, the result of which insures that Edward Corrigan will not win the Nursery Stakes this afternoon. Jockey Joe Harrigan about 7 o'clock yesterday morning was on the back of Catherine H., and was giving her a warming-up gallop. When near the paddock gate in the stretch one of Harrigan's stirrups broke, and the boy was thrown heavily to the ground, while the filly ran away. Harrigan was rendered unconscious, and he was carried on a stretcher to the barn of Edward Corrigan, with whom he is under contract. For a time it was thought that the jockey was fatally injured, but the track was soft where he struck it, and he was not seriously injured, but was able to sit up last night.

As soon as Harrigan fell off, the filly, Catherine H., started to run away. She ran away two miles, in spite of the efforts of many stable hands to stop her. Finally the gate was opened near the Corrigan barn, and she dashed through this opening and came to a stop at the stable door. An examination showed that she had no visible injury, but the fine young filly took sick immediately after her sprint, and Mr. Corrigan called in Dr. Talbott, the well-known veterinary surgeon. Dr. Talbott remained with the filly all night last night, and at a late hour her temperature was 105.

Mr. Corrigan confidently expected to win the rich Nursery Stakes with Catherine H. this afternoon, but, of course, she will be unable to start. He prizes her very highly, and thinks she is one of the most promising fillies he ever raced. She is by Imp. Cactus, a stallion Mr. Corrigan brought to this country from England, and is out of a mare called Taglioni. She is a grand-looking trick, and is valued at several thousand dollars.

An attachment suit was filed yesterday by Harry F. Keegan against James F. Davis in which he asks that a receiver be appointed for the racing firm of J. F. Davis & Co., the plaintiff claiming that he holds a half interest in that concern. By the action he attaches the race horse Luralighter, now on the farm of Milton Young in Fayette county, and which, he says, is the property of the firm. The plaintiff says that he takes this step because he believes that Davis was planning to remove Luralighter from the State and out of the jurisdiction of the court.

Keegan demands that Davis make a settlement of his accounts and that the partnership be dissolved.

The plaintiff says that the partnership was formed June 13, 1903, when it was agreed that he should purchase Luralighter for the firm for $5,000 and that the defendant should transfer to the partnership his registered racing colors and trainer's license. It was further agreed, the petition says, that Davis was to receive $75 a month for his services in handling their string. The plaintiff states that it was understood that out of the first winnings of the stable the plaintiff should receive $5,000, which he paid for Luralighter and that all amounts over this should go toward the expenses of the firm or the purchase of other horses.

It is said that the firm has won about $16,000 with Luralighter and that the total expenses since that time, including the defendant's salary, have not amounted to more than $6,000. The plaintiff says that while he has received $3,000 out of the partnership, he spent that much on account of it since the agreement was made. He alleges that the defendant has about $7,500 of the firm's money which is not accounted for, and that he is conducting its affairs in an unbusinesslike way and jeopardizing its interests. He also attached the horses Daught, Bosserian, Bonart, Ben Still and Gee Gone, belonging to the defendant personally and alleged to be worth $1,300.

Nine sleeper loads of horsemen and men who follow the turf for a living arrived in the city yesterday morning from Memphis, and seven trainloads of horses, most of which went to Douglas Park, were also shipped here. A well-known turfman, who is conversant with such matters, said yesterday afternoon that over 600 race followers arrived here yesterday from Montgomery Park. Among those who got in yesterday were Barney Schreiber, the well-known bookmaker and horse owner of St. Louis; Tommy Shaw and John Croker, one of the old-time turfmen, who formerly raced at Guttenberg, Gloucester and other noted tracks.

* * *

Pat Dunne yesterday purchased from J. B. Ferguson his splendid two-year-old colt, Warner Griswold. The purchase price was not announced, but it is understood that Mr. Dunne parted with a large amount of money for this fine-looking youngster.

* * *

Among yesterday's arrivals from Memphis were a large number of bookmakers who are expected to cut in at Churchill Downs during the remainder of the meeting. This is regular draw-in day at the Downs, and the line will be a formidable one this afternoon.

* * *

Jockey Willie Dugan arrived in the city yesterday, and will have the mount this afternoon on Barney Schreiber's crack colt, Jack Atkins, in the $6,000 Nursery Stakes. Jockey Obert will arrive here this morning to ride the horses belonging to Will McDaniel.

* * *

The sharpshooters at the track got aboard Precious Stone for all they were worth in the sixth race yesterday, and the ring was hit hard. The gelding was backed from 3½ to 1 to 9 to 5 at post time, and the same people wagered their money on Foxmeade a place. Foxmeade ran second, and the talent cashed both ways.

* * *

Tommy Magee playfully tapped Nicol on the head with his programme after the race he put up on Creel. It was the first victory for the Corrigan stable since the meeting opened.

* * *

Nicol protested and tried to claim a foul when Prestige swerved in front of Nicol's mount, St. Noel, in the first race, and, while Nicol was shut off, Prestige was going away at the end, so that Judge Price rightfully refused to allow the protest.

* * *

After sustaining hard luck in twice trying to put over Precious Stone at Lexington, little Mike Daly got there yesterday, and brought home a precious pile from the track.

* * *

To the older turfmen, those who have had the beautiful opportunity of enjoying the racing days of long ago, the death of Brown Dick will be keenly felt, for all had a pleasant word for the man who developed Ben Brush, and his presence will be missed.

* * *

It is not very often that handicapping of the sort seen at the course yesterday can be found anywhere. Nose finishes and heads apart in several races shows that Secretary Davis is a clever handicapper as well as a competent secretary.

* * *

St. Noel will bear watching the next time out. The Strode racing machine is coming along strongly.

* * *

Banner's banner refused to flutter on high. Peter Sterling got in front and cut off the wind. Peter Sterling runs as good as the story "The Hon. Peter Sterling" reads. But Grover could not ride him.

A charming equestrienne attracted considerable attention as she drove to the infield, and her mount stepped beautifully when told to do so. Many in the stand wished she would take a hurdle, just to show some of the would-be timber-topping jockeys how it should be done.

Ed Corrigan did deserve to win yesterday. He may be slow, but he is sure.

As the meeting progresses, the racing improves, though it is now almost as perfect as man can make it.

Tom Morgan morganized the field yesterday. He must belong to J. P.'s trust. Wonder if J. Pierpont did have a bet on him at 51 Wall street!

Loupy tried to loop-the-loop, but fell off at the sixteenth pole.

Jockey Dick Crowhurst arrived in the city last night from Cincinnati, accompanied by his wife. Crowhurst can ride at 118 pounds and expects to accept mounts here.

Mr. F. S. Goodwin, of the well-known New York firm which prints Goodwin's Turf Guide, arrived in the city yesterday on his annual tour of the racing centers.

"Good Individual Tailoring at the price of Non-individual Ready-made."

Inexpensive Tailoring

"The modern young man dresses well. It may be easy to tell why he does; but it is quite plain that he who does not is regarded as being at a decided disadvantage among his fellows. His standing with the opposite sex is seriously compromised; while, in his worldly fortunes, he is now conceded to carry a handicap, which will tell seriously in the race for business or professional advancement."—[Editorial in St. Paul Globe, May 19, 1901.

THERE are so many reasons why a young man should dress well and none at all why he should not—so many why he should be individually tailored and so few why he should wear readymade—that all may be taken for granted, leaving open but the one question: "Where shall I get my clothes?"

Get them where you can get the most for your money that you may have money left to do other things with—where you can get the most in quality of fabric, in style, in service, in individuality: HERE—there is no other answer.

Here—where the cloths come straight from the mills—always up to the minute in freshness and always lower in cost than they must be where small dealers buy through jobbers.

Here—where the designers are forced to keep abreast of the trend of fashion and not wait months for styles to be approved by New York.

Here—where facilities are such that we can make in less time than any other tailor; where the tailoring is subdivided among specialists; and where a perfect fit must be given.

Here—where a real interest is taken in the garments after delivery—that complaints, if any, may be speedily and satisfactorily adjusted—where a "Square Deal" is not an iridescent fatuity.

Well, Boys, Your Uncle John J. Ward

arrived yesterday morning with his entire staff from the Bluff City, Memphis. I immediately landed on a car and breezed out to my old stamping grounds, the Downs. There I mingled with a few of my personal friends, got next to a bunch of good things and you know the rest. If my clients had more pockets they would have more money. Now that I am here there will be absolutely no let up; we will make the bookies walk the plank.

Turfites, I want you to understand that each and every horse you see advertised was given straight to win, and to win only. No seconds or thirds claimed as winners.

To-day a Rip Roaring, Snorting Long Shot, 20-1.

I have "dug up" a "sleeper" for to-day that has been "prepped" for a "killing." This "baby" has been "under cover" and only the stable connections, one other and myself are in on this deal. We expect a good, juicy price for our money, and it's only a question of how far this horse will win by. He'll have to break a leg to lose. Take my word for it that (bar accident) he

WILL WIN SURE.

This is one grand opportunity to get a bank roll off a "shoe string." My instructions will be to take the first betting, get busy, look "wise" and say nothing. Keep sending it in till the bell rings. The rest is a foregone conclusion.

Strictly Inside Info.

Is what I deal in. I have no use for the "Dope Book" at all. My stuff comes direct from the stable and is the kind of Info. that gets the money, as my record amply proves.

I have "delivered the goods" ever since my advent into the game.

The truth of the matter is, I'VE GOT AN ACE IN THE HOLE, and I'm the boy who knows how to nurse a good thing. "Nuff Sed."

BROWN DICK PASSES AWAY

Most Noted Colored Horse Trainer In World Dies of Tuberculosis.

LOSES FORTUNE ON TURF.

Sketch of Man Who Owned and Trained Best Horses of His Day.

TO BE BURIED AT MIDWAY.

"BROWN DICK," the most noted colored handler and owner of race horses in the world, is dead. He died at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning at the home of Bob Campbell, also colored, at 820 West Walnut street.

"Brown Dick's" real name was Edward Dudley Brown, but wherever horses are known or raced in this country he was known as "Brown Dick." He was fifty-six years old and his death was caused by tuberculosis. His body will be buried Sunday afternoon at Midway, Ky., and six colored trainers will act as pallbearers. The funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. J. K. Polk, of the Midway Baptist church. At the time of his death "Brown Dick" was surrounded by his wife and his son, Lee L. Brown, who is a teacher in the Eckstein Norton Normal School at Seventh and Kentucky streets.

EDWARD DUDLEY BROWN ("BROWN DICK").

"Brown Dick" was a negro gentleman, and it was fitting that this man, who had handled and owned some of the most noted horses this country has ever produced, from Lexington to Ben Brush, should die in the home of another noted colored trainer, Bob Campbell, who handled the horses of the famous "Lucky" Baldwin. He sold horses for many thousands of dollars, but he died practically penniless and yesterday afternoon when word of his death reached Churchill Downs a subscription was at once started among the horsemen to defray the funeral expenses, and Ed Corrigan started off the list with $50.

* * *

"Brown Dick" was born in that part of the old State which sends forth from its bluegrass-covered hills and vales the choicest atoms of horseflesh the world has ever seen. When a child of ten years, in 1860, he was taken to the farm of R. A. Alexander, known as the Woodburn estate, and given his first lesson in the care of the thoroughbred as an exercise boy.

The colored boy first came into the limelight of the turf world in the same year he was taken by Alexander by riding and winning on Mr. Alexander's Asteroid against a big field at the Lexington track in a mile-heat event, winning two heats, defeating such good ones as Lodestar and Grant. During the six years which he rode on the flat, from 1864 to 1870, "Brown Dick" guided such horses as Asteroid, Merrill, Bayswater, Kingfisher and Virgil, and in 1870 he celebrated the close of his career on the flat by winning the Belmont stakes at Jerome Park on Kingfisher. For two years more he stuck to riding, topping the timbers, and here again was as successful as on the flat, for he won many a race with Virgil, Blind Tom and Edinburgh, besides many other horses.

Having become pretty heavy in weight, "Brown Dick" took to training horses, for his cleverness in the saddle continued to stick to him, and in 1874 he began training for Daniel Swigert, in Woodford county, whose farm adjoined that of Woodburn. In those days "Brown Dick's" pride was Alfonso, and here in Louisville he defeated the wonderful Ten Broeck with King Alfonso, winning the St. Leger, the Tobacco and Galt House stakes, and with Bob Woolley captured the Phoenix Hotel stakes at Lexington, and following closely upon these victories came that of the same horse in the Belle Meade stakes at Nashville. Later on he again won the Belle Meade stakes, but this time with Ceylon, and shortly afterward the son of Asteroid broke down and was shipped to Japan.

* * *

The biggest stake of his early career which was won by a horse trained by "Brown Dick" was the Kentucky Derby in 1877, when Baden Baden came home in front, and was sold to William Astor shortly afterward for $12,000. This same horse cleaned up in the East, but finally broke down. During the next two years "Brown Dick" trained many fine equines, but it was not until 1879 that his especial pet came into his hands, the great Spendthrift. Five straight stakes fell to the lot of Spendthrift, much to the happiness of his owner, Dan Swigert, and then Swigert sold him to James R. Keene for $15,000. "Brown Dick" continued to train for Swigert until the spring of 1880, when he went to Milton Young's place and took charge there.

While with Young at McGrathiana the colored trainer brought out in his first year Bootjack, Bancroft and Beatitude. In this year he practically cleaned up in the Middle West, Chicago, Louisville, Lexington and St. Louis.

Along in 1881 Bancroft won the Louisville Cup for him, and in 1882 he developed Bondholder, conqueror of Punster; Ascender, winner of nine out of thirteen starts; Monogram and Boatman, the latter the winner of the Kenner stakes at Saratoga, a mile and a half, which he covered in 2:34.

Again in 1883 Mr. Young decided to sell his stable to R. C. Pate, and "Brown Dick" stayed with his horses, his Bondholder winning the Distillers' stakes at Lexington, beating Ed Corrigan's mighty Freeland; took the Ashland stakes with Vera; the Clark stakes with Ascender; the St. Louis Derby with Bondholder, and the Edgewater stakes at Latonia with Envoy.

A year with the Pate stable having passed, "Brown Dick" returned to Mr. Young's employ, and had in his care Troubadour, Ten Bucker, Bootblack and Bankrupt.

The next man to claim the service of the colored wonder was W. S. Barnes, and in 1886 he lost the Kentucky Derby by a nose when Ben Ali defeated Blue Wing. Here again Brown Dick was successful, his The Lioness winning from Proctor Knott at Louisville; Pueri, took the Kentucky Oaks; Duke of Bourbon, the Alexander Stakes; Boaz, Clay Stakes; Once Again won the Sea Bank and Red Bank Stakes at Monmouth from Proctor Knott and Gallifet, respectively, and in 1888 he was second with Macbeth in the Kentucky Derby, the colt coming back and winning the Clark Stakes.

* * *

It was at this time that Brown Dick accepted an engagement with Pepper and Barnes' Melbourne stud. After these men dissolved partnership Dick remained for a time with Col. Pepper, but having saved some money determined to branch out as an owner. He was successful from the start, developing Farrier, Ducat and Handsome, horses which he sold for a high price.

Along in 1895, there crept into Brown Dick's big heart, and it was indeed more than big, figuratively speaking, whom we all know as Ben Brush. Brown Dick loved this animal as a mother does her child, and refused as much as $25,000 cash for the son of Bramble. In speaking of this great colt to "Patron," turf editor of the Courier-Journal in 1895, Brown Dick said:

"You like that big Fonso of Mr. Eastin's, don't you, sir? Well, he's mighty good lookin' and mighty fast, but this one is my kind of horse. I like these steady-headed, sensible colts. You know I don't bet, but don't forget little Ben when he starts. He's one of the best I ever handled."

We who have followed the turf, or we who were born within the confines of the State of Kentucky, all know the story of the great Ben Brush. This colt Brown Dick considered the apple of his eye, and such he was indeed, for the son of Bramble not only cleaned up in Kentucky, but even in the elite East.

When after Ben Brush had won the Kentucky Derby, and Brown Dick prepared Pentecost and Plaudit, which afterward won the Kentucky Derby under the colors of John E. Madden, Brown Dick trained for Fred Cook, and then the dread consumption took hold of him, though he had for years been a sufferer from rheumatism. Of late years he had trained for Dr. Neet, of Versailles.

In early years Brown Dick built a character, a disposition that up to the time of his death made him the beloved of turfmen, even though his color was not that of a white man. Wherever the horse is known, the name of Brown Dick will be fondly remembered, for at all times he was courteous, gentle and happy when the opportunity opened to him to show men, women and children his stables.

* * *

No more beautiful tribute can be paid to the memory of the dead horseman than to recall the words of "Patron" published in the Courier-Journal in 1895:

"There was a May day nearly ten years ago when 15,000 people went mad in the moments when two gaunt chestnut colts, with every nerve that held the courage inherited through thoroughbred centuries strained to the snapping point, fought out in the last furlong of the Kentucky Derby a battle that will never be forgotten in the history of the American turf. That day I saw men who had wagered more than they owned on the idol of Kentucky, Proctor Knott, split their lungs to join fittingly in the cheers that were Spokane's due. Last week I read that Spokane had hobbled up to the auctioneer's block and had been sold amid laughs and jeers for $150. And Spokane wore the colors of a millionaire when he won the Derby.

"I have seen other happenings on the turf in recent years. There was Freeland, for instance, the champion of the West against the East, who in his old age would have plowed through the snow and sleet of an outlawed winter track, but for the protests of a few sentimental newspaper men. And these and other like cases tempt me to join in the belief that the good days of the turf are gone, that racing even in Kentucky is no longer a tradition, but a business, and that the successors of the grand old sportsmen, dead and gone, look upon their horses as betting machines.

"But when this feeling rises, there rises also the memory of an hour I spent at Churchill Downs three years and more ago. It was one of those spring mornings when the dawn chill shifts into sunny warmth, and laziness comes to idling men, as well as to the horses who have earned their rest by hard gallops. I was dawdling away the time in the stable of a gentleman and true sportsman. He is a negro, by the way.

"That would sound a little queer, would it not, in the ears of blue-nosed New Englanders and fanatical old women in other sections who imagine that the favorite pastimes of Southern people are husking bees and ante-prandial lynchings, varied by quiltings and burnings at the stake? But it is useless to discuss the race question with aliens. My fancy is that the man whose baby head was pillowed on a negro 'mammy's' breast is the one man to whom the phrase, 'colored gentleman' is not a phrase of ridicule.

"The man I refer to is Edward Brown. But the stocky, bearded horseman, who limps a little with rheumatism, must sometimes forget his own name, for he is known on every course in America as 'Brown Dick,' whose blue and white jacket carries not a single blot of suspicion of dishonest trickery after a lifetime on the turf. He has made a fortune in racing, with $5 to $10 as the limit of his infrequent wagers. He is a leader among his people, not because he plays the demagogue and meddles in politics, but because they recognize that his life of integrity and self-respect has done honor to their race.

"You see one side of Brown Dick's character when questions of fact are disputed before the judges, and men like Col. Clark, Capt. Rees and Charles Price call on him and accept his word as weightier evidence than the affidavits of many men. Another side you see when a party of ladies and children visit the stables. Brown Dick is never happier than when, with his hat doffed, he is leading them from stall to stall and answering their absurd questions with gentle courtliness worthy of a wigged and ruffled cavalier.

"I saw another phase of his nature when he sent a message to a dozen of his former fellow-workmen at Woodburn Farm, up in the Bluegrass, to come to Louisville on a certain day as his guests, because he was going to start a good colt for the first time. I saw that brawny dozen of black men, with their big muscles cramped by their 'Sunday clothes,' watch the early races with stolid indifference. I saw them file as stolidly into the betting ring and bet their last cent on Brown Dick's colt. I did not see them move a muscle when the colt cantered home winner in the stake. They simply stretched and walked down to collect their winnings.

"'Naw, suh,' one of them said to me, 'we didn't win much. We didn't have much. Course we bet all we had. Didn't seem excited? Shucks! We knowed it wuz al: right all the time. 'Cause Dick, he never would 'er sent fur us ef he hadn't knowed it wuz all right.'"

MANUAL AND HIGH SCHOOL MEET TO-DAY.

THE Manual Training High School baseball team meets the Male High School team this afternoon, for the first time since the exciting close of the gridiron season in the fall. They will have a try-out of skill to-day at Manual's new park, at Brook and Woodbine streets. Both teams have been playing hard for several weeks in anticipation of this first important game of the baseball season. Both teams have been working up some raw material into excellent shape, and interest in to-day's game will not lag. For each team, defeat is bitter at the hands of the other. The Crimson fans have had to suffer more in the last year or so from adverse scores than is comfortable, and if determination, hard practice and hate of defeat are determining factors, the scale may be turned to-day.

High School luck is always a factor, however, and the exceptional team work of the Purple men at critical stages may again, as in the past, wrench victory from defeat.

LOOSE WORK LOSES GAME

Colonels Drop Another Hard-Fought Battle At Milwaukee.

POOR BASE RUNNING COSTLY.

Kenna Has Little Control, Giving Six Bases On Balls, But Few Hits.

FOUR RUNS ON ONE SAFETY.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 11.—[Special.]—When the Louisville team arrived in Milwaukee last Tuesday they were apparently safe in first place, but they left to-night fighting for third position, the result of losing three straight games to the Brewers.

Owner George Tebeau put Ned Kenna, his star performer, in against the Brewers in the final game of the series, but he proved just the same as Dunkle and Elliott, the Milwaukee players winning without their extra inning, but after a harder fight than the others put up.

The score was 5 to 4, but the Louisville players have no one but themselves to blame for losing the game. Pitcher Kenna contributed in part to the loss of the game himself and stupid base running in the latter part blasted their hopes entirely.

The fielding on both sides was rather loose, each side having five errors. There were more errors of judgment, which do not appear in the score. McChesney had the misfortune to make two errors on one hit, letting the ball get away from him at first and missing the return throw that let the man score from third base. Harry Clark also made an error that resulted in a run, the local third baseman throwing into the bleachers and letting Sullivan go all the way around on the error.

Kenna was wild, giving six men bases on balls, but the Brewers got only five hits off his delivery, while the Colonels got ten off Curtis, but not at the right time. In the second Shaw, who played first base for Sullivan, while Woodruff went into center field for Murphy, hit for a base. McChesney let the ball get away and before it was returned to the diamond Shaw had made the circuit. In the third the Colonels had a chance to score, but poor base running prevented it.

The Brewers, in their half, scored four runs on one hit. Curtis reached first when Shaw dropped Brashear's throw. Robinson bunted and Kenna held the ball until both were safe. Green sacrificed, but Kenna threw wild and Curtis scored. After two were retired Roth hit to Quinlan and Larry threw wide, letting Dougherty score.

In the fifth Green drew a pass and Dougherty bunted. Clark's hit brought Danny home. In the sixth Sullivan scored on Clark's throw into the bleachers. In the seventh the Colonels had a splendid chance to tie up, but missed it. Quinlan hit safe and Stoner followed with a double, but the next three men went out on pop-ups. In the eighth it looked dangerous again, but Curtis pulled through in safety. Sullivan hit for three bases and Brashear and Shaw made two-baggers, Suter and Roy scoring, but the following batsmen could not connect and prevented more runs. Shaw had a chance to get home, which would have tied the score, but the coaching was not there, and the Colonels missed the opportunity.

The Louisville players wore their traveling uniforms for a change, but even that did not make them win. Hallman did some clever fielding and robbed Robinson of a hit in the sixth.

Owner Tebeau and his warriors left for the West to-night, where they will try to even up for their severe treatment here. The score:

BADLY BRUISED.

SMALL BOY FALLS FROM STREET CAR IN PARKLAND.

Lad Unconscious For An Hour, But Expected To Recover.

Walter Henry, four years old, a son of Puell M. Henry, 2707 Dumesnil street, was seriously injured at 7 o'clock last night by falling from a Walnut-street car at Twenty-eighth and Dumesnil streets. The lad had climbed onto the rear end of the car at Virginia avenue, and it is not known just how he happened to fall, but it is supposed he was thrown off as the car swung around the corner at Dumesnil street. He rolled to the curbing, where his head struck.

He was carried to the office of Dr. Robert Wallace, 2312 Twenty-eighth street, where Drs. Ap. Morgan Vance and W. F. Boggess were called. They discovered that the youth had sustained a slight concussion of the brain, and that he was badly bruised, but they found that his skull was not fractured. The lad was unconscious for an hour, but it is believed that he will recover within a short time.

PRELIMINARIES ARE COMPLETED

SEWER WORK READY FOR CONSULTING ENGINEER.

MR. BREED WILL GO TO PROVIDENCE NEXT WEEK.

TO CONFER WITH S. M. GRAY.

J. B. F. Breed, chief engineer of the Louisville Sewer Commission, will leave to-morrow morning for Providence, R. I., to hold his first consultation with S. M. Gray, who recently was elected consulting engineer of the proposed sewer system for Louisville. Mr. Breed announced yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Sewer Commission that he had everything in readiness for the consulting engineer, and it was deemed advisable that Mr. Breed go to Providence as soon as possible. Nothing else save routine business was transacted at the meeting yesterday.

Mr. Breed said that he had the entire project of the preparatory work in shape for the consulting engineer, and that he thought no further steps should be taken until a consultation was held. He said:

"I have everything in a nutshell. We have completed the topographical maps, the elevations and boundaries of Louisville. I can give Mr. Gray the exact location of the city and the lay of the land. I also can show him where all the present sewers are located and inform him of their defects and of their real worth in the way of draining the city. The force of men who have been at work for the last month or more have been doing good work and have made excellent progress. Had this not been the case I would not have been able to have been ready for the consulting engineer at this time.

"I will not be absent more than a week. We will go over the work together, and then, of course, the subject of what is required in the sewer line for Louisville may be talked about. I cannot say or predict what Mr. Gray will have to say on the subject. I have great confidence in his ability. It is my intention to start Sunday morning for Providence if a satisfactory telegram is received from Mr. Gray. You see, he is a busy man, and I would not like to make such a long trip without first knowing whether or not he will be at home."

BIG EXPLOSION

KILLS MANY FISH AT HEAD OF THE CANAL.

Government Workmen Set Off Fifty-Pound Charge of Dynamite.

By the explosion of a fifty-pound charge of dynamite yesterday afternoon at 4:32 o'clock, water in the river at the foot of Fifth street was tossed into the air to a height of seventy feet. The dynamite was set off by men employed on the Government dredge boat, which is being used in clearing out the channel leading to the canal. Following the explosion, hundreds of dead fish came to the surface of the water, and fishermen were kept busy for a short time, gathering the fish into their boats. The sound occasioned by the explosion attracted a large crowd to the river front.

Extreme care is used in touching off such giant charges of dynamite. Before touching the button which sends the electric spark to the buried explosive, three sharp blasts of the whistle aboard the dredge boat are sounded. It is a signal for all craft in the vicinity of the blast to seek shelter. Following the explosion, the air in its immediate vicinity is filled with flying rocks and river mud. It means death to all fish in the river within a radius of 200 yards.

He found that all had escaped death, but that their property was badly damaged. O'Brien will go back on duty to-day.

DECORATION DAY

WILL BE OBSERVED BY CONFEDERATES SATURDAY, MAY 26.

Preparations Begun By George B. Eastin Camp, U. C. V., For Annual Observance.

Decoration day will be observed by the George B. Eastin Camp, United Confederate Veterans, Saturday, May 26. The exercises attending the decorating of the graves of the Confederate dead in Cave Hill cemetery will be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The Daughters of the Confederacy of Louisville will join in the decoration services. Plans and Preparations for the exercises were begun at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the George B. Eastin Camp at the office of the Louisville National Banking Company yesterday afternoon. The following chairmen of committees connected with the preparation for the observance of the day were appointed:

Platform Committee—D. Thornton.
Music Committee—Capt. Andrew Broaddus.
Flower Committee—Prof. W. M. Marriner.
Speakers' Committee—Col. Bennett H. Young.
Badge Committee—A. M. Sea.

The assemblage will be called to order at Cave Hill cemetery by Capt. John H. Weller. The Rev. E. C. Dargan, of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, will offer prayer. Music will be provided by the Confederate choir. Col. Young, as chairman of the Speakers' Committee, will report next Wednesday afternoon at the meeting of the Executive Committee as to who will be chosen to deliver the annual address. Miss Mary Lawrence Claxon, sponsor for the George B. Eastin Camp, will recite "The Conquered Banner." During an intermission the graves of the Confederate dead will be strewn with flowers. The Rev. William Howard Falkner will deliver the benediction.

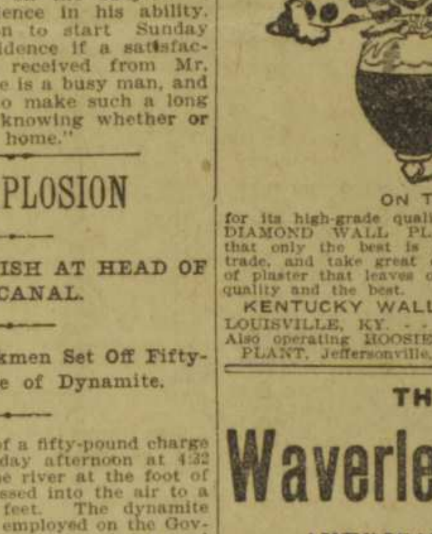

Prof. Marriner, chairman of the Flower Committee, will announce later where flowers can be sent on the day of the exercises. All persons are urged to send flowers to designated places on the day of the exercises, and they will be taken to the cemetery. It has been the custom of the express companies entering Louisville to bring flowers free of charge to the city sent by persons in the State. It is presumed that the companies will extend the same courtesies this year.

GETS $5,000

Child Suffered Hernia As Result of Collision.

MANY VERDICTS GROWING OUT OF SAME ACCIDENT.

WOMAN SAYS FIANCE'S AFFECTIONS WERE ALIENATED.

COMPROMISE FOR $4,500.

Rosa Kessee, the five-year-old daughter of Mrs. Emma Kessee, yesterday was given a verdict for $5,000 damages against the Illinois Central Railroad Company and the Henderson Route because of hernia which the child suffered in the collision between a street car and "cut" of freight cars on the evening of December 15, 1904, near the Fourteenth and Main-street crossing. This is one of a long series of damage suits brought by passengers in this case against the two railroads and the Louisville Railway Company. Though no one was killed in the accident, about twenty persons were injured. Yesterday's verdict exonerates the Louisville Railway Company from blame for the accident.

There was an array of representatives of the medical profession to give expert testimony, and the difference of opinion was interesting. The question concerning which the physicians testified was as to whether the child suffered hernia. Among those who were placed on the stand were: Drs. C. W. Kelly, L. S. McMurtry, Ap Morgan Vance, A. M. Cartledge, Clarence Pope, Curran Pope, Edward Speidel, Dudley S. Reynolds, Thomas Page Grant and H. B. Ritter.

So far six of these cases have been tried and in all an aggregate of about $24,000 in verdicts has been given. Blame in every case but one has been placed on the two railroads. In one instance the Louisville Railway Company was found by the jury to be partially liable.

Mrs. Kessee was aboard the car with the little plaintiff in yesterday's case and Lillian Kessee, two years of age. The younger child was hurt in the panic of passengers and a verdict was found in her favor for $2,500. A contract existing between the two railroads recently was construed by the courts and under its terms the Henderson Route is liable for the accident so far as the railroads are concerned.

Miss Stella Rescher, of Jeffersonville, recovered $6,000 because of injuries she received in the accident. Essie Milby, another young woman, was given a verdict for $10,000, which, however, was set aside by the court.

Yesterday's case was tried in Judge O'Doherty's court and Col. Bennett H. Young and Turner Wilson represented the plaintiff.

Bequest To Charity.

Michael O'Connell by his will dated November 3, 1900, and tendered for probate yesterday, provides that upon the death of his widow the larger portion of his property, worth about $15,000, shall go to the Little Sisters of the Poor. The widow is given absolutely the testator's home place at Twelfth and Oak streets and an adjoining thirty-foot lot, besides the proceeds of a $2,000 policy in the Catholic Knights of America. The rest of the property is held in trust until her death. The testator directs that $500 shall be expended after the death of his wife and her brother, Patrick Broderic, upon a monument for them. He leaves in trust $500 providing that a part of the income shall go to St. Louis Bertrand church for masses to be said for the repose of the souls of his wife and brother-in-law, while part shall be paid to St. Louis cemetery for the maintenance of the testator's lot.

Special bequests paid upon the death of his wife are as follows:

Grandnieces Margaret and Anna McDonough and John McDonough are to divide $1,000 among them.

The Trappist Fathers, of Nelson county, will receive $300 for masses to be said for the repose of the testator's soul and that of his wife.

The Rev. C. J. O'Connell, of Bardstown, receives $1,000 to be used for a purpose about which the testator says they had an understanding.

It is provided that the body of Mr. O'Connell's sister shall be removed from Cincinnati and placed in his lot at St. Louis cemetery. The Fidelity Trust Company and the Rev. C. J. O'Connell are named trustees, no surety being required of the latter.

Southern Pacific Assessment Discussed.

Argument was heard by County Judge Charles A. Wilson yesterday in the back-tax action brought by George H. Alexander, revenue agent, against the Southern Pacific Company upon the charge that a valuation of $300,000,000 had been omitted from assessment for 1905. This case also involves the legality of the assessment of Southern Pacific, which had been placed by Benson O. Herr, former County Assessor, at $50,000,000. Upon the last day of the meeting of the Board of Assessment and Equalization last February the assessment was cut down to $500,000. However, it is contended both by M. J. Holt, legal representative of the revenue agent, and Alfred Hite for the Assessor, that the Board of Equalization was not legally in session when it made the cut. It is argued that the board should have finished its labors three days before to have met the requirements of the statute.

The Southern Pacific is fighting to uphold the validity of the $500,000 assessment, while George H. Alexander wishes to prove that the cut came too late in order to maintain his right to prosecute the action. A. J. Bizot, County Revenue Agent, who brought suit after the board adjourned, also claims jurisdiction. The Assessor wants to establish the assessment because it increases his commissions by just that much. The questions argued were taken under advisement by Judge Wilson.

Both Attempted Suicide.

Mrs. Ella Riley, of Highland Park, who has made two attempts at suicide recently, was found insane in the Criminal Court and committed to Central Asylum at Lakeland. Rheumatism, of which she has been a great sufferer, is believed to have unbalanced her mind. A week ago she made an attempt to throw herself into a well, but because members of her family were watching her she was prevented from doing so. On another occasion she left the house at night and had nearly reached a pond about 300 yards away when her absence was discovered. It was with difficulty that she was prevented from throwing herself into the water. Mrs. Riley is thirty-three years of age.

James A. Suter, sixty-nine years of age, who has made several efforts to kill himself here lately, was adjudged insane in the Criminal Court yesterday and sent to Central Asylum. He is suffering from arterio sclerosis. Occasionally he can talk rationally, though only about occurrences of years ago.

Double Claim For Damages.

Eva Johnson, nineteen years of age, brought suit in the name of her father, William Johnson, against Joseph Smith for $15,000 damages, making charges of both slander and the exertion of alleged wrongful influence against her. Both Johnson and Smith are farmers and live near Pleasure Ridge Park.

The plaintiff says in her petition that she was betrayed under promise of marriage by Clarence Robison, who is a nephew by marriage of the defendant. Last September, however, the petition relates that the defendant enticed Robison not to keep his promise to the plaintiff and that by telling him that she had moved into the house with an improper character he had greatly dishonored and slandered her. Of the damages asked $5,000 is for slander and $10,000 for alleged alienation of Robison's affections.

Settled Damage Suit.

An order dismissing as settled the suit of Joseph Ritter against the Illinois Central Railroad Company for $20,000 damages was entered yesterday in Judge Field's court. The plaintiff was paid $4,500 because of injuries he received in a collision between a freight train and passenger train of the defendant at Vine Grove June 26, 1905. A mistake in the signal was the cause of the accident, several persons being hurt. Ritter sustained the fracture of three ribs and the injury to the vision of one eye. Norton L. Goldsmith represented him.

Restored To Civil Rights.

Mrs. Sarah Ottman, whose mind became affected by worrying over the death of her sister and father, was examined in the Criminal Court yesterday morning and found to have been restored to her normal mental condition. She was discharged from the asylum as cured about a year ago, having been under treatment for three months.

Court of Appeals Decisions.

Washington Miller, etc., vs. John M. Smythe, etc.—Filed May 1, 1906.—(To be reported.)—Appeal from Lee Circuit Court. Opinion of the Court by Carroll, Commissioner, reversing.

First. Injunction—Death of Party Enjoined—Action on Bond—Asset of Personal Representative.—Where, in an action for trespass to land, the defendant was wrongfully enjoined, and thereafter died, a recovery for damages on the injunction bond is an asset in the hands of the personal representative of the decedent, and an action on the bond should be brought by the personal representative and not by the heirs of the decedent.

Second. Same—Damages—Proximate Result of Injury.—Where a defendant was improperly enjoined from cutting and disposing of the timber on his land by one wrongfully claiming the land and timber, the injunction deprived the owner of the right to protect his timber and land, and the loss of his timber and other trespasses may be properly attributable to the injunction, and in an action on the bond the plaintiff is entitled to recover such damages as are the necessary and proximate result of the deprivation of his property.

H. L. Wheeler, Beckner & Jouett, for appellants; Gourley & Roberts, C. A. Gourley, for appellees.

John P. Sullivan, etc., vs. Thomas B. Sullivan, etc.—Filed May 1, 1906.—(To be reported.)—Appeal from Hardin Circuit Court. Opinion of the Court by Chief Justice Hobson, reversing.

First. Compromise — Evidence — Admissions Made to an Arbitrator.—While a proposition of compromise passing between the parties themselves may not be proved, statements that either of the parties may make to an arbitrator may be given in evidence just as any other admission against interest may be.

Second. Settlement of Estate—Advancements—Note for Services of Son.—In an action by Thomas D. Sullivan against the estate of his deceased mother, on a note executed by her to him as follows: "For value received I promise to pay Thomas D. Sullivan five hundred dollars, due twelve months after date, but if same is not paid by me no interest is to be collected until after my death. This is not an advancement made by me, but money due my son for services and kindness rendered me by him. This September 25, 1896, Mary F. Sullivan."

Held—There was no consideration for the note except the services of Thomas D. Sullivan, and on the trial the jury should have been instructed, that if they believed from the evidence the note was given in consideration of services rendered or to be rendered by him and he failed to render the services contracted for, they should find for him the fair value of the services actually rendered, the amount so found to be in the same proportion to the full amount of the note as the services which he rendered bore to the full amount of the services he agreed to render under the contract with his mother.

Third. Same—Consideration.—A mother executed a note to her son as follows: "For value received of him I this day promise to pay my son Samuel I. Sullivan five hundred dollars, to be paid him out of my estate before it is divided among my other children. This note not to bear interest until my death. August 28, 1902. Mary F. Sullivan."

A similar note was executed to her daughter, Katie M. Pierce. Held—These papers are not so executed that they may be probated as a will under the statute, and where a person dies intestate the question of advancements is regulated by the statute (Ky. St., Sec. 1,407), and the declaration of the parent cannot control the fact. The proof on the trial being insufficient to show that Samuel I. Sullivan or Katie M. Pierce in fact received $500 less than the other children of decedent, the notes under the evidence were without consideration and uninforcible.

S. M. Payton for appellant; Sprigg & Holbert for appellee.

Hiram C. Powers vs. Commonwealth of Kentucky.—Filed May 2, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Ohio Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Judge Nunn, affirming.

First—Trial—Criminal Case—Other Than Regular Term — Emergency — Discretion of Court.—Under Sec. 964, Ky. St., which as amended provides "that criminal and penal cases shall be heard at but three times in each year, unless in an emergency the court may otherwise direct," it is in the province of the court, exercising a reasonable judgment, to determine whether an emergency existed which authorized the trial of a criminal case at a time other than at a regular term at which criminal cases were directed by law to be tried.

Second—Evidence—Facts Occurring on the Ground—Part of Res Gestae.—Evidence of what occurred on the ground just after a conflict was over in which deceased was killed, is competent as part of res gestae, which showed that persons when they arrived at the scene of conflict found deceased upon appellant, whose back was on the ground, with a dirk in his left hand and a pistol in his right hand. They jerked deceased off of him and grabbed his hands, and disarmed him, in doing so appellant attempted to injure one or more of them with his dirk. It also tended to show the condition or state of mind of the appellant at the time and to contradict his theory that he was acting in his necessary self-defense.

Third — Defense—Insanity — Preponderance of Evidence—Power of Appellate Court.—Where on a trial for murder the appellant's real defense was insanity, although the preponderance of the evidence showed that he was not rational and responsible for his acts, there was some evidence heard from which the jury might have concluded that the appellant was responsible, and this court cannot, under Sec. 340 of the Civil Code, reverse a criminal case where there is any evidence tending to prove the defendant's guilt.

Heavrin & Woodward, J. S. Glenn for appellant; N. B. Hays, Attorney General, and C. H. Morris for appellee.

IMPROVEMENTS

Will Be Made By L. and N. At Paris.

NEW ROUNDHOUSE AND REPAIR SHOPS.

WORK TO BEGIN AT ONCE AND WILL BE RUSHED.

INCREASED BUSINESS NEEDS.

Paris, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—The Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company has under consideration extensive improvements in the local yards, embracing new tracks, repair shops, roundhouses, coal chutes, etc. The yards at this point are entirely inadequate to accommodate the constantly-increasing business, and the projected improvements will increase their traffic facilities.

At present the road has over fifty acres of land which it has purchased in the last few years in and around Paris, including the Hanlon property, the Bacon farm, a long strip in the rear of the old Paris fair grounds, a portion of the Griffith farm in the Y between the Richmond branch and the Lexington branch; a strip near the negro suburb of Claysville, and other parcels. It is estimated that it will cost over $100,000 to put this property in shape for railroad uses.

Large and complete repair shops are included in the present plans, to give employment to more than one hundred machinists and car repairers, to do the work that now has to be sent to the Covington shops from this division. The new roundhouses, planned to accommodate all the engines used on this division, are to be located in the south end of the yards, and will cost something over $25,000.

The projected improvements will require two years for completion. The whole matter is in the hands of General Manager D. M. Starks, of Louisville, and as soon as the question of the location of the various buildings is decided on the work will commence in earnest.

TO CONTROL 1906 CROP.

Burley Tobacco Growers Begin Fight.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—The Burley Tobacco Growers' Association have begun their fight for control of the 1906 crop of tobacco, and have sent out circulars asking all raisers to curtail their crops and put their tobacco in the association. President A. Stewart says the organization is still intact and on an excellent working basis, and that if the company secures 90 per cent. of the crop this year it means fourteen-cent tobacco to the growers. From the statement it seems the American Tobacco Company would have a harder fight than ever, and chances for the success of the association are good. Permanent organization in every county will at once be effected and active work of canvassing for crops will begin in a few days. The finances with which to purchase the crop are ready when the amount of the tobacco is subscribed.

NEW ELECTRIC ROAD

Will Connect Paris and Mt. Sterling.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—The Paris and Mt. Sterling Electric Railway Company was organized to-day and filed articles of incorporation with the County Clerk of Montgomery and Bourbon counties. The members of the company are: Henry A. Power, Robert C. Talbott, R. J. Neely, of Paris; W. A. Thomoson and John T. Collins, of Middletown; J. M. Bigstaff and H. Clay McKee, of Mt Sterling. The company is capitalized at $100,000, but the members of the company represent over $1,500,000. The survey for the line has all been completed and most of the right of way secured. The company will now be financed and active work begun on the line. The indications now look certain for the building of the road at an early day. The route is twenty-four and a quarter miles long.

TELEPHONES COMBINE.

Independent and Bell Will Use the Same Boards.

Columbus, Ind., May 11.—[Special.]—An agreement was reached here to-day between C. S. Norton, vice president of the new long distance telephone company, and Manager O. M. May, of the local Bell company, by which the Bell will close its exchange here and stop preparations for establishing an exchange at North Vernon. The Bell toll boards in each place will be trunked into the Independent City Boards and the two companies will operate together.

Deed of Trust Filed.

Nashville, Tenn., May 11.—The Southern Railway Company has filed a deed of trust in the office of the County Register of Hamilton county, Tennessee, amounting to $200,000,000, to the Standard Trust Company, of New York, for the purpose of securing the issuance of bonds to pave the way for extensive improvements to be made by the system, as has been announced.

London Wool Sales.

London, May 11.—There was a good attendance at the wool auction sales to-day. The offerings numbered 12,980 bales in good condition. Keen competition prevailed throughout. A good supply of merinos sold spiritedly, faulty being in better demand and firmer. Crossbreds were in large supply and were taken by all sections. Americans bought a few lots of coarse and also some Tasmania greasy at 1s 5d. Scoureds were in demand for France and Germany. Capes were firm and a good selection of Punta Arenas sold briskly. Following are the sales in detail:

New South Wales, 2,100 bales; scoured 1s@2s 2d; greasy 7d@1s 3½d.

Queensland, 400 bales; scoured 1s 1d@2s ½d; greasy 8d@1s 1½d.

STEEL PLANTS

Now Operating With Greatest Known Activity.

HEAVY IMPORTS OF GOLD RELIEVE STRINGENCY.

STAPLES MAINTAINED AT HIGH PRICES.

GENERAL CONDITIONS GOOD.

New York, May 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade to-morrow will say:

Domestic industrial conditions are greatly improved by the anthracite coal settlement and the resumption of traffic on the lakes, while the international situation is much brighter now that the French elections have passed without serious outbreak.

Foreign conditions are of unusual importance to business interests in the United States, owing to the present close relations of the money markets. Prices of securities have recovered part of the recent loss and heavy imports of gold have at least temporarily relieved the financial stringency. Manufacturing plants operate close to their full capacity, with orders in the steel industry already running well into 1907, and structural work was never more active. Wholesale trade in fall and winter goods is on a large scale, but unseasonable weather causes much complaint regarding retail distribution of merchandise and retards work on the farms in several important sections. This element of uncertainty as to the crops tends to maintain quotations of staples at a high position. Dun's index number of commodity prices on May 1 was $106,059, against $106,066 a month previous, the slight decline being supplied by dairy and garden products, but compared with the level of all quotations a year ago there is an advance of 8.7 per cent. Railway earnings thus far available for April show a gain of 9.7 per cent. over the previous year and foreign commerce at this port for the last week exhibits gains of $4,536,277 in exports and $428,538 in imports as compared with the same week in 1905. Mercantile collections are still somewhat irregular, but show a slight improvement on the whole. Bank exchanges at New York for the week were 23.8 per cent. larger than a year ago, party because of the much heavier trading in securities. At other leading cities the gain averaged 9.56 per cent.

Conditions in the iron and steel industry have been greatly improved by the settlement of three labor controversies that handicapped progress to some extent.

Failures this week were 209 in the United States, against 197 last week, and seventeen in Canada, compared with twenty-one a year ago.

ALL THINGS FAVORABLE.

Bradstreet's Report Shows General Trade Conditions Good.

New York, May 11.—Bradstreet's summary of the state of trade to-morrow will say:

While cooler weather has temporarily deterred retail sales of light-weight fabrics and perhaps has severely affected fruits and early vegetables, events of the week have improved the great basic conditions. Growing grain is in fine shape; fall orders, except at a few points, continue to expand; the labor situation is certainly more favorable; manufacturing in all lines the country over is active; new construction work is of marked proportions; demand for material is heavy; orders for steel rails are larger; the insurance situation is easier and so are money rates, while collections, save at a few centers, tend to improve. In fact, underlying conditions could hardly be better.

The labor situation especially shows marked improvement. The anthracite coal tie-up has ended and 140,000 men will go to work shortly. The bituminous strike is not entirely cleared up, but the lake traffic strike, which promised to be very serious, has been adjusted and much congestion and diversion of freight from water to rail routes has been obviated. Troubles in the building trades, too, have been generally settled and it is now apparently having the greatest year in its history. The scarcity of labor, in fact, is still the only drawback to an apparently boundless activity in nearly all lines.

Cold weather with frosts of varying intensity, retarding crop developments, is reported to have done some damage to fruits and vegetables, and may necessitate some replanting of cotton in the north part of the cotton belt.

Business failures are still small in number, being for the week ending May 10 160, against 139 last week, 159 in the like week of 1905, 201 in 1904, 182 in 1903 and 190 in 1902.

Wheat, including flour exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending May 10, are 2,142,062 bushels, against 2,104,748 last week, 899,355 this week last year, 734,736 in 1904 and 4,097,596 in 1903. From July 1 to date exports are 115,748,111 bushels, against 54,492,426 last year, 123,651,301 in 1904 and 194,487,758 in 1903.

Corn exports for the week are 1,573,740 bushels, against 1,035,315 last week, 1,528,299 a year ago, 120,156 in 1904 and 1,431,257 in 1903. From July 1 to date the exports of corn are 105,511,087 bushels, against 71,507,405 in 1905, 48,579,106 in 1904 and 58,377,030 bushels in 1903.

TO EXHIBIT

Lincoln Birthplace Cabin In Large Cities.

TRIUMPHAL TOUR BACK TO KENTUCKY ARRANGED.

GUARD OF HONOR FROM THE FIRST REGIMENT.

ROOSEVELT MAY SPEAK.

A triumphal tour will be arranged for the Lincoln birthplace cabin in its journey from New York to Louisville, where it will be set up for Home-coming Week. In a letter received to-day from Richard Lloyd Jones, secretary of the Lincoln Farm Association, and addressed to Breckinridge Castleman, chairman of the Committee on Lincoln Cabin, Mr. Jones suggested that the cabin be exhibited in several of the large cities through which it will pass on its journey.

The trip will be made after the plan adopted for the Liberty Bell in its several tours over the country, and at each of the large cities a representative committee will be named to take charge of the exhibition, and short addresses by prominent citizens will be made. Details of the plan have not yet been worked out, but it is expected that the cabin will be exhibited at Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburg, Columbus and Cincinnati. At Washington President Roosevelt probably will be asked to make the address.

To Confer With Governor.

Mr. Castleman will go to Frankfort to-day to confer with Gov. Beckham about sending a guard of honor from one of the companies of the First Regiment to take charge of the cabin during its trip to Louisville. The cabin will be set on a flat car and at all stops the soldiers will surround it to protect it from any acts of vandalism on the part of the sightseers.

The Lincoln Farm Association which now owns the cabin has in its board of directors a number of the most distinguished men in the United States. The Lincoln Farm Association was formed for the purpose of converting the Lincoln birthplace into a national park.

Mr. Jones' Letter.

Following is Mr. Jones' letter in reference to the trip of the cabin:

Mr. Breckinridge Castleman, Chairman of Committee on Lincoln Cabin, Louisville, Ky.—My Dear Mr. Castleman: Owing to my absence from the city I have failed to advise you earlier of our earnest desire to co-operate with you in any way we can toward the Home-coming celebration of the Kentuckians in Louisville in June, and we shall be glad in this connection to arrange with you for the exhibition in the city of Louisville at that time of the Lincoln birthplace cabin, which is in our possession here in New York City.

We can arrange very easily, of course, to have this cabin in Louisville by the 1st of June and, therefore, would ask you to advise me as to whom it should be shipped, etc., etc. We, of course, are very anxious that these historic logs should be well cared for while there, and we think they should be properly insured and protected by you while in your charge. Will you be kind enough to advise me what protection you can guarantee in this connection, and also I should like to know at what place in your city you contemplate erecting the logs for exhibition, and what rules and regulations govern the exhibition. We shall desire, of course, to have a guard at the cabin, and we will probably have a representative of our own who will be at the cabin during its entire stay in your city as a form of exhibit. There is a possibility that the cabin may be exhibited along the way to your city on the car on which it rides. This has been suggested to us by some of the railroads, and it has occurred to me that in case this should be brought about it might be a rather pretty thing to have it guarded in transit by a detachment of perhaps four or six soldiers from some battalion of your local State militia, who would be delegated to that mission and errand. This is merely in line of suggestion, and I should be glad to hear how the suggestion may appeal to you.

Let me hear from you as early as convenient, so that we may make our plans timely. Very truly yours,

RICHARD LLOYD JONES, Sec.

Henderson County Home-Comers.

Henderson county folks living in Louisville are preparing to go "down home" after Home-coming Week here. A committee, consisting of Young E. Allison, chairman; J. B. Weaver, secretary; Henry J. Powell and Clarence Dallam, has been appointed to take charge of arrangements. They will call a meeting of Henderson county residents of Louisville as soon as they can prepare a list. They request all former residents of Henderson, who would care to visit the old home in June, to send their names and addresses to J. B. Weaver, secretary, 304-305 Kentucky Title building, at once. Women and men are equally urged to send their names.

Boston Wool.

Boston, May 11.—The Commercial Bulletin will say to-morrow of the wool market: "Dealers unanimously agree that the market is at the highest point which manufacturers can stand, but at the same time they see no reason whatever why the existing basis of values should not be maintained. Buyers are still showing interest in the remaining stocks and the transactions are greater than those of a week ago. They are, however, necessarily small, as all wools are in limited supply. Foreign wools are the most active. Some New Zealand 46s to 56s are moving at 42@43c. Merino 70s are selling at 42½c, or about 85c clean. The bulk of Territory wool now on the market is comprised of clothing. Fine sells in a small way at 20@21c, or about 70c clean, and fine medium at 21c, or 68@70c scoured basis. Fine medium scoured brings 68c. A small amount of fall Texas has been taken at 23@24c. Stocks of all grades are low and prices are but nominal. Pulled wools are moving moderately at 65@68c for fine As, 62c strong for A supers and 52@55c for B supers. The greater part of choice carpet wools have been taken by manufacturers, but the poorer ones left are held very firmly. Buyers in the Territories are at standstill, and they will remain so until growers modify their views. The shipments of wool from Boston to date from December 27, 1905, are 85,442,849 pounds, against 92,164,298 at the same time last year. The receipts to date are 88,473,080 pounds, against 101,041,586 for the same period last year."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MONETARY.

Money market conditions at present are such that financing for the merger of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company and the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company is considered impracticable. Had it not been for the San Francisco calamity, which brought about such a change in the situation, it is believed that the plan for the consolidation of these three companies, with the possible addition of the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company, would have been well under way by this time. It is the opinion of well-advised financiers in Wall street that this merger will be brought about by John W. Gates sooner or later. It is his ambition to be at the head of the largest steel and iron interest in the United States outside of the United States Steel Corporation, and this only is possible through the consolidation of the great Southern companies, which stand ready to be merged when the proper moment arrives. Whether or not Mr. Gates wishes to be the executive head of the merged companies in name, as well as in reality, is a question. He is the great moving power, but it is not his policy to appear prominently as the chief factor, although it is well known that he is the man who is the general in command. The position of all these companies is strong, for between them, they control fully 1,500,000,000 tons of iron ore in the ground, the cost of taking out of which is comparatively small, while the figures at which this ore can be laid down at the doors of the furnaces is very low. There is no doubt that ore values throughout the world are rapidly rising.

An analysis of the earnings of Union Pacific for the past nine months of the fiscal year shows the company has earned 12 per cent. on the common stock. On the basis that the remainder of the present fiscal year promises big returns, it is expected that the company for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1906, will reveal an earning power on its common stock in excess of 14 per cent., irrespective of much hidden value in its assets.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, will show 10 per cent., or possibly a little more, earned on its common stock, compared with 5.02 per cent. last year. The earnings of the common for the first nine months of the present fiscal year, recently made public, show an increase in gross of 15 per cent. over those in the corresponding period last year, an increase in operating expenses of 8.3 per cent. and an increase in net earnings of 28 per cent. The increase in percentage of net earnings is nearly double the increase in gross, which indicates the favorable conditions under which the corporation has been operating during the past nine months. The net earnings for the first three quarters of the year, in fact, amounting to $22,172,129, lacked only a little more than $600,000 of equaling the net earnings for the entire fiscal year ended June 30, 1905, when the net amounted to $22,858,453. In view of the progress which the company is making in earning capacity and the favorable outlook for the future, it is understood that the directors have for some time been discussing in an informal manner the advisability of increasing the dividend on the common stock to a 5 per cent. basis next October. Information comes from good quarters that they have already virtually decided to do so if the crops this year turn out as auspiciously as is now indicated.

Representative investment bond houses of the first class report an improvement in the tone of the market. There is a better demand for bonds, those paying from 4¼ to 4½ per cent. particularly. It is declared that savings bank bonds have finally reached rock-bottom and improvement from these prices is confidently looked for. The amount of bonds placed on the market by insurance companies has been relatively much less than had been expected. Great gratification is expressed over the better tone of the market, in view of the fact that about ten days ago it was virtually impossible to find a ready market for even high-class securities.

Gross earnings of the United Railways Company, of St. Louis, for the month of April were $756,422.50, an increase of $58,371.12 over the corresponding month a year ago.

The West Penn Railways Company reports for the year ended March 31:

Total charges	$326,075	$325,625	$1,050
Surplus	$189,123	$86,647	$102,476

This surplus is more than double the interest on all the West Penn Railways bonds outstanding and provides for the 5 per cent. dividend on the entire issue of $2,750,000 5 per cent. non-cumulative preferred stock, which dividends the company is paying regularly. This leaves $51,623 available for dividends on the common stock of $3,250,000, which is equal to 1.6 per cent.

The certificates for the new stock of the East St. Louis and Suburban Company are ready for delivery to the holders. No fractions of shares will be issued, but the depositaries will either buy or sell fractions on a basis of $90 for the preferred and $70 for the common.

WALL STREET BRIEFS.

American Locomotive directors are to be asked to increase the dividend. The common, it is stated, will earn 20 per cent. this year.

The Adams Express Company has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $2 and the usual extra dividend of $2, payable June 1.

The American Express Company has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $3 and the usual extra dividend of $1, payable July 2.

Interests associated with the Anaconda company look for a sharp rise in the stock in the near future on the prospect of a 20 per cent. quarterly dividend. On that rate of dividend the stock would yield 7 per cent. on the selling price of 285.

The market continues strong, but I can't change my position. I don't believe in this market, and think this is a "soda-water" rise. The tape seems to say I am mistaken.—(Evans.

Forty roads for the fourth week of April show an average gross increase of 12.11 per cent.

Rubber surplus, after dividends for year, $1,035,178.

MARKET LETTERS.

New York.—With general prosperity and easier money the market has had a support which has made stocks put out on the short side during the decline appear much less attractive than a week ago. It has looked lately as if the improvement which many expected in the middle of the summer, after a slow convalescent period, had decided to appear now and that our waiting would be done a little later on, although we by no means expect the market to keep on advancing indefinitely at this season of the year.—(Post & Flagg to John W. & D. S. Green.

New York.—The future trend of prices must depend mainly on the monetary situation and continued easy rates will be likely to encourage greater pool activity and induce outside investment buying. The Secretary of the Treasury is quoted as stating the belief that gold imports have substantially ceased for the present, and that the gold which is yet to arrive on previous engagements will all have to be turned into the Treasury to cover the advances made. This being the case, New York will be dependent upon funds from the interior to increase the banks' resources. It will, therefore, be necessary to approximately ascertain the extent of San Francisco's financial needs in the immediate future in order to predict financial conditions in New York with reasonable accuracy.—(A. O. Brown & Co. to Hunt, Bridgeford & Co.

New York.—The market maintained its strength throughout the day. Traders sold, but were obliged to cover at higher prices. It is evident that very strong interests are back of the market, and seem determined to advance it until buying becomes general.—(Kelley, Miller & Co. to Almstedt Bros.

New York.—The market was broader and the low-priced issues received much more attention. Some of them gave a very good account of themselves, confirming our opinion expressed yesterday that you would do well to confine your attention largely to them. The rise in the grangers looked a good deal forced, but the buying seemed to be confident, even though largely of clique origin. That Union Pacific should again be a market leader shows how soon misfortunes, like the San Francisco fire, are partially lost sight of. Most of the day's news was favorable, and with a good bank statement to-morrow we may end the week with a buoyant stock market. Still, predictions are risky.—(C. I. Hudson & Co. to S. C. Henning & Co.

New York.—The market has not only recovered its confidence, but has taken on quite a bullish hue. The big men are arrayed on the bull side. They have the market in perfect control. The brilliant crop prospects, magnificent railroad and corporation earnings and conditions of business in general have in no way been impaired. We would buy stocks on the moderate reactions.—(W. L. Lyons & Co.

New York.—As long as the stubborn short interest which now exists holds out the market will continue strong. Slowly but surely they are running in, and after they have covered up we expect to see the market react somewhat. The tendency, however, is towards higher prices on account of good business conditions, the prospects of good crops and the ease in the money market.—(Dominick & Dominick to Halsey & Halsey.

New York.—Market assumed a stronger tone after the end of the first hour and a number of the railroad issues showed decided gains over low prices made early in the day. At midday the volume of business decreased materially.—(Ex. Norton & Co. to J. J. B. Hilliard & Son.

New York.—It was the belief of more conservative interests here that the market had gone high enough under present conditions and exceeded the expectations of most sanguine bulls. From the character of the trading during the day and the tactics employed we are strongly of the belief that stocks are well distributed to the shorts, who covered freely on the advances. General conditions are bullish throughout the country and we are believers in higher prices the coming summer, but stocks are too high to buy at the moment.—(Hutton & Co. to John L. Dunlap.

STOCK MARKET REVIEW.

New York, May 11.—Money on call steady; highest 3¾ per cent.; lowest 3¼; ruling rate 3½; last loan 3¾; closing bid 3½; offered at 4; time loans steady; 60 days, 90 days and six months 5@5¼ per cent.; prime mercantile paper 5¼@5¾. Sterling exchange easier, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.8550@4.8555 for demand and at $4.8220@4.8225 for 60-day bills; posted rates $4.83 and $4.86½; commercial bills $4.81⅝. Bar silver 66⅞c. Mexican dollars 51c. Government bonds easier. Railroad bonds irregular.

The stock market made a further demonstration of its recuperative vitality to-day in the further striking advances effected in prices of a large number of important stocks. The current belief in the financial district continues to be that the operations which cause these advances are largely in the hands of professionals or habitual speculators formed into market combinations and made up of men of great wealth. Commission houses report that there is small evidence of any widespread general interest in the market. The accumulation of stocks from whatever source went on with great apparent confidence, however, and prices were pushed upwards without meeting selling orders sufficient in volume to overcome the upward tendency.

Board room traders professed their distrust in the movement at times and tested its force by opposing short sales and by attempts to offer prices down. These efforts to turn the market were uniformly unsuccessful, and the traders were forced to shift their action and buy back stocks, thus helping on the advance. Their distrust of the rise was based upon the extent to which it has reached, and was not occasioned by an unfavorable view of any actual occurrences bearing on values. They professed their skepticism also of the capacity of the market to afford profits at the higher level of prices on the speculative accumulations which have been made, owing to the light general demand for stocks which has shown itself thus far. The action of the market, however, indicates a digestion of profits going on from time to time in the course of the advance. Thus the stocks which are strong one day are either reactionary or held only stationary during the next day under the influence of the steady selling, while advances at new points serve as a sustaining influence. This course of procedure has justified itself up to the present time despite the distrust professed towards it by a considerable speculative element.

The broad underlying basis for the movement is the effective decline in interest rates. This was further evident to-day in the rates for call and time loans. The banks have gained apparently several million dollars on the express movement this week with the interior. The account of Subtreasury operations shows on its face a loss by the banks of $409,000, but this includes the return by the banks of Government deposits, which were made contingent upon arrivals of gold engagements, and have amounted this week to $2,456,500. A net gain in cash by the banks, therefore, of upward of $5,000,000 seems indicated.

Foreign exchange rates also eased off to-day, and it was reported that some remittances to New York were being made on account of the British fire insurance companies. It is assumed by the speculative party in Wall street that practically the whole volume of fire losses by the British companies yet remains to be remitted, and it is expected that these sums will remain on deposit in New York for some time before being ultimately distributed to the San Francisco claimants. Attention was given to reports of the probable fixing of an early date for the resumption of business by the San Francisco banks, as a return flow of currency to New York is expected to follow promptly when this resumption occurs and the demands upon deposits are defined. Some effect was caused by the arrival at the final stages of the railroad rate legislation, as the definite clearing up of that matter is expected to relieve the stock market of some cause of depression. Reports of crop damage by the cold weather were ignored in the stock market. An advance in the price of copper was an incident of the day, and many rumors were revived of intended dividend increases and projects for consolidation and financial readjustment.

The occasional irregularity caused by the continual profit taking was in evidence again, but the strong undertone was not materially altered, and, in fact, seemed to gather force throughout the day.

FOREIGN FINANCIAL.

London, May 11.—Money was much wanted in the market to-day for Stock Exchange payments and rates were slightly harder. Discounts were easy. On the Stock Exchange, though, the volume of business was not increased, the tone was distinctly more cheerful and there was less apprehension regarding the settlement, which was being concluded satisfactorily, while the transfer of $2,500,000 in gold from the Indian Secretary to the Bank of England's reserve helped in the moderate improvement of consols and other first-class stocks. Americans fluctuated narrowly in the morning, but moderate professional buying hardened quotations to a fraction over parity. Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk were supported on the traffic returns. In the afternoon Wall street advices caused a sharp improvement and the market closed firm, with Missouri Pacific the feature. Foreigners were supported by Paris and hardened, especially Russians. Japanese Imperial 6s of 1904 were quoted at 101¼. Kaffirs had a better tone on French purchases. At the close quotations were: Consols for money 89⅝; do for the account 89 9-16; Anaconda 13½; Atchison (ex-div.) 92½; do preferred 105½; Baltimore and Ohio 112¼; Canadian Pacific 165; Chesapeake and Ohio 60⅜; Chicago Great Western 20¾; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul 173¾; De Beers 17¾; Denver and Rio Grande 43⅜; do preferred 90; Erie 44⅜; do first preferred 80½; do second preferred 71; Illinois Central 176¾; Louisville and Nashville 149¼; Missouri, Kansas and Texas 34¾; New York Central 143½; Norfolk and Western 91; do preferred 94; Ontario and Western 50¾; Pennsylvania (ex-div.) 70¼; Rand Mines 6¼; Reading 67; do first preferred 47; do second preferred 49; Southern Railway 39; do preferred 103; Southern Pacific 68; Union Pacific 154¼; do preferred 98; United States Steel 42½; do preferred (ex-div.) 109¼; Wabash 21½; do preferred 46; Spanish fours 92⅞. Paris, May 11.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were very firm, the opening of the Russian Parliament having produced an excellent impression. Russian Imperial 4s were quoted at $3.15 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 505. The private rate of discount was 2⅜ per cent. Three per cent. rentes 99f 20c for the account. Exchange on London 25f 19½c for checks.

Berlin, May 11.—On the Boerse to-day trading was light. Russians improved upon the favorable view taken of the Parliament at St. Petersburg. Exchange on London 20 marks 52 pfgs. for checks. Discount rates: Short bills 3½ per cent.; three months' bills 3⅝ per cent.

St. Petersburg, May 11.—The favorable interpretation of yesterday's events was reflected to-day by an all-round strengthening of prices on the Bourse. Imperial 4s closed at 75¾ and 5s at 89¼.

LEAF TOBACCO.

Friday Evening, May 11.—The sales on the local auction breaks were very small, only ninety-one hogsheads being offered. The quality of the Burley offerings was only fair and in a soft condition. Old tobaccos were offered in limited quantity, and were mostly of the low and inferior types. The quality of the dark offerings was fair, and while prices were no higher they were in most cases satisfactory to the seller, and rejections were light.

Auction sales of leaf tobacco for the week amounted to 1,170 hogsheads and private sales 331, the total being 1,501, as compared with 1,610 for the corresponding week last year. Since January 1 total sales have amounted to 78,641 hogsheads, as compared with 63,383 in 1905. Sales of Burley for the week totaled 786 hogsheads, of which 16 were old crop. The sales of dark were 715 hogsheads, old crops amounting to 152. Rejections this week were 203 hogsheads, or 17 per cent. of the sales at auction. Since January 1 rejections have amounted to 9,272. Receipts for the week were 1,172 hogsheads, and since January 1 they have amounted to 59,815.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Louisville.

(Reported by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange, Bourbon Stock Yards.)

Louisville, May 11.—Cattle—The fresh receipts of cattle to-day were 99 head; for the week thus far 1,316. With comparatively few cattle on sale the market continued rather quiet to-day, but no apparent change in values. The choice, handy-weight butchers were in better favor than any other class, and, as has been the case for several days past, hardly enough of that class here to supply the requirements of the trade. No urgent demand prevailed for the common and medium grades, but the few sales reported were on the basis of steady values. A reasonably active demand characterized the feeder and stocker trade; but few here, and Monday's prices upheld, with very little effort. No change noticeable in bull, canner and milch cow trade. Feeling regarding heavy shipping cattle unchanged. Pens well cleared. Market closed steady.

Calves—Receipts of calves to-day 131 head; for the week 400. The market was about like yesterday; best veals $5.25@5.75; common calves hard to sell.

Hogs—Receipts of hogs to-day 3,000 head; for the week thus far 12,180. With a fairly good demand prevailing to-day steady prices were maintained, except as regards heavy pigs, which suffered a 10c decline as compared to yesterday's prices. Best, 120 pounds and up, $6.45; 90 to 120-pound pigs $6.15; light pigs $5.75; roughs $3.50@5.80. Pens well cleared and the market closed steady.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts of sheep and lambs 54 head; for the five days this week 1,472. The market was reported steady. Good fat sheep changed hands readily at current values, $4.25@4.75, with something extra a shade better; good wool sheep also higher. Spring lamb trade continued quiet, best here selling at $8; butcher lambs $5@7. Common grades of sheep and lambs slow. Desirable young stock ewes in fair demand.

(Reported by the Central Live Stock Exchange, Central Stock Yards.)

Louisville, May 11.—Cattle—Receipts rather light to-day, though there was fully enough cattle here to supply the demand. The buyers were showing very little interest for anything except the choice handy-weight butcher cattle, which sold readily at fully steady prices; the common and medium grades were a little hard to sell, though that class is not quotably lower. The choice stockers and feeders continue to meet with ready sale at good strong prices and not enough coming to supply the demand, but the common, rough stockers and feeders are dull and hard to sell. Bulls and canners about steady. No heavy shipping cattle here to-day; feeling about steady on that class. The choice milch cows and good forward springers are selling readily at good prices, while the common, thin, small cows are slow sellers. At the close the pens are well cleared of all grades.

COTTON MARKETS.

New York, May 11.—The cotton market was less active to-day and ruled irregular within a narrow margin. The close was steady at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 5 points. Sales for the day were estimated at 250,000 bales.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 2 points in response to somewhat disappointing cables, but there was a renewal of the covering and bull support noted yesterday, and right after the opening prices worked up to a net advance of 2@5 points, led by the old crop months. Offerings increased on the advance and seemed to be for both long and short account, owing to the disposition to expect a reaction after an advance of about half a cent a pound in prices and the improved weather over the South. Temperatures were higher and later reports from the districts where frost was noted yesterday indicated that damage has been comparatively slight. This encouraged local bears to sell quite aggressively early, and prices eased off to a net loss of about 2@6 points, with the new crop relatively easy and for sale by houses with Southern connections. Bull leaders seemed to be supporting the market in the late trading, but final prices were at nearly the lowest, May being the only month to show any net advance. According to official reports, Southern spot markets were generally unchanged to 1-16c higher. The English spot market was 4 points higher, although futures there closed unchanged to 4 points lower and spot sales were 1,000 bales.

Estimated receipts at the ports to-day 19,000 bales, against 17,262 last week and 32,514 last year; for the week 78,000 bales, against 84,780 last week and 142,692 last year; to-day's receipts at New Orleans 1,160 bales, against 3,456 last year, and at Houston 1,511 bales, against 3,588 last year.

Spot cotton opened quiet; middling uplands 11.95c; do gulf 12.20c. Closed quiet and unchanged; sales 4,055 bales.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 11.—Reports of damage to the fall-sown crop by dry weather caused strength to-day in the local wheat market. At the close prices were at the highest point of the day, the July option being up 1⅜@1½c. A feature of the trading in corn was a 2¼c advance in the price of the May option, due to covering by shorts. That delivery closed at a net gain of 1⅝c. July corn was up ¼c. Oats showed a gain of ⅝c. Provisions were 2½@7½c higher.

The wheat market was strong for the greater part of the day, but the strength was more pronounced during the last half of the session. Trading was more active than for some time past, many outside interests buying freely. At the opening pit traders were bearishly inclined because of favorable weather conditions, but the market was held steady by small receipts in the Northwest. As the session advanced many reports were received of damage to the winter crop. The majority of these reports came from St. Louis and Kansas City, and were accompanied by orders to buy wheat. Several of the leading commission houses were good buyers, and this started an active general demand, which carried prices up over a cent. Selling was chiefly by longs. The market closed strong. July opened a shade lower to a shade higher at 80@80¼c, sold at 79¾@80c and advanced to 81⅛@81⅜c. The close was at 81½c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 150,000 bushels. Exports for the week, as shown by Bradstreet's, were equal to 2,000,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 164,000 bushels, against 101,000 bushels for the corresponding day one year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 123 cars, against 233 cars last week and 90 cars one year ago.

An advance of 2¼c in the price of May corn was the feature of the trading in that option. The sharp upturn was caused by shorts, who were stirred to action by the small amount of corn available for delivery on May contracts. Stocks of corn in this market are unusually small, and it is said that practically all of the grain is owned by shippers, who have either disposed of the grain in the East or expect to do so, now that the lake strike is ended. The movement from the country is very small; local arrivals to-day being only 82 cars, of which number 15 cars were of contract grade. Not until the price of May had been advanced to 49⅝c, which was 2¼c above the low point of the day, was the demand of the most urgent bidders satisfied. On profit taking the price dropped back to 49c, where it closed firm, final quotations showing a net gain of 1⅝c. Future deliveries were strengthened by the advance in May and closed strong. July opened unchanged to a shade lower at 45⅞@46c to 46c, sold between 45⅞c and 46½c and closed at 46½c.

The strength of wheat and corn caused moderate firmness in oats. There was a good demand by shorts for May oats, but offerings were light. Commission houses were fair buyers of July. That option opened unchanged at 31⅜c, sold up to 31¾c and closed at the top. Local receipts were 94 cars.

Trading in the provisions pit was very quiet, but the market had a firm undertone because of a 5@7½c advance in the price of live hogs. At the close July pork was up 7½c at $15.25. Lard was up 2½c at $8.50. Ribs were 2½@5c higher at $8.67½@8.70.

Estimated receipts for to-morrow are: Wheat 41 cars; corn 78; oats 91; hogs 10,000 head.

Trading was fairly active on the call, but was quiet later, and total sales to midday were about 10,000 bags. The steadied tone was in line with the European cables. Havre opened ¾ franc lower, but recovered the loss before the hour of the local opening, and after opening ¼ pfg. lower Hamburg rallied and at 2 o'clock was net unchanged to ¼ pfg. higher. The Brazilian markets continued steady, with prices unchanged in spite of an advance of 3-32d in the rate of Brazilian exchange, and while receipts were full they were on the expected basis. The two ports had 18,000 bags, against 6,000 last year, and the Jundiahy 6,000, against 4,000 last year. Nothing fresh is learned regarding the valorization scheme. Warehouse deliveries as reported for yesterday made a little better comparison at 15,053 bags, against 14,056 last year.—(Ware & Leland.

SPECULATION versus INVESTMENT

In these days of so-called frenzied finance the average person sometimes finds it difficult to determine just what is investment and what speculation.

Generally speaking anything that involves large risks is called speculation. But whether the risks are large or small is the point on which opinions often differ.

Speculation holds out hopes of large returns—hopes that in a vast majority of cases are never realized.

An investment, if it be sound, produces less returns. But those returns are more certain.

Money deposited in our Savings Department, for instance, earns 3 per cent. compound interest. And that 3 per cent. is as certain as the income from Government Bonds—for ours is a National Bank and our Savings Department shares in the advantages of national supervision.

The Third National Bank is both conservative and liberal in its policy—conservative in its own investments and liberal in its treatment of its patrons.

BACK TO JAIL.

LAWRENCE CRAVENS FINDS HIMSELF IN DOUBLE TROUBLE.

Arrested As Deserter, Released On Account of Illness, Arrested Again.

Lawrence H. Cravens, who was arrested Tuesday as a deserter from the United States army, is in double trouble. Owing to his physical condition and the belief that he would have to be sent to the hospital instead of the military prison, the recruiting officer stationed in Louisville deemed it best to release Cravens.

He was ordered to be released by Jailer J. R. Pfanz yesterday morning. No sooner had Cravens stepped into the office of the jail than he was rearrested by B. L. Bruner, Deputy United States Marshal.

The warrant on which Cravens was arrested the second time was issued by J. A. Conyers, of Glasgow, Ky., and charges Cravens with selling whisky without paying the Government special tax. Cravens immediately was placed in jail to await the action of the Federal grand jury. It is probable that Cravens will ask for an immediate trial, so that he can either prove himself innocent of the charges or plead guilty and begin his sentence.

GROCER BANKRUPT.

Russell L. Baker Says He Is Unable To Pay His Debts.

Russell L. Baker, who lives at Beards, Oldham county, but who has been conducting a grocery at 1502 Barret avenue in Louisville, yesterday filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in the United States Court. His liabilities are estimated at $889.65 and his assets at $800. He claims exemption on property amounting to $400. A feature of the petition is that he says he borrowed $150 from the Falls City Loan Company, agreeing to pay $80 interest for the year. He says that he has paid $87.50, and he asks that only the legal rate be asked.

His assets consist of a stock of goods valued at $300, wagon, machinery and fixtures amounting in all to $800. The principal Louisville creditors are: Louisville Grocery Company, $101.58; H. Schoeffel & Co., $26.55; A. H. Engelhard & Co., $28.35; Callahan & Sons, $20.

Customhouse Notes.

The collections in the internal revenue office for yesterday were as follows: Beer, $685; whisky, $29,965.87; cigars, $161.46; tobacco, $13,283.02; case stamps, $58; total, $44,154.15.

John Moss, clerk in the mailing department of the post-office, yesterday tendered his resignation to Postmaster T. H. Baker. His position will be filled from the eligible list.

The following persons enlisted in the United States navy yesterday and will start for the navy yards at Norfolk, Va., this morning: Joseph E. Beck, Lincoln, Neb., Frank Crezelous, of Marengo, Ind.; Fred Gray, of Knox county, Ky.

W. W. CADE ARRESTED.

WIFE SAYS HE TRIED TO BREAK FURNITURE.

Alleges That He Became Too Elated Upon Receiving Bequest of One Thousand Dollars.

On a warrant sworn out by his wife, W. W. Cade, who recently fell heir to $1,000, a part of his mother's estate, was arrested early yesterday morning at the Bourbon House, Johnston and Main streets, where he had spent the night. Mrs. Cade alleges that her husband left home soon after receiving the money and made no provision for her support during his absence. She alleges that she was forced to take boarders as a means of livelihood, and that when her husband returned to his home, 831 Seventh street, Wednesday night, and found a number of medical students rooming there, he sought to eject them, and later proceeded to break the furniture.

When seen at the jail yesterday afternoon, Cade talked at random. He exhibited a black eye, and accounted for it by stating that the medical students had turned upon him, and given him a severe beating. He said he thought two of his ribs were broken, but an examination by Dr. Samuel H. Garvin, jail physician, failed to disclose injuries of that nature.

When Patrolman McCue entered Cade's room for the purpose of placing him under arrest yesterday morning, he found Cade, only partially dressed, standing on the sill of the open window in plain view of the street. The man made no attempt to leap out of the window, and submitted to arrest without a struggle. When asked yesterday afternoon why he had taken up his position in the window, he said he was unable to arouse any of the bellboys about the hotel, and was endeavoring to attract the attention of somebody on the street in order that a servant might be sent to his room.

Mrs. Cade is under the impression that her husband is suffering from temporary aberration, brought about by joy over his inheritance.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE HERE TO-MORROW.

A lecture will be given at Macauley's Theater to-morrow on Christian Science. It will be free to all. Judge Hanna, the lecturer, is an old soldier and a lawyer of many years' experience, and has practiced on the bench. After failing to get relief from serious illness, both he and his wife were healed in Christian Science, and both of them since have devoted their lives to this work. For several years he was editor of the Christian Science Journal, the principal publication of the Christian Scientists. He is an agreeable speaker and is authority on the subject about which he proposes to talk.

BIDS WILL BE TAKEN FOR TEAM SPRINKLING.

THE WORK TO BEGIN SOON.

Mayor Barth announced yesterday that he, in all probability, would be able to secure a reduction of $1,000 on the contract for sprinkling the streets of the city on which car lines are located, which was awarded to the Louisville City Railway Company and the Louisville Tramway Company. The Mayor said that he would hold a conference in a day or two with the persons connected with the two companies in regard to the matter. He refused to divulge how he would secure the reduction. He said the matter was still in an uncertain form, but he thought he would succeeed from the fact that the two companies have shown a most liberal spirit.

The Mayor said that he would take up the matter of sprinkling the streets on which there were no car lines as soon as possible. He said that the city would be divided into districts, so that bids could be received for sprinkling. He said that he wanted to find out just what the team sprinklers could do. He also wants to know what there is to be done in each district, so that he and the bidders can estimate closely on the work. The cost of sprinkling on the thoroughfares where there are no car lines will be considerably higher than on streets where cars are operated.

The companies now are preparing their tank cars for work. Four are now available, but perhaps one or two more will be needed. These cars will be filled by plugs along the tracks, and it will be necessary to put in plugs along certain streets. The Mayor intends that all streets shall be sprinkled at least twice a day, and more, if necessary, in the business center. It will take more water on granite and asphalt streets than on macadamized streets.

The sprinkling contractors will be paid out of a fund that is available for the purpose. This fund has been made available by strict economy in the administration of the city's finances.

LINDSEY'S SUCCESSOR

Will Be Appointed By Judge Richards Next Week.

Although the resignation of Horace Lindsey as claim agent in the law department of the city was accepted yesterday by Judge Richards, City Attorney, it is probable he will not sever his connection entirely with the office for some time. There are a number of cases pending against the city which will have to be finished by Mr. Lindsey before he leaves to go with Humphrey & Humphrey, attorneys. Judge Richards will not appoint a successor to Mr. Lindsey until next week. Numerous persons are applicants for the position, among whom is Thomas Check, now connected with the detectives' office. Mr. Check formerly was claim agent in the law department under Judge Henry S. Barker.

GOING TO 'FRISCO.

Chief Fillmore Tyson To Study Great Fire Disaster.

Leave of absence was granted by the Board of Public Safety yesterday to Fillmore Tyson, Chief of the fire department. Chief Tyson will leave Sunday morning for San Francisco, where he goes to study the situation since the disastrous conflagration following the earthquake in that city. Chief Tyson announced soon after the fire that he desired to make the trip. He probably will be absent from Louisville a month or more. During his absence Henry Weatherford, assistant chief of the fire department, will act as chief.

T. H. Morel and Dr. L. P. Spears, of the Health Department, were granted leaves of absence for ten days by the Board of Public Safety.

Permit For School Building.

A permit was taken out yesterday by Caldwell & Drake, contractors, for the erection of the new school for colored children, on Pearl street, between Floyd and Preston. The permit states that the building will cost $43,440, and will be erected on a lot 78 by 142 feet. The building is to be finished within 120 days. The building will contain twelve rooms.

The Board of Public Works yesterday ordered that plans and specifications be made for the construction of brick street on Letterle avenue, a distance of three blocks. The driveway is to be thirty-six feet wide.

BURGLARS ENTER TWO BROADWAY RESIDENCES.

While the family was asleep upstairs, robbers entered the home of J. O. Yenner, 1220 West Broadway, early yesterday morning, and stole two diamond rings belonging to Mr. Yenner's daughter, Miss Emma, which she valued at $250. A small amount of money also was taken. The burglars gained entrance through a window, and went all over the house, even entering the room where one of the family was sleeping. After completing their work at the Yenner home, the thieves raised a window in the home of Mrs. E. Bethel, 1214 West Broadway, near the Yenner home, and ransacked the house. They were unable to find any considerable amount of money, however, taking only a pocketbook containing fifty cents.

NEW DIRECTORS.

Ten Added To Horse Show Association.

NO POSITIVE DECISION TO HOLD SHOW THIS YEAR.

W. J. HOGAN, HOWEVER, EXPECTS STRONG SUPPORT.

OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED.

The principal business transacted at the adjourned meeting of the Louisville Horse Show Association was the election of officers, directors and Executive Committee.

The incumbents were re-elected to the offices as follows: William J. Hogan, president; Sanders P. Jones, vice president, and Bethel B. Veech, secretary-treasurer.

The Nominating Committee, appointed at the last meeting, recommended that the by-laws be amended so as to make the number of directors thirty-five instead of twenty-five. On motion this change was made and the following were elected directors:

W. E. Ambrose, W. J. Abram, M. L. Akers, P. L. Atherton, S. T. Ballard, Charles T. Ballard, Paul C. Barth, W. F. Booker, W. O. Bonnie, J. B. Bowles, A. O. Brand, John B. Castleman, James B. Camp, A. M. Cartledge, J. H. Caperton, W. Newman Clarke, S. A. Culbertson, Frank Fehr, W. E. Glover, Charles F. Grainger, A. T. Hert, W. J. Hogan, L. H. Hudson, G. R. Hunt, Jr.; Lawrence Jones, S. P. Jones, Arthur G. Langham, John C. Lewis, James C. McFerran, John E. Roche, Louis Seelbach, James L. Snyser, John P. Starks, C. S. Tabb, Marion E. Taylor, Bethel B. Veech and George H. Wilson.

The board of directors elected the following Executive Committee at the meeting which immediately followed: Arthur P. Langham, S. A. Culbertson, Lawrence Jones, L. H. Hudson, A. O. Brand, A. M. Cartledge, W. E. Ambrose, W. F. Booker and B. B. Veech.

No definite action was taken to decide whether a show would be held this year, as it was deemed advisable to wait until the communications that had been addressed to members of the Retail Merchants' Association asking cooperation had been heard from. Believing that the merchants of the city would subscribe liberally when the canvass was made, the Executive Committee was empowered to take steps towards securing another building, as it is the decision of the directors that a more satisfactory place should be obtained if possible. In this connection Mr. Hogan announced that he had received a letter from J. B. Camp, secretary of the Coliseum Amusement Company with reference to holding the event in the building to be erected by that company.

A few minor changes were made in the constitution and by-laws. The meeting was presided over by Marion E. Taylor. President Hogan said after the meeting that he felt reasonably sure that a show would be held this year as in former years, but that the directors thought the situation ought to be thoroughly considered before public announcement was made, as the promotion of an affair of the magnitude of the Louisville Horse Show is a very expensive undertaking and involves a great deal of labor.

Mr. Hogan Confident.

"We have received a great many inquiries regarding dates and the prize list, showing that the interest in this local feature is very pronounced," he said. "We also have had a large number of applications for membership, all of which will be acted on as soon as our plans become definite.

"I think more interest is being taking locally than ever before, which augurs well for the future of the association, indicating, as it does, that our friends here at home are taking pride in the Horse Show as a local institution. I believe, therefore, that we will get the support without much difficulty which is necessary to make the undertaking a success.

"The Executive Committee will meet in a day or two and arrange for the canvass, and we are expecting a generous contribution of trophies and a large subscription for season tickets.

"We expect our prize list this year, both in cash and plate, to be very attractive and to induce the entry of some of the finest show horses in the country."
